BEARS SELL RAIL SHARES; WHOLE LIST GOES DOWN

Small Landslide of Offerings Late in Day Cancels Practically All of Previous Day's Gains and Sends Prices to Around Lows for the Decline.

ANOTHER BREAK IN WHEAT PRICES

A Long List of Carriers Drop to New Lows for Periods of From One to 5 Years — Market Quiet —Sales in Last Hour Are Nearly 1,000,000 Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—By persistent prodding at the rail shares, bears managed to pry loose another small landslide of selling late in today's stock market, which cancelled practically all of yesterday's gains, and sent prices down to around the lowest levels yet recorded on the decline. Trading was in moderate volume until the last hour, when about 1,000,000 shares were traded. Even with that, total sales were less than 2,900,000 shares.

A long list of rails dropped to new lows for periods of from one to five years. There appeared little reason for the renewed pressure on this group, for although the first 12 roads to report May net operating income show a drop of about 28 per cent from May, 1929. This is about 6 per cent less than the average decline of Class 1 roads in April. An unsettling factor was another wide-open break in wheat, the July position dropping nearly 4 cents on the Chicago Market, to close to 88 cents, recording another net low since 1913.

Loans on Securities Up.

Rather discouraging today was the condition statement of weekly reporting Federal Reserve member banks, showing an increase of $51,000,000 in loans on securities, as contrasted to a drop of $211,000,000 in brokers loans during the same period. Loans against security collateral are now $1,233,000,000 above last year at this time. "All other" loans, including commercial, and borrowings at the Federal Reserve, however, are off $648,000,000 and $630,000,000, respectively from last year at this time.

Call Money Eases.

Call money dropped to 2 per cent today after renewing at 2½ per cent. It was the first time call loans had touched that figure since March 20, when they renewed at 2 per cent. Time money was dull but easier with 30 to 60 day maturities off ¼ to 2¼ to 2¾ per cent. Other maturities were unchanged.

Preliminary private estimates of steel mill operations this week were much more favorable than anticipated. U. S. Steel is said to be slightly above 71 per cent of capacity, against 72 last week. Independents, however, are close to 61 per cent, against 64 last week, it was said in the estimate.

Southern Railway lost more than 6 points, going to a new low for the past five years. Rock Island and New York Central dropped about 5 to 6 points to the lowest since 1927, and Frisco closed off more than 5, at the lowest since 1926.

U. S. Steel dropped 4 points to 152½, duplicating the year's low. Shares losing 5 to 7 included Allied Chemical, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, Houston Oil, Byers and Brooklyn Union Gas. Atchison and Worthington lost 8, and Eastman 9½. Case sold off 20, and closed off 18½.

In the commodity markets, wheat closed 3⅝ to 3¾ cents lower, and corn more than a cent off. Coton futures lost 45 cents to $1.35 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were generally firm, sterling cables ruling at $4.86, up 3-32 of a cent. The peseta however, again broke sharply.

Stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 11C, 12C and 13C.

Hoover Calls Veterans' Bill 'Just Bad Legislation'

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24.

WHILE Republican leaders in the House pondered what to do, President Hoover today called the World War veterans' relief bill "just bad legislation." The bill, approved 66 to 6 by the Senate yesterday, was being returned to the House while the President denounced it to newspaper correspondents in his office. A caucus of Republican Representatives was called for tonight, at which an effort will be made to offer a substitute measure. "I do not believe the country will support this bill," said Mr. Hoover.

The text of the President's remarks:

In this problem we are dealing with sick and disabled veterans. Except for some marginal cases the Government has long since generously provided for the men whose disabilities arise from the war itself.

These cases before us, except for a comparatively small number of maginal ones, are in reality men disabled from incidents of civil life since the war.

Financially Embarrassing.

The whole matter is one that must be approached in a high sense of justice and utmost sympathy. But this veterans' bill is just bad legislation. It is not more in the interest of veterans than in the interest of the taxpayer. The financial burdens, the amount of which has again been reaffirmed by Gen. Hines, and they were even increased by Senate amendments yesterday, do constitute a serious embarrassment to the Government and to the country, but there are other objections even more serious.

This bill selects a particular group of 75,000 to 100,000 men, makes provision for them in the most wasteful and discriminatory way conceivable and entirely neglects the equal rights to help of over 200,000 more veterans who are likewise suffering from disabilities incurred in civil life since the war.

Furthermore, the very basis of the bill, sets up an untruthful, and, according to our physicians, a physically impossible "presumption" and predicates its action upon this. For instance a man who has served a few days in the army in his home town or in camps, and afterward enjoyed seven to 12 years of good health, then after all that time incurs any affliction, is thereby declared to have a disability due to the war and is to be compensated or pensioned on the same basis as the man who suffered in the trenches and from actual battle. It contains many other discriminations and injustices.

Standards of Subterfuge.

These things violate not only the fact buth the very integrity of Government. It is a sad thing for our Government to set standards of subterfuge to our people. It is unfair to all other veterans who have become disabled in civil life.

It is unfair to the whole spirit of the World War veterans.

There are emergency and marginal cases which I have insisted should be cared for and which will be care for, and there is the additional necessity for us to study the broader subject exhaustively before we plunge.

The American Legion presented a bill designed for emergencies which has had the earnest support of many administration members, but their views have been overridden. The sensible thing is either to take care of these emergencies of marginal cases and then soberly determine future action, or alternatively, to make the beginnings of sound action now on such foudation as will contribute to the ultimate settlement of the problem with real justice to veterans and with generosity in solution for the future.

Such action can be taken within our present financial resources and I believe the nation would support that.

I do not believe the country will support this bill.

POPE PIUS XI SERIOUSLY ILL; IN SEVERE PAIN

Pontiff Victim of Toxic Condition Developing From a Long-Standing Ailment.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, June 24.—Pope Pius XI was reported today suffering severely from an acute bladder trouble, with reported symptoms of toxic poisoning.

The Pope, who is 73 years old, is known to have had some illness of this nature for a considerable time. Today's reports said his condition was aggravated by participation in the long ceremonies of canonization on Sunday.

It is understood that doctors had effected a drainage before Sunday's rites, which relieved the patient considerably and enabled him to make a vigorous appearance. The reaction, it is said, set in after a series of audiences which he gave today.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. CITED FOR ABANDONING CAR LINE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 24.—A complaint against the St. Louis Public Serevice Co., for discontinuing its Fourth Street line, without consent of the Missouri Public Service Commission, was initiated by the commission today, on its own motion, following filing of a protest by persons affected by the change. The commission ordered a hearing at City Hall in St. Louis, July 9.

The company abandoned the Fourth street line, last Sunday, and rerouted the Compton and Tower Groves lines, to serve part of the territory traversed by the Fourth street lines. Car riders filed protests to the commission that the changes deprived them of service.

The commission stated the company had "ceased to furnish sufficient and adequate servict" on parts of the Fourth and Tower Grove lines, without applying to or receiving authority from the commission for the abandonment of service. This was declared to be a violation of the rules and regulations made by the commission and the provisions of the commission law.

The company was ordered to have representatives at the hearing.

SENATE EXPECTED TO OVERRIDE VETO OF VETERANS' BILL

Treasury Estimates Cost at $102,000,000 After Revision of Relief Measure.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A Presidential veto awaits the World War veterans' relief bill passed by the Senate yesterday by a vote of 66 to 6, and it is almost equally certain that the measure will be passed over the veto.

As passed by the House, it is estimated by the Treasury that the bill would cost $181,000,000 in the first year of its operation. The Senate version reduces this, according to the Treasury's figures, to $102,000,000. Advocates of the bill on the floor of the Senate yesterday asserted that the cost would be $74,000,000.

The American Legion is urging that the House accept the Senate amendments that the measure may be put through without delay.

"I know the Senate will not adjourn until this bill is passed," said Senator Watson, the Republican leader, just before the final vote in the Senate, "and you could not drive the House out of Washington until it provides pension legislation."

G. O. P. Stalwarts With Hoover.

The vote in the Senate saw only six Republican stalwarts upholding the President in his appeal for modification of the bill. These were: Bingham and Walcott of Connecticut; Gillett, Massachusetts; Hastings, Delaware; Reed, Pennsylvania, who vainly tried to get through an amendment acceptable to the President, and Watson, Indiana.

In addition, Moses of New Hampshire and Grundy of Pennsylvania were paired against the bill. Smoot of Utah, though he did not vote, also was against it.

The "young turks," ordinarily supporters of the administration, deserted the President almost to a man. In this group were such Senators as Allen of Kansas and Vandenberg of Michigan.

Back of the overwhelming vote for the bill in the Senate was a variety of motives. There was fear of offending the veterans on the eve of an election; there was a desire to swat the administration; there was a genuine belief on the part of some Senators that the

STATE'S ATTORNEY AND POLICE TAKE DIFFERENT CLEWS IN LINGLE MURDER

County Prosecutor, Who Is Working With Tribune, Seeks Man With No Criminal Record Who Fits Description of Slayer.

VICTIM HAD CALLED ABOUT GAMING RAID

Officer Refused to Talk to Reporter About Arrest of Gamblers Shortly Before Reporter Was Assassinated.

By JOHN T. ROGERS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 24.—While the Chicago police, with a great blare of trumpets, are hunting one group of gangsters on suspicion of having a hand in the assassination of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter and associate of "Scarface Al" Capone, investigators of State's Attorney Swanson's office are quietly concentrating search on an entirely different clew.

James (Red) Forsythe, alias Fawcett, hoodlum gambler, is the man being sought by police as the suspected slayer. The fact that "Red" disappeared from his known haunts after the killing of Lingle, police say, strengthens their suspicion that he was the killer. They ignore the fact as unimportant that hundreds of gunmen suddenly took vacations from Chicago in the big roundup of known gangsters after the killing.

On the other hand, the State's Attorney's men, in whose ability to detect the slayer the Tribune places its hope, do not believe Forsythe had any connection with the killing and are seeking another man, one who has no criminal record they know of in Chicago, but who exactly fits the description of the killer as given by witnesses to the crime.

Killers Seldom Found.

It is the history of Chicago gang killings that police, except in rare instances, have failed utterly in tracking down the killers. The invariable procedure is to name some gangster as the killer, promise his apprehension in 24 hours, then pick him up and apply for a warrant. In such cases they rarely have any tangible evidence and a warrant is refused, of course, whereupon the police broadcast this proper refusal as lack of co-operation by prosecuting officials. The next move by police is to drop the case in hand and jump to another, for there are fresh killings almost daily in Chicago.

But they are put to a real test of their skill in the Lingle case which has a gallery that cannot be dismissed by a wave of the hand and the old-time alibi of noncooperation by prosecuting officials. Acting Commissioner of Police Alcock, who has an excellent record and who was appointed to succeed Russell, the demoted Commissioner, has stated it will require about five years to reorganize and place the Police Department on an efficiency basis. He ought to know, and his statement is an admission that the City of Chicago has been at the mercy of the underworld.

It is not strange, then, that the Tribune went to State's Attorney Swanson for a solution of the Lingle murder mystery. The State's Attorney opened a downtown headquarters in the loop, placing Patrick Roche, a skilled investigator, in charge to deal with this crime. The Tribune, which has loaned one of its attorneys to aid Roche, is defraying the expenses of that unit and will maintain it until the mystery of Lingle's assassination is cleared up.

Shakedown Inquiry, Too.

Once the murderer has been apprehended, an exhaustive investigation of Lingle's dealings with gamblers will be conducted. This inquiry, it is said, is likely to involve a group of young men who have been "shaking down" gamblers on promises of protection from the police, the State's Attorney and from newspaper exposure.

One phase of the case upon which police and investigators for State's Attorney Swanson are agreed is that Lingle was killed by a gangster in the organization of George (Bugs) Moran. This information was first published in the Post-Dispatch. And the accepted theory of police and other investigators is that Lingle was slain in reprisal for having

PLANE RADIOS ALL'S WELL, 600 MI. OFF NEWFOUNDLAND IN IRELAND-TO-U. S. FLIGHT

NEEDLESS NOISE ORDINANCE IS PASSED, 18 TO 8

Provides Fine of $10 to $50 for Each Offense—With Emergency Clause It Takes Effect When Signed

An anti-noise ordinance describing various types of "unnecessary" noise and providing a fine of from $10 to $50 for each violation was passed by the Board of Aldermen today by a vote of 18 to 8 with an emergency clause under which it would become effective immediately upon being signed by the Mayor.

Aimed particularly at apparatus used in construction operations such as pneumatic tools, steam hoists and steam shovels, the ordinance forbids the use of such apparatus between the hours of 10 p. m. and 7 a. m. except by special permission of the Board of Public Service and a showing that an emergency exists.

Under the ordinance, it is forbidden "to beat or strike any pan, pail or other like article, sound any gong or play any whistle or horn other than a musical instrument when used as part of a band of music, except to give necessary signals."

Sirens Included In Bar

Unnecessary noises by street cars and other vehicles; loud cries to sell goods or gain passengers, and the sounding of sirens, whistles and gongs except on police and fire apparatus are specifically forbidden. Radios and other musical devices cannot be used on the streets for advertising purposes between 9 p. m. and 7 a. m. and heavy metal transported through the streets "shall be loaded so as not to disturb the peace and quiet."

The "anti-noise ordinance takes no cognizance of the miniature golf courses against which complaint has been made by citizens who say they are kept awake by the cries of early-morning players.

Another ordinance, introduced by Alderman Eilers today, would forbid the operation of such courses between midnight and 7 a. m., would require a $40 fee for inspection by the Department of Public Safety, and would limit their operation to commercial, industrial and unrestricted districts.

To Expediate Improvements

The Board also passed, by a unanimous vote, the bill authorizing the sale of $22,000,000 worth of benefit assessment bills in condemnation cases at 95 cents on the dollar to Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., Inc., investment bankers, in order to expedite completion of street openings and widenings and other improvements.

A report by the Ways and Means Committee which recommended the filing of Alderman Kralemann's bill to lease space on the ground floor of the new Civil Courts Building for the use of the blind to establish a cigar stand was accepted by the board. The bill had been introduced in an effort to provide a place in the new building for Ed Lampe, blind cigar dealer, who has operated a stand in the old Courthouse for several years.

A resolution urging the Police Board to amend its regulations to permit policemen to go coatless or adopt a cooler uniform in hot weather was introduced by Alderman Riefling and unanimously approved.

BOSTON, June 24.—Hornets are interfering with the gas buoys off Cape Ann and Nauset, Cape Cod. The buoys were extinguished recently by the insects that crept under the hoods and lenses.

Recently the captain of the steamer Camden reported that the Cape Ann gas buoy was not burning and a lighthouse tender was sent down to relight it. Upon opening the hood hundreds of hornets flew out and the First Officer of the tender was stung severely before he could cover up.

ATLANTIC FLYERS TO FIND THICK WEATHER DOWN COAST TO NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.

CAPT. KINGSFORD-SMITH will have thick weather all the way down the coast to New York City from Newfoundland, Dr. James H. Kimball, Weather Bureau meteorologist, said today.

He said the Southern Cross would have unfavorable weather for landing at New York if it arrived in the early morning, but that conditions should improve during the day.

Dr. Kimball said Kingsford-Smith would not strike the real fog bank until about the fortieth meridian, 700 miles east of Cape Race. From there on it probably will be blind flying all the way, with rain squalls and fresh to strong head winds.

Fire on the seventh floor of a nine-story building on the northeast corner of Washington avenue and Sixteenth street, occupied by the Missouri Hat Co., today caused damage to stock estimated by the manager, Harry Tenzier, at between $5000 and $10,000.

The blaze broke out about 9:30 o'clock on a floor on which 20 employes were at work. An overheated electric iron is thought to have been the cause.

10,000 Cheer Aviators on Takeoff in Southern Cross—This Journey of 3364 Miles Has Not Yet Been Made.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The New York Times radio station at Halifax, N. S., overheard the westward-bound monoplane Southern Cross reporting its position at 1:15 p. m. (12:15 p. m. St. Louis time), as 50 degrees 30 minutes north latitude, 36 degrees west longitude. The 1:15 position is on the course Capt. Kingsford-Smith set for himself. The plane had traveled approximately 336 miles from its position at 10 a. m., at an average speed of 102 miles an hour.

This would indicate a subsidence of the dreaded head winds which hampel planes bound westward over the North Atlantic and raised hopes for an earlier arrival here than had been forecast. If the position given was correct, the plane was only about 600 miles from Cape Race, Newfoundland.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The National Broadcasting Co. announced at 4:45 p. m. tha tit had heard the airplant Southern Cross talking to a Norwegian steamer and informing it that it expected to reach Cape Race, Newfoundland, about 11 p. m. tonight.

LONDON, June 24. — Messages from the Southern Cross said it had flown through fog from 3:15 p. m. to 4:20 p. m. (9:15 to 10:20 a. m. St. Louis time), and that soon thereafter the fog disappeared.

The following message was received from the Southern Cross: "Latitude 51.20 north, longitude 29 west. Steering 261. True speed 100 miles an hour. 3 p. m. Greenwich meridian time. 990 miles from Cape Race." (About 1200 from Dublin).

The message indicated that the plane was on a true course toward Newfoundland and had practically completed the first half of the overwater stretch between Ireland and Cape Race

S. S. PENNLAND, June 24.—The steamship Pennland sighted the trans-Atlantic plane Southern Cross in latitude 50.57 north and longitude 28.32 west at 2:50 p. m. Greenwich meridian time (9:50 a. m. St. Louis time). The Southern Cross was bearing to the north of the Pennland and was flying into a 15-mile-an-hour west wind. There were misty patches.

BALDONNEL AIRDROME, Ireland, June 24.—The Southern Cross with its four occupants, at 7:55 a. m. today, St. Louis time, was nearing the 1000-mile mark of its trans-Atlantic journey, flying 105 miles an hour at a height of 2000 feet, with all on board in cheerful spirits. The ship kept in constant touch with Baldonnel by wireless since taking off at 4:27 a. m. today (9:27 p. m. St. Louis time, Monday.)

The fliers passed through bitterly cold atmosphere. Their messages marked the increase of their speed in two hours from 82 miles an hour to 105 miles an hour, with prospects of further acceleration as their fuel load lightened.

Up to that time the plane had averaged a little more than 88 miles an hour since its departure from Port Marnock.

UNEMPLOYMENT AID BILLS LIKELY TO DIE IN HOUSE

Republican Leaders Refuse to Permit Vote on Measures of Senator Wagner, Democrat.

NEW YORK G. O. P. LEADING OPPOSITION

Unwilling to Let Tammany Man Have Credit for Legislation — Up to Longworth and Snell.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24. — The Wagner bill to establish Federal aid employment exchange agencies throughout the country as an aid in preventing unemployment was amended and favorably reported to the House Judiciary Committee today by a subcommittee. Chairman Graham immediately called a meeting of the full committee for tomorrow to consider the revised Senate bill.

Congressman Dyer of Missouri, ranking Republican member of the committee and chairman of the subcommittee, said the subcommittee changes would in no way affect the intent of the bill.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 24. — The three unemployment relief bills drafted by Senator Robert Wagner (Dem.), New York, and passed by the Senate several weeks ago are threatened with death in the House through the refusal of Republican leaders to permit them to be voted on.

Senator Wagner has declared publicly that President Hoover will be responsible if the bills fail, because the House leaders usually are amenable to his wishes. There is evidence, however, that partisan rivalry in New York State is exercising an influence in the situation, New York Republicans being unwilling that a New York Democrat shall receive the credit for measures to relieve unemployment.

One of the bills—and the most important—is virtually certain not to reach a vote in the House at this session. It provides for the establishment of a nation-wide chain of unemployment agencies, supported and operated jointly by the Federal Government and the respective states. Attacked bitterly by the National Manufacturers' Association and other interests whom Wagner accuses of wishing to "maintain a standing reservoir of hungry men and women," it has been referred to a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee, from which it is not expected to emerge.

Legislative Situation.

Of the two remaining, one would provide for the prompt collection and publication of statistics on employment and business conditions, and the other would authorize the formation of an emergency plan of public works on a great scale, to be released whenever unemployment warrants.

The legislative situation is such that these two measures can be passed either under a suspension of the rules, or whenever the Rules Committee chooses to let the House vote on them. However, Speaker Longworth has declared that he will not permit them to be considered under a suspension, and Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee thus far has withheld his consent to a vote.

Snell is one of the outstanding Republican leaders in New York State, and Senator Wagner, author of the measures, is one of the Democratic leaders. Enactment of the bills undoubtedly would enhance the political prestige of Wagner and the Tammany organization, to which he belongs.

Unacceptable Changes.

As a matter of fact, the House Judiciary Committee, which reported the statistical and public works planning bills, made changes in them that are unacceptable to Wagner, which might produce a deadlock in conference if they should pass the House.

The public works bill was so amended that the President and his advisers could use their discretion about setting up the plan, whereas in its original form it was made mandatory on him to create the plan immediately.

Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, declared that this reduced the measure to "a mere gesture," since the plan might never be formulated under the House provision.

It is obvious that unless Snell soon consents to a vote, or unless Longworth recedes from his opposition to a vote under suspension of the rules, the bills will be dead for the session.

SAYS BROKER FORGED EXCHANGE SEAT SALE

Brother-in-Law of H. R. Ryder Testifies Signatures in Deal Are Not His.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Charles L. Woody Jr. testified today at a bankruptcy hearing that signatures purporting to be his on documents given by his brother-in-law and brokerage partner, Harold R. Ryder, were forgeries.

The documents transferred to Frank Bailey, head of a financial house, the Stock Exchange seat held by Woody & Co., and give promise of payments of $25,000 a month on an account Bailey had with the firm. Ryder, whose alleged theft of the firm's assets caused its failure, is under an indictment charging grand larceny.

Frank Bailey, chairman of a financial house, who has been said to have received $1,000,000 from Ryder during the last year, explained that Ryder had bought stocks for his account, but failed to deliver them. Charged with sharp practice, Ryder promised to pay him $25,000 a month until the account was cleared, Bailey testified. He said $125,000 had been paid in cash and that other securities had been given him. Bailey said he had faith in Ryder and had refused an offer of Ryder's wife to turn over her jewelry to him as part payment.

Less than $1000 in assets of the firm were found when it collapsed, and liability of more than $2,000,000 existed.

CHAMPAGNE-LADEN CRUISER CRIPPLED; ITS CREW MISSING

By the Associated Press.

CAPEMAY, N. J., June 24.—A jagged hole in its port side and its crew missing, the Daisy T., a 45-foot cruiser, was found yesterday in Delaware Bay, midway across the bay from Cape May.

The cruiser was launched at a New York shipyard last week, coast guards here said. Divers who examined the craft expressed the opinion it had been rammed by a liquor theft vessel. They reported finding more than 100 cases of champagne aboard the cruiser.

Ship bags filled with clothing led investigators to think the cruiser carried a crew of six. They have not learned whether the crew escaped on the raft or perished.

MOTHER AND 3 CHILDREN FOUND DEAD FROM POISON

By the Associated Press.

ALHAMBRA, Cal., June 24. — Mrs. Edward Proctor, 40 years old and her three children are dead today from poison administered, police believe, by the woman. Autopsies have been ordered to determine the poison used.

Adeline, 5, and Eddie, 3, died yesterday before a physician called by the father could arrive. Mrs. Proctor died last night and James, 6, today. Proctor said his wife had been ill and attempted to end her life by gas a week ago. He said she had found love letters written to him by another woman and had threatened suicide because of them.

A note left by Mrs. Proctor to her husband said: "I loved you more than anything in the world —that's why I'm going."

This Is Probably About What Entire Nation Will Show.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Sampling every section except the fast-growing Southwest, the first 13 states reporting in the 1930 census showed a 12.9 per cent increase over their 1920 populations.

This figure probably is a close approximation of the rate at which the United States is growing. The increase in the previous decade was 14.9 per cent, and some slowing up might be expected from the immigration restriction of the last decade.

However, California, not included in the count, anticipates a total population of about 5,675,000, a 65.5 per cent increase, and Texas is looking toward the 6,000,000 mark, which would mean a 25 per cent increase.

Shifting in Rank.

These two states seem certain to cause some shifting in the ranks of the Big Ten, ranged in 1920 as follows: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Massachusetts, Michigan, California, Missouri and New Jersey.

With a count of 5,562,654 for all but three counties, California is certain to pass Massachusetts, whose 1930 population was 4,364,972.

Texas may vie with Ohio, but cannot hope to outdistance Illinois, already secure in third place with 7,630,283, a 17.6 per cent increase, the highest thus far officially reported.

New York and Pennsylvania had enough lead 10 years ago to be certain of the first and second places they have held so many years. New York took the lead in 1820. Pennsylvania has ranked second in all census years from first to last with the exception of 1810 and 1820 when it ranked third. Illinois took third place 40 years ago.

Reports of 13 States.

The 13 states thus far reported, which, with the District of Columbia, aggregate 24,825,246, a combined gain of 2,842,313 over their 1920 population of 21,982,933, were:

Illinois, 7,630,283, increase 17.6 per cent.

Massachusetts, 4,364,972, increase 13.3 per cent,

Iowa, 2,268,747, increase 2.6 per cent.

West Virginia, 1,729,287, increase 11.3 per cent.

Connecticut, 1,602,813, increase 16.1.

Washington, 1,557,540, increase 14.7.

Nebraska, 1,386,619, increase 6.9.

Colorado, 1,033,156, increase 9.9.

Rhode Island, 685,017, increase 13.3.

North Dakota, 681,273, increase 5.3.

Utah, 502,640, increase 11.8.

District of Columbia, 485,716, increase 11.0.

New Hampshire, 460,325, increase 4.1.

Delaware, 236,858, increase 6.2 per cent.

Additional census figures follow:

Minneapolis (revised), 464,674, increase 84,092 or 22 per cent.

Asheville, N. C., 50,160, increase 21,565, or 75.9 per cent.

Torrington, Conn. (revised), 26,112, gain of 4057, or 18.39 per cent.

URGES CHANGE IN LAWS ON LIQUOR'S USE IN MEDICINE

Dr. W. G. Morgan, New President, Says Medical Association Must Not Enter Dry Fight.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., June 24.—The medical profession was challenged to "decisive action" in obtaining "radical changes" in the Volstead act, in an address of Dr. William Gerry Morgan, Washington, new president of the American Medical Association, in annual session here.

"It is our bounden duty to urge strenuously upon Congress that there be a radical change in those parts of the Volstead act which forbid the practitioner from following his trained judgment in his ministry to the patient," said Dr. Morgan. "Such a prohibition, in my judgment, is a reproach to our profession."

Dr. Morgan emphasized he was not taking sides in the prohibition controversy. Nor could the American Medical Association enter the controversy, he said, since physicians, as well as laymen, have varying views.

His plea, he said, applied only to specific provisions of the Volstead act governing prescriptions. His appeal was to "professional devotion" to the "untrammeled ministry of the physician." He urged the House of Delegates of the Medical Association to take action in behalf of views which, he said, were held by a majority of the country's physicians. He quoted a questionnaire in which 51 per cent of 30,843 physicians had voted whisky a "necessary" therapeutic agent in the practice of medicine.

The three phases of the Volstead act to which he objected were: The clause forbidding a physician prescribing more than a pint of sripituous liquor in any 10 days; the supplementary act forbidding the physician from prescribing in any like period any vinous liquor containing more than 24 per cent alcohol, and the requirement that upon the stub of the prescription shall be written the disease of the patient —"with the accompanying right of inspection of it by some roving Federal agent."

He charged that Congress, in thus framing the Volstead act, had "wholly departed" from a "solemn declaration" to the states that the prohibition amendment would not authorize any interference with the use of alcohol in the practice of medicine.

In asking "imperative" action rather than "academic" discussion, Dr. Morgan cited a Supreme Court decision in which, he declared, the views of the American Medical Association on the prohibition question, as expressed in a 1917 resolution, had been misinterpreted. That resolution, which stated the "use of alcohol as a therapeutic agent should be discouraged" was followed by others, he pointed out, strongly protesting against Congressional limitation of physicians' prescriptions.

600 Mi. Off New Foundland On Ireland-U. S. Flight

Charles Kingsford Smith, J. W. Stannage, radio operator; M. E. Van Dyk, assistant pilot, and Capt. J. T. Saul, navigator, were in gay spirits as was indicated by their many messages picked up here and in London and by ships at sea.

The sky was slightly overcast, but conditions seemed favorable for a first flight across the North Atlantic to the United States which attempt already has taken the lives of many flyers and several women. Undeterred by these tragedies Kingsford Smith flooded the air with cheerful messages.

"Slightly overcast," said a message picked up in London at 1:15 p. m. "Ocean like mill pond. Traveling 100 miles an hour. If conditions were like this always, ocean flying would be easy."

It was cold, high up there over the Atlantic, but the flyers were dressed for it and their messages showed no loss of zest for their great adventure.

"Shooting suns and things!" said one message received shortly after 10 o'clock. "Gee, icy cold outside. I bet Van and Smith are feeling it. We are all wrapped up like polar explorers, but it is still pretty nippy."

Left Coast at 11:15 p. m.

The Southern Cross left the Irish coast at 11:15 p. m. St. Louis time and then sped westward over the great circle course on a line toward Cape Race.

The takeoff was made gracefully. Although loaded to capacity with gasoline, the big ship raced 1000 yards down the runway and then rose gracefully. It circled Port Marnock, seven miles northeast of Dublin, once, and then turned westward toward Galway and the ocean.

Ten thousand spectators witnessed the departure, cheering as the plane left. Among those present were Governor-General MacNeil, United States Minister Frederick A. Sterling and Mrs. Sterling and others.

For a half hour before the start of the plane its engines roared so loudly that conversation was impossible. Hand shaking and gestures alone marked the farewell around the craft. One incident moved the crowd, this was when Saul, a widower, kissed his little 8-year-old daughter and his fiancee, Miss Marchant, good-by.

In High Spirits.

The flyers were in high spirits at the start and they shouted gaily their instructions to each other. Stannage, the radio operator, entering the cabin of the plane, excited laughter when he leaned from the cabin window and called above the roar of the motor for one last drink. He was handed a bucket of water from which he took a long draught.

Saul joined him in the cabin and the door was sealed with a strip of sticking plaster. Capt. Kingsford-Smith and Van Dyk walked around the machine with Saorstat officers and in a few minutes themselves climbed into the cockpit.

As the machine started down the runway an ambulance raced with it so that in the event of an accident prompt aid could be given

The take-off was perfect, however. For a minute the craft crew out over the sea and then passed back over the field and out of view.

In a final interview before the Southern Cross took off Kingsford-Smith expressed belief that the flight would be successful.

"I am certain of making this flight," he said. "We have taken so many precautions that I don't believe any exist. I have the most accomplished crew that will ever be found and all the elements of success are embodied in the Southern Cross. I hope to be back in Ireland within a month."

Each man has his ration of sandwiches—eggs, cheese and tomato—a quarter of a pound of coffee, and a half pound of chocolate.

Saul and Stannage, in the cabin, will not see the two pilots in the cockpit throughout the flight, if necessary passing them notes by means of a stick. In the event of failure of the engines, Kingsford-Smith believed the empty tanks would keep the plane afloat several hours.

Ahead of the ship at its departure lay a course of 3364 miles, due westward toward Galway and then somewhat to the south toward the coast of Newfoundland, where the route turns southwest to follow the seaboard.

The flyers expected a trip of about 34 hours, which would bring them to New York at about 8:27 a. m. (7:27 St. Louis time) Wednesday. The tanks were filled with 1298 gallons of gasoline—two gallons less than capacity in order to escape the unlucky numeral 1300 —which would be sufficient for 38 hours' flight. Capt. Kingsford-Smith considered the margin sufficient for all contingencies.

Kingsford-Smith planned to follow the northern great circle as far as Cape Race, traveling therefore about 1900 miles before sighting land. It was estimated that this stage of the journey would take about 23 hours.

Would Refuel in Air.

Should the head winds retard the plane, Kingsford-Smith said before he left he might send out a message seeking assistance in refueling in the air between Cape Race and New York. This has never been tried on a trans-Atlantic flight.

Stannage intended throughout the flight to keep in touch with the outside world and to keep it informed of the plane's progress. He is operating on a 33.3-meter short wave transmission and is using a Morse code. When he speaks to shipping, however, it will be with a 600 to 800 meter long wave transmission. His call sign is VWZAB.

If Kingford-Smith's flight is successful he will give up venturesome long distance attempts and marry Miss Mary Powell, 24-year-old Irish girl of Melbourne, Australia, whom he met a year ago on a boat going to Australia from Vancouver. Save to a few friends their engagement was not disclosed until a few days ago.

Kingsford-Smith said then that if successful on this trip he would never fly the Southern Cross again, but would take over the management of a commercial aviation company in Australia in which he and Charles Ulm, a companion in the trans-Pacific flight already are associated.

Kingsford-Smith already is an aviator of more than ordinary achievement. On May 31, 1928, with Ulm, and two Americans, Harry W. Lyon and James Warner, he made a flight to Hawaii, and thence to Australia by way of the Fiji Islands, which when completed June 10 after 7300 miles and about 82½ hours of flying brought him many decorations.

An attempted record flight to England from Australia in March last year almost ended disastrously when the Southern Cross was forced to land in the desolate mud flats of the bush country near Fort George Mission. Twelve days elapsed before the flyers were found.

After reconditioning the Southern Cross, the flyers took off again for England from Sydney, reaching Croydon, London airport, a distance of about 12,000 miles, in 13½ days, exceeding the 16-day record set by Bert Hinkler two years ago.

From the time he reached England, Kingsford-Smith had been planning the trans-Atlantic flight. This flight over, he plans to leave the Southern Cross in the United States and in the fall go to Melbourne to wed.

Flight of Bremen Only Successful West-to-East Attempt.

NEW YORK, June 24.—With only one successful westward airplane crossing of the North Atlantic against eight lives lost in vain attempts, Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three comrades face a formidable obstacle in the law of averages for success in their flight from Ireland to New York.

The lone successful flight was that of the Bremen in which Baron von Hunnefeld, Capt. Herman Koehl and Col. J. C. Fitzmaurice flew from Ireland to Greenley Island, near Labrador, in 1928. The flight took 34 hours and 32 minutes. The fliers had planned to land in New York, but were forced down far off their course.

Westward North Atlantic flights which failed were:

May, 1927—Capt. Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, who hopped off from Paris for New York.

August, 1927—Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, Capt. Leslie Hamilton and Col. E. F. Minchin, who left Upavon, England, for Ottawa, Ont.

March, 1928—Capt. Walter H. G. Hinchliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay who attempted a flight from Cranwell, England, to New York.

In the three foregoing flights all partcipants were never heard from again after the planes had cleared the European coast. In July, 1929, Maj. Leon Idzikowski, a Pole, was killed when an airplane in which he and Maj. Kasimir Kubala were attempting a flight from Paris to New York was forced down in the Azores.

NEWARK, N. J., June 24.—Three banks of flood lights of 25,000,000 candle-power, the most powerful in the United States, will flash at 15-minute intervals tonight at the Newark Airport as a possible aid to Capt. Kingsford-Smith.

Because of poor visibility today and the likelihood of rain or fog tonight in the metropolitan area, Lieut. Richard Aldworth, manager of the airport, ordered the special lights in operation. The lighting unit consists of 12 separate beams.

O. P. ADVISORY OARD SCRATCHES SCHMOLL, GROSSE andidates for Circuit Clerk and License Collector Are Omitted From Recommended Slate.

ITY COMMITTEE TO ACT TONIGHT

ineup Said to Represent Desires of Miller and Koeln, Who Have Patched Up Differences.

The Republican City Committee ill act tonight on the recomendations of a special Advisory ommittee of citizens, which yeserday proposed a slate of candiates for local offices for indorseent for Republican nominations While there were indications tha the City Committee might adop he slate as its own, this will no e without a fight in behalf of Ciruit Clerk Schmoll, candidate t ucceed himself, who did not ge he Advisory Committee indorsement, and there may be a struggle lso for the benefit of City Register Grosse, who wants to be License Collector. The Advisory Committee favored renomination of ollector Chapman.

Mayor Miller is backing Director f Public Welfare Salisbury for ircuit Clerk and the impression ad been created that Miller forces ere for Grosse. The latter situaion, however, is somewhat beclouded because of political maeuverings. Miller and Revenue ollector Koeln, who is seeking reomination, recently came to an nderstanding to end their political ifferences. Chapman has been a oeln lieutenant.

Miller-Koeln Influence.

On the whole, the Advisory Comittee slate is taken to represent he desires of the Miller-Koeln usion. This new alliance repreents the strong wing of the Reublican party here and the other ide consists in part of independnts, the most persistent followers f former Mayor Kiel and other ie-hards. The Republican City Committee set an innovation in stablishing the Advisory Committee and deciding to take a concertd stand as a body for a single late of candidates for nomination. This attitude means, if the committee is strong enough to have its late nominated and in view of the sual Republican majority in the ity, that candidates favored by e committee for nomination are ely to be the ones who take ofice when the new terms open.

If opposition to the Advisory ommittee recommendations beomes too strong, the city commitee may defer action tonight. The dvisory Committee slate follows:

Circuit Clerk—Director of Public elfare Salisbury.

License Collector—Oliver G. hapman, incumbent.

Revenue Collector — Edmond oeln, incumbent.

Clerk of Circuit Court for Crimal Causes—Alderman Hoefle.

Prosecuting Attorney — Associte City Counselor Harry F. Richrds, who won the recent Bar Asociation indorsement.

Circuit Judges—Judges Bader, andwehr, Hall, Hogan and Hartmann, incumbents; Alroy S. Philips, and, for an unexpired term, red J. Hoffmeister. These canidates all won the recent Bar Asociation indorsements.

Make Up Committee.

Chairman Pape of the Republian City Committee will submit the late to the committee tonight. Some candidates who failed of inorsement are charging that the ate was "hand picked" to suit he Miller forces. Several of the Advisory Committee members are rom Mayor Miller's ward, the Twenty-eighth, including the chairan, John B. Edwards, former hairman of the Election Board. Edwards is a member of the Public ibrary Board and a trustee of the olice pension fund by appointment f Miller.

The vote on indorsements in the visory Committee was not made public. Membership of this group was disclosed today for the first ime. Besides Edwards, the peronnel consisted of: Dr. Isaac Lipincott, professor of economic reources at Washington University; Mrs. Clara Pitzmann, 5955 Cabane avenue; Dr. Frank L. Maoon, former Police Commissioner; former Alderman Luke E. Hart, Charles H. Hilmer, auomobile dealer; William Wurdach r., electrical manufacturer; Charles N. Burmeister, automobile ealer; C. W. S. Sammelman, secetary of the Engineers' Club; John H. Kissell, contractor; Edward Raenberg, head of a roofing comany; Louis H. Waltke, capitalist; Albert Levy, attorney; Mrs. A. C. 700 Persons Attend Reception at Philadelphia Home of Bride's Parents.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Miss Mary Todhunter Clark, Cynwyd, and Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, second son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., New York, were married yesterday afternoon in the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Asaph's of Cynwyd, a suburb.

A wedding reception, to which 700 persons were invited was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Clark, the bride's parents, in Cynwyd, and later the newly-wedded pair left on a honeymoon around the world. On their return they will go to the Rockefeller estate, Pocantico Hills, at Tarrytown, N. Y., where they will occupy a new home built for them by the bridegroom's father.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Benjamin N. Bird, rector of the church. The ceremony of the new Episcopal prayer book was used, in which the word "obey" does not appear. One ring was used.

Mrs. Robert Page Jr. and Mrs. Philip Wallis, sister of the bride, were matrons of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Gwendolyn Roberts and Miss Eleanor Clark, cousins of the bride; Mrs. David Milton, New York, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Laura Wayne, Miss Catherine Clothier and Miss Alice Lippincott, Philadelphia; Miss Genevieve Bell, Pittsburg, and Mrs. Beverly Coleman, Washington.

John D. Rockefeller III was best man and the ushers were Lawrence and Winthrop Rockefeller, brothers of the bridegroom; John French Jr., Thatcher Brown Jr., William Alton and Lawrence Dickey, all of New York; Stacey B. Lloyd Jr., and William Cochran, Baltimore, Md., and Percy H. Clark Jr., and George Clark, brothers of the bride.

Rockefeller, who was recently graduated from Dartmouth College, will be 22 years old on July 8, while the bride was 23 last Tuesday. She is a graduate of Foxcroft School, Leesburg, Va., and after her graduation she took a degree at The Sorbonne, Paris.

The bride was attired in a gown of ivory duchesse satin made with a high waistline, the skirt falling from a small yoke to the floor. The formal court train was inserted with a broad panel of rare old lace extending from the shoulders. The waist also had a yoke of the same lace and long satin sleeves. The veil was of ivory tulle trimmed with orange blossoms and calla lilies. The bride carried madonna lilies and white spray orchids.

A list of the wedding presents was not given out, but it is known the bride received from her husband a pin set with several diamonds. Rockefeller's parents gave their daughter-in-law a necklace of matched pearls.

MAN SHOT BY POLICEMAN IN SALOON BRAWL DIES

The policeman, called to quell a disturbance, reported that Angelo ran into a rear room and returned with an ice pick and a hammer. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

FORMER OFFICER OF NATURAL BRIDGE BANK INDICTED

G. A. Lubely, Ex-Vice President and Cashier, Named in Three Charges of Embezzlement.

George A. Lubeley, former vice president and cashier of the Natural Bridge Bank & Trust Co., was indicted by the grand jury today on three charges of embezzlement of the bank's funds. The total shortage resulting from Lubeley's speculations was recently announced as $156,000.

The indictments charge Lubeley with using securities of the bank in obtaining personal loans at other banks. Investigation by the Circuit Attorney's office disclosed 11 instances in which the cashier diverted bank collateral to his own use, but only three cases were cited for the purpose of indictments. Lubeley obtained possession of the securities, it was learned, after the bonds had been used as collateral for loans from other banks. When the loans were paid it was Lubeley's duty to see that the collateral was returned to the Natural Bridge Bank. In place of returning the bonds to his bank, Lubeley used the securities for personal loans.

Specific Instances Cited.

The indictments specify that bonds of $5000 were taken in two instances on March 12, last, and bonds of $7000 on April 11.

Lubeley, who lives at 4550 Holly avenue, was placed under $20,000 bond May 27 pending action by the grand jury. Through his attorney, he has since indicated that he will offer no defense against the criminal charges.

Otto G. Koenig, president of the bank, announced May 19 that Lubely had confessed to him the theft of $45,000 of the bank's bonds, which, Koenig said, Lubeley had used as collateral to obtain money for an outside business venture.

The amount of the shortage rose steadily, until June 13, after the bank had been reorganized with a new president, John C. Tobin, attorney for the bank, disclosed that the total loss was $156,000. Included in this sum were forged notes for $55,000 bearing the name of Lubeley's brother, a priest, and the former cashier's widowed sister-in-law.

Priest's Signature Forged.

The Rev. Joseph F. Lubeley, pastor of Holy Trinity Church, 3519 North Fourteenth street, and Mrs. Ida Uelhof, 1942 East Warne avenue, both have told bank officers that signatures purporting to be theirs on notes in the bank's possession, are forgeries. John H. Aid, a broker, also repudiated the signature purporting to be his on a $4000 note at the bank.

In addition Lubeley overissued 154 shares of stock in the bank, then valued at $150, although its par value was $100. He obtained an undetermined amount of money by means of accommodation notes.

STATE'S ATTORNEY USES OWN CLEWS IN LINGLE KILLING

double-crossed his gambler associates. All officers at work on the case scout the idea that the killing of Lingle was an underworld thrust at the press. They hold to the theory that Lingle, by his strange extra-journalistic proclivities, became a victim of his own folly.

Substantiation of this conclusion is found in an incident connected with the raiding of a West Side gambling club the night of June 6, three days before Lingle was slain.

It was late Friday night when the place was raided, and Lingle, immediately after the raid, endeavored for several hours to reach an officer of the State's Attorney's office at his home on the telephone. The officer's wife talked to Lingle and said, as her husband told her to say, that he was not at home.

Next day Lingle called on this officer and said:

"You got me in a hell of a jam last night by not coming to the telephone. I knew you were at home. I wanted to talk to you about that raid."

Knew What He Wanted.

"I knew what you wanted," the officer told Lingle. "That's why I did not come to the telephone."

He told Lingle at the time that gamblers were dangerous men to deal with and that it would be futile to try to do anything for them in the State's Attorney's office. Lingle spoke contemptuously of the gamblers and walked out.

At 1:30 p. m. Monday, two days later, he was assassinated.

Little credence should be given to reports telegraphed from this city to the effect that the revolver thrown away by the slayer as he fled from the scene was "planted" by him to cast suspicion upon rival gangsters. Investigators for the State's Attorney do not accept this theory. They point out that the obvious reaction of a professional murderer in a crowded street would be to drop his weapon so that if seized in the vicinity this damning proof would not be found.

All evidence points to a carefully laid plan to assassinate Lingle where the deed was committed. No officers ever are stationed in the pedestrian subway where the crime was committed, and it would be a simple thing to dash out of it and be lost in the street crowds above.

Signal on Entering Tunnel.

And there is no doubt that Lingle was "put on the spot," or pointed out as the man to be killed, at that point. All accounts agree that a man waved at him as he entered the subway, calling in a loud voice, "don't forget to bet on Hy Snyder." Lingle waved back and smiled. He was on his way to a train to attend the races.

Immediately after acknowledgment of the "tip" on the horse, two men walked up to Lingle from behind and one of them shot him in the back of the head.

This method of "spotting" a man to be killed is as old as crime itself, and the daring employed gives all the color to be found in an affair of the underworld.

FOSTER DAUGHTER SHARES IN $15,000 HELFERS TRUST

Circuit Judge Sprague Upholds Probate Decision in Favor of Mrs. Henrietta Helfers Backowski.

A foster daughter of the late Henry Helfers Jr., St. Louis hat dealer, has the right to share with his two surviving children in a $15,000 trust bequeathed by Helfers' father on condition that he have "heirs of the body," Circuit Judge Sprague ruled today.

The case came into Circuit Court upon the mother's appeal, on behalf of her two children, from a Probate Court decision in favor of the foster-daughter. Mrs. Helfers' attorney announced he would appeal Judge Sprague's decision, which was delivered on the close of testimony.

Henry Helfers Sr., who died in 1907, left the fund for his son on condition that if he died without issue, the inheritance was to revert to a brother.

Because his wife had been told by physicians that it was unlikely that she would be a mother, Henry Helfers Jr. adopted a month-old girl and reared her as his own. Subsequently Mrs. Helfers had three children of her own, two of whom survive.

In Probate Court, Judge Holtcamp held that the adopted daughter, Mrs. Henrietta Helfers Backowski, of 4128 Utah street, should share equally with the two children of the blood. However, the mother, Mrs. Clara Helfers, appealed to the Circuit Court in behalf of her children, George and Celeste Helfers, both of whom are minors.

In the current hearing Mrs. Backowski has denied that she was told she had been adopted, while her foster mother has insisted that both she and her husband apprised the girl of her status as soon as other children were born.

Mrs. Helfers was questioned today by Judge Sprague about an affidavit she had signed after her husband's death to the effect that Mrs. Backowski was her own child. Mrs. Helfers declared she had signed the affidavit without realizing its contents.

The estate is held by Lucas L. Bergfeld as trustee and curator under the will of Henry Helfers Sr. Bergfeld said today that, regardless of Judge Sprague's decision, there would remain a question as to the rights of another adopted child whose present whereabouts are unknown.

MAN STRUCK BY TRUCK DIES OF A FRACTURED SKULL

Joseph O'Donnell, employed at Sacred Heart Convent, 2900 Meramec street, died today at City Hospital of a fractured skull suffered at 6:15 a. m. when struck by a truck as he attempted to cross Meramec in the 3100 block.

Murlin Sears, 4512 Chouteau avenue, was the driver of the truck.

Oil Magnate Leaves $10,000,000 For Study of Shakspeare

Fund to Be Used for Maintenance of Museum in Washington—Gift to Be Administered by Amherst Trustees.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The will of Henry C. Folger, who was chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of New York, leaves approximately $10,000,000, a world famous Shakspeare collection and a museum to house it in, as a gift to the United States "for the promotion and diffusion of knowledge in regard to Shakspeare."

The museum building now is under construction in Washington near the Congressional Library. The will places administration of the collection in the hands of the trustees of Amherst College.

In compensation for the service of the trustees, they are directed to take out of the income of the Shakspeare fund and pay to Amherst College one-fourth of the annual net income until such a share amount to $250,000. No matter what the income, a minimum of $100,000 is to be paid the college annually.

Out of the remainder of the income, life annuities totaling $90,000 are to be paid to Mrs. Folger and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Folger. The fund itself is to be maintained by the trustees in an amount not less than $10,000,000 for maintaining the museum, which will be known as the Folger Shakspeare Memorial.

The gift to the nation consists of the entire Folger estate after payment of the following bequests: $50,000 each to Mrs. Mary Folger Wells, a sister, and Stephen L. and Edward P. Folger, brothers; $25,000 each to a nephew and five nieces.

The will directs that within three years the Amherst trustees shall install and establish the Folger collection, which consists of books, pamphlets, documents, art objects and other items relating to Shakspeare, as a permanent library in the Washington building. The library is to be kept open to all students of Shakspeare.

TENT CITY HOUSES TOURIST THRONG AT ICELAND FESTIVAL

Many Living on Liners in Harbor — Reykjavik Accommodations Overtaxed.

By the Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 24. —Tourists from America and Europe swarmed into Iceland today. The harbor was filled with ships bearing visitors to the celebration of the 1000th anniversary of parliamentary government in Iceland. The visitors will use their ships as hotels, because Reykjavik was full of celebrants even before they arrived. Reykjavik today was so full of visitors that hundreds have taken recourse to a tent city on the Tingvellir plain.

Permanent structures at Tingvellir comprise only King Christian's modest residential lodge and another frame homestead, which will be occupied by the Swedish Crown Prince. The tent city, however, includes the postoffice, bank, drug stores, restaurants and other shops.

Festivities will begin with a sermon on the plain by the Bishop of Iceland. The King will open the Alting and there will be receptions to various foreign deputations.

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT AGAINST KAEMMERER MUSIC SHOP

Suit for a receiver for the Kaemmerer Music Shop, 6317 Delmar boulevard, University City, was filed at Clayton today by Morris A. Block, an attorney, who said that he controlled certain shares in the company which sells musical instruments and radios.

The suit charged that the president, Mathew F. Kaemmerer, had diverted $20,000 of the company's assets to his own uses and that the remaining $20,000 assets were endangered by threats of creditors to sue. At Kaemmerer's home it was said that he is out of the city.

Circuit Judge Nolte appointed Warder Rannells, an attorney, temporary receiver pending a hearing next Saturday.

LINDBERGHS MAY NAME BABY CHARLES DWIGHT

Yacht Reported Being Prepared for Cruise; Carriage Gift Rejected.

By the Associated Press.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 24.—Interest in the 7¾-pound son born to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh centers on the choice of a name. Despite the reticence of Lindbergh and members of the Morrow household, it seemed to be taken for granted that the child will be named either Charles Augustus Jr., after his father, or Charles Dwight, a name combining that of his father and his maternal grandfather, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow.

Unofficial word is that Mrs. Lindbergh and the son born on her twenty-fourth birthday are "making satisfactory progress."

A messenger boy toiled up the hill at half-hour intervals all day yesterday, carrying telegrams and cablegrams of congratulation from all parts of the world. Among them were messages from President Hoover, Don Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican Ambassador to Washington, and persons prominent in aviation circles. Flowers and other gifts were delivered in a truck.

A baby carriage manufacturer who attempted to deliver a sample as a gift was turned back at the gate. The Lindberghs, he was told, had not ordered a baby carriage and did not want one.

One newspaper professes to have heard that a shipyard has been ordered to prepare the Lindbergh honeymoon power yacht for a cruise within a month. Reports are that the Lindbergh family plan a cruise as soon as Mrs. Lindbergh is able to travel.

FLIES BLIND FOR 500 MILES, USING A NEW DEVICE

Army Aviator Lands at Muskogee and St. Louis on on Way to Washington, Using New Instrument.

SCOTT FIELD, Ill., June 24.—Capt. William C. Ocker, army aviator making a blind flight from Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., to Washington, landed at Scott Field at 2:10 p. m. today on scheduled time.

Ocker and his companion, Lieut. Crane, refueled and took off for Wright Field, Dayton, O., at 2:30 p. m.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., June 24. —Flying blind for approximately 500 miles with the aid of a newly perfected instrument, Capt. William C. Ocker of the Army Air Corps, hit his objective "on the nose" here today on a test flight from San Antonio, Tex., to Washington.

Ocker took off from Brooks Field, San Antonio, shortly after 5 a. m. in the covered cockpit of an army Douglas observation plane and, without a glimpse of the earth or sky thereafter, piloted his ship directly over Hatbox Field here, his first stop Eastward.

Reaching the objective, Ocker relinquished the controls to Lieut. C. J. Crane, safety pilot, riding in an open cockpit of the plane. The landing was made at 9:29 a. m. They took off again at 10:38 a. m. for Scott Field, Ill., expecting to reach there about 2 p. m.

Ocker said the flight integrator —a model airplane mounted on the instrument board, combining the bank indicator, the turn indicator and the inclinometer—had "worked perfectly."

The integrator, perfected by Capt. Ocker and Lieut. Crane, is designed to relieve the mental strain on pilots flying blind. In experiments at Brooks field, it is said to have reduced vertigo, or dizziness, the cause of most crashes in fog and on stormy nights, by two-thirds.

A canvas lid is fitted over the cockpit in which Ocker sits, cutting off his view of the outside world. In addition to the integrator, he uses other regulation army instruments to guide him.

SENATE EXPECTED TO OVERRIDE VETO OF VETERANS' BILL

bill, while bad in some particulars, nevertheless extended relief to needy cases, there was irritation at the entrance of Mr. Hoover into the fray at the eleventh hour, after the bill had been perfected in committee and was about to come to a vote; there was a not unnatural disbelief in the estimate of Secretary Mellon that the bill would produce a deficit and hence require an increase in taxes.

La Follette Assails Mellon.

This feeling that Mellon was again conjuring up an imaginary wolf for an ulterior purpose ran through a great part of the debate. Senator La Follette in particular stressed the thought that the "greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton" was again putting out unreliable figures. He recalled a Treasury estimate that was off to the tune of $500,000,000.

"I am not the least concerned about thimble-rigged statements that are given out at the psychological moment in order to defeat a piece of genuine relief legislation," shouted the fiery young progressive, and the galleries broke into applause.

The impending elections were the factor of greatest weight. In other circumstances, passage would have been delayed and attention given to the curing of defects which some Senators candidly admitted were in the bill.

The attitude of Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, was characteristic of that of a number of his colleagues.

"I regret," he said, "that a better and more comprehensive plan of relief has not been presented. I think it unfortunate that more time and consideration at an earlier period in the session was not given to this very important measure in order that a definite settled policy might be shaped providing for a sound and equitable plan for the future."

Reed of Pennsylvania, after the failure of his principal amendment, sought without success to prevent the payment of compensation to veterans on account of venereal disease contracted while in the service.

Shortridge Quotes the Bible.

His effort brought from Shortridge of California, in charge of the bill, a Biblical homily.

"I do not forget," said the Californian, "what Saint Paul says to his beloved Timothy, that he, Saint Paul, the sinner of sinners, was forgiven and obtained mercy and great reward. He enjoined upon his beloved son, Timothy, to be forgiven and merciful, and reminded him to be strong in the grace of the Master who is mercy itself."

"Will the Senator from California tell us," interrupted Reed, "whether he gave compensation to his son Timothy for having gone off on a bat?"

"He promised him immortal life," said Shortridge.

"Is not that compensation?"

And so after some further debate the bill was passed.

Move for Compromise Begun.

By the Associated Press.

Administration spokesmen hold but little hope of sustaining the expected veto in the Senate but are more optimistic with regard to the House. A two-thirds vote of both branches of Congress is necessary to override a presidential veto.

A caucus of House Republicans will consider the problem tonight. A move is under way at that end of the Capitol to work out a compromise more suitable to President Hoover in the event of a veto.

Senators Shortridge (Rep.), California, and George (Dem.), Georgia, led the fight for the bill as reported by the Finance Committee and as finally passed. Shortridge said he feared "the man I supported in the White House has been misled" regarding the bill and contested the President's statement that the measure would cost $[illegible],000,000 the first year. He contended it would cost only $[illegible],000,000.

Those voting for the bill were:

Republicans—Allen, Blaine, Borah, Capper, Couzens, Cutting, Dale, Deneen, Glenn, Goldsborough, Hale, Hatfield, Hebert, Howell, Johnson, Jones, La Follette, McCulloch, McMaster, McNary, Metcalf, Norris, Oddie, Patterson, Phipps, Pine, Robinson of Indiana, Robsion of Kentucky, Shortridge, Steiwer, Thomas of Idaho, Townsend and Vandenberg—33.

MINORITY REPORT AGAINST NAVAL PACT RATIFICATION

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, of Minnesota, one of the four who voted against the London Naval pact in the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday, later submitted a minority report stating that his opposition was based on the refusal of President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson to give the committee all the notes exchanged among the Governments before the London conference.

It is the intention of the Senate leaders to defer consideration of the treaty until the special session which President Hoover is prepared to call. However, it is now on the Senate calendar and can be taken up at any time the Senate agrees.

"The material facts pertinent and relevant to the case," said Senator Shipstead, "such as exchange of notes leading up to negotiation, letters, telegrams, diplomatic proceedings and understandings touching the purpose and concrete commitments of the proposed treaty are not laid before the Senate and a request therefor has been refused.

"This admitted concealment of material facts from a contracting party, to wit, the Senate of the United States, appears in law and morals to vitiate the proposed contract. It reduces the document to a gesture on paper—a paper negotiated by advice and consent abroad in lieu of advice and consent of the Senate. Such a paper I am unable to sign on the dotted line.

"I do not attempt to define the scope of the Secretary of State in having confidences abroad. I respect the chivalry which cannot in honor divulge the secrets of his relations with the mistress of the seas."

ARTIFICIAL SUNSHINE TREATMENT FOR COLDS

Cornell Experiments Indicate Ultra-Violet Light Baths Reduce Susceptibility.

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 24.—Ultra-violet light treatment virtually eliminated the usual winter epidemic of colds among 300 young men at Cornell University this year.

A report on the experiment, one of the most extensive ever undertaken, was made public today by Dr. Dean F. Smiley, in charge of student health, who with Dr. George H. Maughan, administered the artificial sunlight.

The most outstanding result, it is said, was the cumulative effect. The protective results seemed to be greatest after the light had been given for months, although at the season when colds are likely to be worst. A few girls who took the light did not begin until months after the boys, and showed much less decrease in colds.

All of those taking the light treatment were taken from the 25 per cent of students especially susceptible to colds, each averaging more than four a year. From Nov. 5 to Jan. 3 the men took one light bath a week, exposing their entire bodies for 15 minutes. In that period their susceptibility to colds apparently was reduced 42½ per cent as compared with a group of students equally liable to colds, who took no light. The treated had 1.15 colds each, against two apiece for the untreated.

In the second period, Jan. 27 to May 1, the artificial sunshiners showed a 58 per cent reduction, 1.01 colds each as against 2.42 for the untreated.

"This 58 per cent reduction," said Dr. Smiley, "is unexpectedly large. We attempted to give the light twice a week during this second period, but some boys did not care to spend that much time and we did not average much more than once a week.

"It should be understood that we do not claim the light would do equally well everywhere. Cornell is in a cloud belt, with less winter sunshine than at some places. It may be where there is more sunshine the light would not show the same results.

"We have not tried the light on the 75 per cent who represent normal cold susceptibility. But some of our studies indicate that the so-called cold epidemics are mostly confined to the 25 per cent of cold susceptibles, and that if we can protect them, there will be no epidemics.

"Only 15 women took the light, not beginning until Jan. 27. They showed a cold reduction of 19.9 per cent."

MAJESTIC RADIO COMPANY RETAINS EX-SENATOR REED

However, Head of Firm Declines to Say Why Missourian Was Engaged.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 24.—James A. Reed, former United States Senator, has been retained as general counsel by the Grigsby-Grunow Co., manufacturers of the Majestic radio, William Grunow, a member of the firm, admitted yesterday, but declined to discuss what work Reed would do. Asked if Reed would prosecute an investigation into the Rariod Trust, he said Reed had been engaged for a particular task, but he was not ready to go into details about it.

The information is more interesting because of the recent "air-scandal," in which a radio station over which the former Senator was attacking the Radio Trust suddenly went off the air because of a mysterious SOS call. Grunow declined to comment on that.

TO PROSECUTE CUBAN DOCTOR

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, June 24.—Miss Shirley Baron, Bayonne, N. J., who discovered after a three-day honeymoon with the wealthy Dr. Nunez Carrion, Santiago de Cuba, that her marriage with him was a fake, will remain in Cuba and prosecute the Cuban physician, it was learned today. She had said she would go home yesterday, but later changed her mind on the advice of the American Consul General. Meanwhile Dr. Nunez Carrion had been arrested on charges filed by her.

Miss Baron, who is a buyer of ladies' ready-to-wear, arrived in Havana Tuesday, met Dr. Carrion, and Wednesday night went through an alleged "fake" wedding with him after a round of the cabarets.

HINDU LEADERS TO IGNORE REPORT OF SIMON BOARD

Insist Independence Campaign Will Be Stiffened — Never Expected Anything Favorable.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, June 24.—Leaders of the civil disobedience campaign, by which Indian Nationalists are striving to gain independence, declared today that the recommendations of the Simon Commission on Statutory and Constitutional Reform would stiffen their movement. They consider that it meets none of the Swarajist, or home-rule, demands.

As part of their boycott of the Simon Commission from its inception, Nationalist leaders officially ignored the report, but actually they considered its recommendations in the most minute details. Even Mahatma Gandhi, in prison at Poona, received a copy of the recommendations from the Government, according to newspaper accounts.

As part of the plan to ignore the Simon Commission, the leaders said there would be no processions of protest or mass meetings anywhere, but that there would be a gradual increase in the Nationalist resistance movement in all centers where passive resistance is now being carried on.

Never Expected Anything.

"We are not in the least disappointed, as we never expected anything in our favor," V. J. Patel, former Speaker of the Indian Legislative Assembly, who resigned at the beginning of the civil resistance movement, said to the Associated Press.

"We expected a long fight in the first place," he said, "and it is now clear that we will struggle for months, perhaps for years."

And then, with a smile, "Of course, I am supposed to ignore the recomendations, but as a matter of fact I have been poring over the details for the last two hours.

"There is absolutely nothing in them that would begin to satisfy most Indians, no matter to what party they belong. Our boycott of the Simon commission is now fully vindicated. No member of the all-India National Congress will care to consider the recommendations for a moment. There is no suggestion of an immediate grant of freedom anywhere.

Insist on Independence.

"In fact the recommendations will stiffen our attitude throughout the country and nothing will satisfy us now except complete independence. Some would have been satisfied with dominion status, but their attitude has stiffened too, and now they will fall in line with the majority."

The tone of Nationalist comment on the recommendations of the commission was demonstrated in the Bombay Chronicle which labeled its story "an atrocious document."

"It will go down in history as the outstanding example of melancholy meanness in one nation's treatment of another," the paper declared.

The Times of India, British owned, said: "The recommendations naturally won't satisfy every Indian political mind, but it will be wise to consider some of them a good deal before attempting anything like final judgment on them." The Times emphasized that the recommendations do not decide the future of the constitution but were put up for discussion.

Disappointment Expressed in Indian Political Circles and Press.

By the Associated Press.

SIMLA, India, June 24.—India's reaction to the second and all important section of the Simon Commission recommendations today was marked disappointment expressed in political circles and the Indian press.

Chaudhri Zafarullah Khan, leading member of the Punjab Simon Committee, said in an interview:

"I must confess the report is a great disappointment. The proposals of the Simon Commission as regards the army disclose the real intention of the commission that India should at no stage in its history be a self-governing dominion.

"It is perfectly clear that this report cannot form the basis of discussions for the round table conference."

Allahabad, chief Liberal organ, says the report is "repellant and repulsive and must be cast away."

C. Y. Chintamani, former Minister of the United Provinces and a prominent Hindu politician, says the commission's recommendations call for instant repudiation on behalf of His Majesty's Government.

British Press Favorable: "Most Hopeful Advance," Says London Times.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 24.—The British press as a whole received the rereport of the Simon Commission favorably, although saying that the recommendations called for close study.

The Times remarked that the recommendations probably would be profoundly altered by the time they have gone through the roundtable conference, joint committee of both Houses of Parliament, and parliamentary debates. The paper got a "broad impression that the committee's conclusions fit the facts with unanswerable logic and furnish a scheme of self-government fitted to the special conditions of the case and unlimited except by the safeguards against its own collapse."

The report, the Times said, "marks the most hopeful advance of our generation toward solution of the problem of India."

The Daily Mail, voicing the imperialist view, thought that one of the strongest arguments in favor of the proposed scheme of federalization is that "it will virtually eliminate the mischevous cry for dominion status." The paper declared that the report shows the immense risk of setting up anything like home rule in India.

The News and Chronicle, which takes the Liberal view, said "the proposals bring within sight an all-India constitution of the only kind suited to that vast country and should be the beginning of the last phase of India's political development."

The only pronounced adverse view is taken by the Laborite, Daily Herald. It regards many of the commission's judgments as right but says that the report as a whole tends toward indefinite stabilization of the present system.

NEGRO FATALLY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY LINDELL BUS

He Was Attempting to Make Way Through Heavy Traffic at Cutoff.

Joseph Sheehan, 24 years old, a Negro, died at City Hospital No. 2 at 8 o'clock last night of injuries suffered three hours earlier when struck by a People's motorbus at the Lindell cutoff.

Sheehan attempted to make his way through heavy traffic and stepped into the path of an eastbound Lindell-Waterman bus, according to Arthur Jackson, 2736 South Fifty-ninth street, the driver. Sheehan, who resided at 3028 Franklin avenue, suffered internal injuries and a fractured leg. His death brings the total of motor vehicle fatalities in the city since Jan. 1 to 74, compared with 71 in the same period last year.

FAVORS LIMITING WICKERSHAM BODY TO DRY LAW STUDY

Senate Appropriations Committee Reduces to $130,000 the $250,000 Fund Sought by President.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Restriction of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission to a study of prohibition alone was voted yesterday by the Senate Appropriations Committee in limiting its fund for next year to $130,000 instead of the $250,000 asked for by the administration.

The committee overwhelmingly adopted the amendment of Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, adding $50,000 to the second deficiency bill for the commission. The House eliminated the $250,000 fund on a point of order.

Chairman Jones was the sole member of the Appropriations Committee to vote against the Glass amendment and gave notice after the bill was reported to the Senate that he would offer an amendment to increase the fund to $250,000 with authority to inquire generally into law enforcement as the board has undertaken to do in the first year of its life.

"Some members of the committee suggested not giving them any appropriation," Glass said. "I want the Senate to know that the commission has spent more money for furniture for its office than it has for investigating prohibition.

The $130,000 fund suggested includes $80,000 unexpended from a $250,000 fund of this year.

AMOS WOODCOCK NEW DIRECTOR OF DRY ENFORCEMENT

Former U. S. Attorney in Maryland to Have Charge of Unit in Department of Justice.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Preparing to take over the Prohibition Bureau of the Treasury at the end of the month, the Justice Department has selected Amos W. W. Woodcock of Salisbury, Md., for the task of directing enforcement.

As Federal District Attorney for his State and more recently as an aid to the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission in its prohibition studies, he has acquired an experience which, the department says, makes him well equipped for his new post.

As District Attorney, the department said in announcing the selection, Woodcock made an excellent record and "gained the respect of his State for the fair, fearless and efficient manner in which he performed his duties."

He is 42 years old and has been practicing law since 1914. Before his appointment as District Attorney in 1922 he served as Assistant Attorney-General of his State.

Citing his experience, the department said it "qualifies him to perform the important function of co-ordinating the duties of prosecution and to work toward more effective co-operation on the part of state local governments in the enforcement of liquor laws."

"Since enforcement activities culminate in prosecutions," it added, "the work of direction will involve numerous legal problems, and it is with this in mind that a man of wide legal experience has been chosen."

In his new position, Woodcock will have the title of Director of Prohibition. The post was established by the Williamson bill providing for the transfer of the enforcement unit. The appointment does not require approval by the Senate.

ACCIDENT DELAYS ANNULMENT SUIT OF MRS. BANKHEAD BUTT

Daughter of Alabama Congressman Suffers Fractured Leg at Hollywood, Cal.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., June 24.—An accident in which she suffered a broken leg prevented Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt Butt, daughter of Congressman William B. Bankhead of Alabama, from appearing yesterday to obtain an annulment of her marriage to Wilfred Lawson Butt, former University of Nevada student and once a movie extra at Hollywood.

Mrs. Butt's attorney received a message from her at Hollywood that she had suffered a fractured leg and would not be able to return to Reno for some time.

Butt has signed an appearance in the annulment action, but it has not yet been filed. The daughter of the Alabama Congressman twice was married to Morton M. Hoyt, son of a former Solicitor-General of the United States, both having obtained divorces in Reno. Mrs. Hoyt then married Butt. On her honeymoon trip she learned he had not obtained a final decree of divorce from a former wife, so she came back to Reno and sought annulment of her marriage.

TURK WHO SAYS HE IS 156 IS HEADING FOR THE MOVIES

Moslem Thinks He Will Be Appreciated in U. S. "Where Wine Is Wicked."

By the Associated Press.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 24.—A Turkish passport stating that the owner's birth year is 1774 and stamped with a six months' United States visa will carry toward New York this week Zaro Agha, who says he is the oldest man in the world. He has traveled in bygone centuries, having, he declares, fought with Napoleon in Egypt and in Greece during the war of 1825. Now Zaro Agha has selected America for a twentieth century odyssey because as a fervid Moslem teetotaler he wants to pay his respects to the land where, as the Koran bids, wine is held wicked, his own country having backslid in this respect.

Zaro says the United States will be sure to appreciate the man who has been dry for 156 years. He hopes to get into the movies.

INSURANCE FIRM'S OFFICE HELD UP BY THREE MEN

Employes of the National Life and Accident Insurance Co., 1023 North Grand boulevard, were held up in the company offices this morning by three armed men.

An employe of the concern said a bank deposit had already been made today and the loss, which had not been checked, probably would be small.

Throws Baby Into River.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 24.—Apparently deranged, Mrs. Mary Cornett, 23 years old, today threw her four and a half month old baby, Magdalena, into the James River a few miles south of here, then spent most of the day wandering in thickets near where she and her husband, Marion Cornett, have been camped since last Wednesday.

HARDWARE DEALERS ASSAIL CHAIN STORES

Speakers at Convention Also Complain That Druggists Invade Their Field.

Talk at the opening session of the thirty-fifth annual convention of the National Retail Hardware Association was mostly about drug stores and chain stores. Disapproval of both was expressed.

In the chief address last night at the Coronado Hotel, where 500 delegates were in attendance, J. Charles Ross of Kalamazoo, national president, declared the name "drug store" a misnomer. More proper would be "the general store," he said.

Warning the hardware dealers that drug stores have "encroached upon the hardware field to a greater extent than has been realized," he presented figures from a recent survey which show that 14 per cent of the business of a drug store is with prescriptions, 28 per cent with proprietary medicines and 58 per cent of the sales "largely hardware items."

In regard to chain stores, Ross said he objected to businesses which operate on the principle of "underselling the established merchant by offering for sale inferior merchandise."

The five-day convention, which will continue through Thursday, is the first meeting of the National Hardware Dealers' Association in St. Louis for 13 years. Since that time the Municipal Opera has become part of the city's summer entertainment program. Tonight members and guests will attend "The New Moon."

Speakers today included J. M. Williams, Beaver Dam, Ky.; J. E. Stone, New Britain, Conn.; R. M. Sanders, Boston; G. F. Hall, Minneapolis, and B. M. Hiatt, Wilmington, O. This afternoon a business session was held while wives of the delegates played bridge on the Hotel Chase roof garden.

The committee which arranged for the convention consists of George A. C. Wolley Jr., Will L. Hall, H. W. Geller, O. William Polster, O. D. Smiley Jr., Frederick H. Rein and F. Becherer.

HOOVER SENDS MESSAGE TO ROTARY CONVENTION

Says Attendance From Many Countries Is Evidence of International Good Will.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Rotary International today speeded up the business of the silver anniversary convention. An address by M. Eugene Newsom, international president, and a message from President Hoover topped the first plenary program at the Chicago Stadium.

President Hoover's greeting read: "The impressive attendance from so many countries is renewed evidence of the spirit of international good will which is so significant a development of our times and in the encouragement of which Rotary has played such a useful part."

Relating that distances no longer exist and that human relations must be founded on friendship, Newsom's address pointed out that Rotary's greatest usefulness was in choosing the means whereby friendship can best be interpreted.

The receptions accorded ideals of Rotary International in 62 nations of the world were depicted in a series of tableaux last night at the Chicago Stadium in view of more than 15,000 visiting Rotarians and their friends.

HEAT CAUSES 40 BREAKS IN PAVEMENT ON U. S. NO. 40

State Highway Department Making Repairs Between St. Louis and Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 24.—T. H. Cutler, chief engineer of the State Highway Department, says the intense heat of the last few days has caused at least 40 breaks in the pavement of U. S. Highway No. 40 between St. Louis and Kansas City. He says there are 20 or more breaks between Columbia and St. Louis and as many between Columbia and Kansas City.

Cutler says the largest break is near Boonville, where it is necessary to route traffic around the break. The maintenance department, he says, already had started making repairs.

The engineer says he has received numerous reports of "buckling" on other highways.

KANSAS SURGEON'S RADIO STATION REOPENED BY COURT

Dr. J. R. Brinkley, Milford, Gets Injunction on Appeal; KFKB Silenced Friday.

By the Associated Press.

MILFORD, Kan., June 24.—The radio station of Dr. John R. Brinkley, goat gland surgeon, silenced Friday in compliance with an order of the Federal Radio Commission, went back on the air yesterday under authority granted by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

Station KFKB was granted its petition for an order restricting the commission from revoking its license until final decision had been returned by the court.

Howard H. Wilson, general manager of KFKB, said that, although the court order was unconditional, under a new policy of the station, its medical "question box" would be discontinued.

Since the court now is in summer recess it is unlikely the appeal will be passed upon until fall. The Kansas State Medical Association objected to the station before the Radio Commission.

FOUR SENT TO U. S. PRISON IN IDAHO LIQUOR CONSPIRACY

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, June 24.—Four leaders of the Wallace County liquor conspiracy were sentenced yesterday to 15 months in Federal prison. They are H. J. Rossi and W. H. Herrick, former Mayors of Coeur d'Alene; R. E. Weiniger, former Sheriff of Shoshone County, and W. J. Bailey, Chief of Police.

Four women among the 32 defendants convicted on conspiracy charges were sentenced to four months in jail. Twenty-three of the men defendants were sentenced to four months in jail. Joseph Whalen was sentenced to 30 days in jail, which will complete 10 months imprisonment on liquor charges.

The convicted conspirators were charged with having levied a tax on bootleggers and resort owners under guise of fines, the money being used for municipal schools and other expenses.

RAINIER NATIONAL PARK, "THE MOUNTAIN THAT WAS GOD"

"Lo, it is the spell of the mountain!" Visitors to Rainier National Park, Washington, talk about it. They define it as that intangible "something else"—a constant feeling of the mountain's presence in daylight or darkness—which adds its fascination to the scenic delights, the exhilarating sports and restfulness of the region.

Sensing this ever-present "personality" of the mountain, the aboriginal Indians bowed before it and called it "Tahoma—the Mountain that was God."

Today Rainier National Park attracts visitors, from every state and from foreign lands, who come to enjoy the rare experience of winter and summer sports at the same time.

Up the road to Paradise from Seattle or Tacoma, on a Northern Pacific Railway tour, park motors carry you into the strange spell of the mountain. Then you begin to understand the secret of its compelling charm.

Almost three miles high, towers the massive white dome, once the largest volcano in America. Among its snows, volcanic red and purple streaks appear. Meadows and forests of rich green rival in depth of hue the whiteness of the snow and the blueness of the sky. Patriotic flower fields of red, white and blue seem to label it a great national playground and the forests shelter deer, bear, elk and mountain sheep.

Rustic, chalet-type Paradise Inn and the other hotels are modern and hospitable.

What a place to play! While some folks are climbing mountains, others are horseback riding, loafing, taking a refreshing dip in a mountain pool, fishing, skiing, fighting snowball battles or catapulting down snowy slopes in paraffined pants. And over all, lies the spell of the mountain.

For only $85.60, round trip, you can travel from St. Louis to Rainier's mountain-forest playground via the Northern Pacific—the route of 28 mountain ranges!

If planning a trip please ask us to tell you more about a Rainier tour. We'll gladly arrange all details. Call personally at our conveniently located office, telephone or write.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY BENEFIT PROGRAM AT BASEBALL PARK

5000 Persons in Stands When Fete Begins With Archery Contest — Record Crowd Indicated.

A colorful and fast increasing crowd turned out this afternoon as the sixteenth annual baseball game and charity fete of the Tuberculosis and Health Society got under way.

Officers of the society predicted a record-breaking attendance as a cooling breeze swept the horizon clear of several threatening clouds. Before the first arrow flew to its mark in the archery contest, which opened the program, about 5000 persons were in the stands.

Women in gay summer attire made the audience a composite of blues, pinks, reds, green and yellow while hundred of men discarded their coats and settled back in their shirt sleeves for about five hours of entertainment.

The game between the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves was not to start until 4 o'clock, but this Tuberculosis day throng was concerned more with the fete part of the annual spectacle than the game itself.

The big field resembled a three-ring circus as about 100 boy scouts ran out to the music of their drum and bugle corps. Some pitched tents, other threw up a signal tower and still others constructed an emergency bridge. At the same time a team clad in white shirts and orange shorts performed acrobatic stunts.

Just to enliven, three elephants, a giraffe and an ostrich paraded in fornt of the stands. The "ostrich" laid an egg as a bodyguard of clowns capered in glee and the crowds laughed. One of the elephants started to go in two directions at once but the front legs won out and the grey-clothed animal proceeded on.

Gay with many hued costumes, red and gold predominating, drill teams of both men's and women's fraternal organizations performed intricate evolutions with military precision. They marched to the rolling drums of several drum corps as the Mail Carriers' Band stopped playing the Stein Song for awhile.

About 10,000 persons were in the stands when the big seven-foot pushball was rolled out on the field and firemen and postal employes opened the first half of their game, the big sphere almost knocking them down in the heat of combat. The crowd thoroughly enjoyed the novel contest. Delegations of orphanage children making more noise than the rest of the spectators combined.

Little girls and a few older ones from the Sherman Park Community Center presented a program of folk dances as the Moolah Temple band, led by a leader in scarlet and gold, played lively airs.

Some of the children walked on their hands, turned hand springs and flipflops with an agility seldom seen on a big-league diamond. Three tots in yellow resembled little chickens as they tumbled about.

Roosevelt High School girls, wearing red, white and blue capes, formed a human flag as Gov. Caulfield and his staff entered their box.

The archery contest began promptly at 12:30, rows of men and women shooting at eight big targets set up on the green turf of the outfield. Several bands arrived before the archers were through and began to serenade the crowd.

Several business houses and rail-offices closed early so that employes might attend.

A corps of 190 girls, including many St. Louis debutantes, were program vendors.

Children from four orphanages in St. Louis and St. Louis County and boys from Bellefontaine Farms were guests of the St. Louis business men. Officers of the society said they hoped to realize $35,000, which will be devoted to the public health work of the organization. The Cardinals waived their share of the receipts, although the visiting team received a small percentage.

MAJ.-GEN. J. M'I. CARTER DIES, BROTHER OF W. FRANK CARTER

Graduated From West Point With Pershing, Twice Received Distinguished Service Medal.

Major-General Jesse McIlvaine Carter, U. S. A., retired, 67 years old, member of Southwest Missouri family and brother of W. Frank Carter, St. Louis attorney, died yesterday in Houston, Tex. His funeral will be held tomorrow at Farmington, Mo.

In the World War he was chief of the Militia Bureau, with the rank of Major-General. He was commander of the Eleventh Division, known as the Lafayette Division. He twice received the Distinguished Service Medal. Since his retirement in 1921, he had lived in Texas. Two daughters, in Houston survive him, as well as his brothers, W. Frank, Edwin Carter of New York, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and Thomas Carter of Atlanta.

BILL FOR NEW U. S. JUDGE IN EASTERN MISSOURI LAID OVER

Dyer Measure Held Up by Objection of Congressman From Indiana.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A bill introduced by Congressman Dyer of St. Louis to provide a new Federal Judge for the Eastern Missouri District was reached on the unanimous consent calendar of the House yesterday, but on objection by Congressman Greenwood of Indiana was passed over without prejudice. Congressman Cochran of St. Louis suggested that the situation in Missouri might be met by the appointment of a new Judge to alternate between the eastern and western districts of the State.

Cochran commended the two Eastern District Judges, Faris and Davis, as "wonderful men, working night and day." He said they needed help. Inability of Dyer and Senator Patterson to agree on an appointee has militated against the passage of the Dyer bill. Dyer was not in the House yesterday when the bill was brought up.

STANLEY BALDWIN ATTACKS BRITISH 'NEWSPAPER BARONS'

Calls Demands of Rothermere and Beaverbrook "Preposterous and Insolent."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 24.—Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader, who has been criticised recently in the Rothermere and Beaverbrook press because of his alleged apathetic attitude toward empire free trade and the consequent food taxation policy, attacked the "newspaper barons" at a specially called Conservative parliamentary meeting this afternoon.

Baldwin said that Lord Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook were attempting to impose their will on the Conservative party as the price of their support, going so far as indicating that they must know in advance the principal Cabinet members if the Conservatives are successful in the next elections.

"A more preposterous and insolent demand was never made on the leader of any political party," exclaimed Baldwin vehemently after reading a letter he said Lord Rothermere had written to one of Baldwin's political friends setting forth the guarantees required for support. "I repudiate it with contempt and I will fight that attempt at domination to the end."

The Conservative leader made it clear that he would not be driven from his previous stand for the country's indorsement of the food taxation policy by a referendum before any such taxes are imposed.

WOMAN WON'T ELOPE, ADMIRER FOUND DEAD

Mother of Seven Children Says Farm Hand Killed Himself at His Home.

Henry Kloepner, 46 years old, a farmhand, was found shot to death in the yard of his home at Vigus, Mo., yesterday after Mrs. Cora Huck, 821 North and South road, mother of seven children, with whom he had been associating, had refused to elope with him.

Kloepner had been shot through the head with a .22-caliber revolver. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide at Overland today.

According to Mrs. Huck, whose husband is a butcher, Kloepner's proposal came at the close of a day spent together at his home. When she declined to elope, on account of her children, she said, he agreed with her viewpoint and went out in the yard. Shortly afterward, she said, she heard a shot and found him lying on the ground, the revolver in his hand. She called Deputy Constable Mauer and a physician summoned by Mauer pronounced Kloepner dead.

Mrs. Huck said today she had known Kloepner for five years, and 17 months ago, after quarreling with her husband, went to live for several months with Kloepner in a town in Kansas. She continued associating with him after their return, she said.

Asked if she owned a .22-caliber revolver, Mrs. Huck replied she had until last January when it disappeared. She did not know whether Kloepner had taken it.

WOMAN, 72, IS KILLED BY PASSENGER TRAIN

Miss Mary Ryan Fatally Hurt at Frisco Crossing, Twenty-first and Scott.

Miss Mary Ryan, 72 years old, 4011 Russell boulevard, was injured fatally at 3:30 p. m. yesterday when struck by a Frisco passenger train at Twenty-first street and Scott avenue.

Engineer W. O. Cook, 4947 Wise avenue, said he saw Miss Ryan too late to stop. She suffered fractures of the skull, arm and leg.

CHICAGO TEMPERATURE IS 97; 12 DEATHS LAID TO THE HEAT

CHICAGO, June 24. — Twelve deaths were attributed to the heat, setting a new season's record at 97 degrees in Chicago yesterday. A gentle north wind drove off the heat during the night. At 9 a. m. the temperature was 70.

Central Illinois reported pavements buckling under a heat of 106 degrees. Lincoln, Neb., reported a 102-degree reading.

Among the Chicago deaths, one man succumbed to sunstroke; another overcome by the heat fell from a scaffold. There were drownings and deaths by heart attack which physicians ascribed to the heat.

James Firea, 65 years old, died from sunstroke while mowing a lawn. It was his first day's work since last winter. Mrs. Fannie Rosenthal, 45, walked to the porch for relief and fell dead.

The high temperature readings were general over the entire corn belt and even up into the summer resort territories of Wisconsin and Michigan.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

REDUCTION IN RENTAL FOR EADS BRIDGE DECK

Pending Bill Amended to Provide for Tolls on Commercial Vehicles.

Under an amendment to the Eads Bridge bill approved today by the Special Bridge Committee of the Board of Aldermen, all commercial vehicles will continue to pay the usual tolls, and the rental the city will pay the Terminal Railroad Association for the right to make the bridge a free highway crossing for other vehicles and pedestrians will be reduced to $140,000 a year.

Chairman Neun of the committee, who also is president of the Board of Aldermen, said the change was agreed to by President Henry Miller of the Terminal. Team and truck owners had objected that the iriginal provision exempting all vehicles from tolls except those operated for hire on payment of $150,000 annual rental by the city was unfair to them. They pointed out that it might cause large companies to purchase and operate their own trucks to avoid tolls, thus driving the team and truck owners out of business.

The bill as amended was reported to the board today by the committee along with the bill for construction of five new approaches to the Municipal Bridge with funds to be advanced by the Terminal Association and an amendment to the general bridge ordinance fixing the toll for use of the Municipal Bridge. It is expected these bills will be passed before the board adjourns Friday for the summer.

Under the Eads Bridge bill the city will have the option of abolishing all vehicular tolls upon payment of $200,000 annual rental.

LEGGE DISCUSSES WHEAT AND CURRENT MARKET SLUMP

Farm Board Head Thinks Co-operatives Will Hold Grain as Long as Price Is Low.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24. — Wheat co-operatives probably will voluntarily hold wheat of the 1930 crop so long as the price is low, Chairman Legge of the Farm Board said yesterday in discussing the emergency created by the current market slump. The board, Legge said, has made no definite plans for emergency stabilization of either the 1930 wheat crop or the 1930 cotton crop.

The Farmers' National Grain Corporation, he said, expects to handle upwards of 300,000,000 bushels of wheat this year. The Wheat Stabilization Corporation will presumably continue to hold the 1929 surplus he said, in the face of a declining market. He explained he was not at liberty to disclose the amount held by the latter because speculators might take advantage of the information. How important a factor stabilization operations would be in the present situation would be difficult to determine, he said, because nearly all commodities and stocks were "on the toboggan."

Legge said the board had not contemplated asking Congress for an additional $100,000,000 as has been reported. The Farmers' National Grain Corporation, he added would finance its operations largely through loans from private agencies and the intermediate credit banks. He said the burden should not be heavy as plenty of money is available at low rates.

Indicating the board was disappointed at the failure of cotton growers to materially curtail production, he said the acreage reduction was "very small, probably not over 5 per cent."

MRS. HOOVER SENDS MESSAGE TO 4-H CLUB ENCAMPMENT

Expresses Disappointment That She Is Unable to Greet Boys and Girls in Person.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Unable to be in Washington for the 4-H Club encampment, now in progress here, Mrs. Hoover has written her regrets to the boys and girls who make up the organization. The following letter was received from the President's fishing camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains, where Mrs. Hoover is convalescing from her recent back injury:

"To the Boys and Girls of the 4-H Club:

"I so hoped to be in Washington again this year at the time the 4-H clubs were camping there that I might be able to attend your dinner and have you all come to see me again and tell me the things your club had accomplished this year and all your plans for next year. But since I am not to have that pleasure I must content myself with sending my greetings to you, to those of you whom I met last year and to you new members who have come to camp in Washington for the first time. With the best of good wishes for a joyful and constructive camp and new year's program I am. Yours cordially,

"LOU HENRY HOOVER."

DEALER IN BOTTLES AND LABELS ARRESTED

Louis Carl, 1718 Biddle, Third Man Taken Here Under Supreme Court Ruling.

Louis Carl, dealer in second-hand bottles, whisky and gin labels, flavoring extracts and imitation revenue stamps, was ordered to appear with his two Negro helpers before United States Commissioner Burke today to make bond on a charge of "sale and possession of materials designed for the manufacture of illicit liquors."

Carl and the Negroes were arrested in a raid on the Carl Bottle Co., 1718 Biddle street yesterday which followed purchases of bottles and flavoring by two prohibition agents, one a Negro and the other a white man disguised as a Negro.

Deputy Prohibition Administrator Dillon has two Negro agents, but one of them, who has been in the service four years, is well known. He therefore sent the other, a new employe, who has been working under cover, to make the case against Carl, and ordered the white agent to disguise himself as a Negro in order to have corroboration of the Negro agent's testimony.

The raid, Dillon explained, was made under the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court that sale or possession for sale of anything displayed in such a manner as to induce purchasers to violate the Volstead act constituted a violation of the act.

The raid was the third made here under the ruling. Max Tabachnik, arrested following purchases of bottles three weeks ago, will have a preliminary hearing tomorrow before Commissioner Burke. Sam Rosal, arrested subsequently, w appear for a hearing July 15.

TRIED AND TRUE!

When tempted to over-indulge

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*"I have come to the conclusion," writes Sir Henry Thompson, M.D., F.R.S., "that more than half the disease that embitters human life is due to avoidable errors in diet." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight, and by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

TINKHAM ACCUSES CANNON OF DODGING

Bishop's Failure to Sue Him Is "Admission of Guilt," Says Congressman.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The exchange of left-handed endearments between Bishop James Cannon and Congressman George Holden Tinkham was carried a stage further yesterday when Tinkham again divested himself of his congressional immunity to reiterate his charge that Cannon violated the Corrupt Practices Act in failing to account for $48,300 of the $65,300 in anti-Smith campaign funds that he received from E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist, in 1928.

Tinkham, wet Republican representative from Boston, declared in a statement made public yesterday that Cannon's failure either to deny this charge or to take action against Tinkham for making it, could only be construed as "an admission of guilt."

To Cannon's suggestion that Tinkham repeat, outside of Congress, the entire speech he made on the floor of the House last Tuesday, the black-bearded Congressman retorted that it was an attempt "to becloud the issue."

Tinkham's speech in the House dealt largely with Cannon's failure to report the receipt and disbursement of the $48,300 and with his refusal to tell the Senate Lobby Committee what he did with the money. His action in repeating part of his charges off the floor was in response to a challenge from Cannon to divest himself of his congressional immunity.

It is obvious that Tinkham is inviting the Bishop to sue him for libel in connection with the charge of violating the Corrupt Practices Act.

His latest statement was as follows:

"Divested of my congressional immunity, I have, over my signature, publicly charged Bishop Cannon with being a shameless violator of a criminal statute, and not accounting for $48,300 contributed to him by E. C. Jameson. This is the charge I made against him in the House of Representatives June 17. He has made no denial of this charge, nor has he taken any action against me. His silence on this point can be construed by intelligent people everywhere only as an admission of guilt. To save himself the condemnation his act merits, he is now attempting to becloud the true issue, which is his shameless violation of a criminal statute, of which charge and its implications he had an opportunity to clear himself before the Senate Lobby Investigation Committee. I do not propose at this time to assist him in this attempt to becloud the issue."

Tinkham originally made charges before the Lobby Committee which prompted Cannon's request for an opportunity to appear. When he did appear, he stood on his legal rights and refused to tell what he did with the $48,300.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN HOME WITH ELECTRIC CORD IN HAND

Apparently He Was Electrocuted, but He May Have Been Overcome by Heat.

The body of Howard E. Gibbs, 23 years old, was found in the kitchen of his home, 3454A Eads avenue, last night, entangled in an electric extension cord. One hand was burned.

Gibbs apparently was preparing to press a pair of trousers in the absence of his wife. Although indications pointed to electrocution, it was suggested that death may have been due to heat prostration. An autopsy will be performed.

Gibbs was employed as a telephone installer for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. He was last seen alive Sunday afternoon. The body was found by two fellow employes, who called last night to learn why he had not reported for work yesterday.

Says Barber Hit Her With Bottle.

Henry Ginger, proprietor of a barber shop at 3841 Easton avenue, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Mrs. Gertrude Mann, 41 years old, 4721 Cote Brilliante avenue, who told police Ginger struck her on the head with a bottle of hair tonic when she went to his shop to complain of her husband's frequent visits there. Mrs. Mann was found on the 3800 block of Easton avenue in a dazed condition, and at city hospital was said to be suffering from skull injuries.

PRIMO VICTOR OVER NEGRO ON FOUL IN FIFTH ROUND

Facts About Fight

REFEREE—Tommy Reilly, Philadelphia.

ATTENDANCE—(Estimated) 38,000.

RECEIPTS — (Estimated), $190,000.

GODFREY'S SHARE, $5000. (reduced from $10,000 by commission because of foul).

CARNERA'S SHARE — 30 per cent, or $57,000.

SCENE OF BATTLE — National League Baseball Park, Philadelphia.

WEIGHT OF BOXERS—Carnera 262, Godfrey 250.

WEIGHT OF GLOVES—Six ounces (almost skin tight for Carnera).

By John E. Wray
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—George Godfrey will foul no more in Pennsylvania, intentionally or unintentionally. At its hearing today the Pennsylvania State Commission, after listening to the testimony of Referee Tommy Reilly, Godfrey and the managers of the two principals in last night's fiasco, decided to revoke Godfrey's license.

Under the Pennsylvania law, they paid him only for the rounds in which he actually fought, which amounted to $5000. Godfrey had been guaranteed $10,000.

The verdict followed the definite statement by Referee Reilly and others that the foul appeared intentional and followed others about which Godfrey had been warned.

The effect of the revocation of Godrey's license will be to put him out of the boxing game, as there is little doubt that affiliated states like New York and Massachusetts and perhaps the Natonal Boxing Association will also deny Godfrey a license.

Manager Sheds Tears

Jimmy Dougherty, who managed Godfrey for more than ten years, actually shed tears when the announcement was made. "I'll have to get rid of George," he said.

Primo Carnera, still ailing from the effects of the low blow, was not present at the hearing. Carnera was commended by the Commission for his fine fight against Godfrey and was paid in full 30 per cent of the receipts.

However, Carnera and all his managers and stable were suspended because of quite another incident than the foul. It was stated that one of the Commission's deputies, who insisted in the dressing room that Silvers, a preliminary fighter belonging to Carnera's stable, wear the official protector, wos assaulted and beaten. It was testified that Billy Duffy and others of the Carnera menage demanded that Silvers be permitted to wear his own type of protector; that when the deputy insisted on regulations, the assault followed.

For that offence Carnera's manager, Leon See; Duffy, Carnera himself and the entire outfit will remain under suspension in Pennsylvania until the embargo is lifted.

Fans Register Disgust.

Ask a Philadelphia fight fan today when he thinks about the battle of man mountains, Primo Carnera and George Godfrey, which took place here last night, and he probably will reply by grasping his proboscis firmly between the thumb and forefinger. This registers disgust, plus. Mr. Fan can't be blamed for this attitude. For, once again, he saw a great fight ruined by a foul, committed this time by the black menace, Godfrey, in the middle of the battle that had all the earmarks of leading to a great

MANION HAS 148, GOODWIN 153 IN T-M GOLF MEET

By the Associated Press.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 24.—Dr. Larry Ed. Bromfield, who won his first Colorado state championship back in 1910, today appeared to have cornered medalist honors in the thirtieth annual Trans-Mississippi golf championship.

In a five-way tie for low score after yesterday's 18 holes of the qualifying round, Bromfield today added a par 70 to his first card of 74 for 144.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 24.—Ben Goodwin of St. Louis shot 78 in his second qualifying round in the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament here today. He had 74 yesterday and this gives him a qualifying score of 153.

Jimmy Manion of St. Louis finished with 71. Manion was playing great golf today and is now a bigger tournament favorite than ever. He was out in 35 and got home in 36. His 71 today gives him a qualifying scole of 148, after his 77 yesterday, which, he said, was terrible golf.

Manion got three two during the 18 holes, which was better than anybody has done so far during the tournament. About the only bad spot of his playing was on holes 3, 10 and 15, when he three-putted each of those greens.

MILWAUKEE CLUB GOES TO COURT IN EFFORT TO RETAIN BENNETT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 24.—The first open rebellion against the arbitrary authority of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Baseball Commissioner broke out today when the Milwaukee Club of the American Association brought suit in the Federal Court to stop the transfer of one of its players to the St. Louis Browns of the American League.

The player involved is Fred Bennett, a first baseman, now with Milwaukee. Commissioner Landis had ordered the St. Louis Browns, which turned Bennett over to the Milwaukee team on option for two years, to either take him back, waive its option to another major league club or release Bennett outright.

The management of the Milwaukee Club refused to allow Bennett to return to the St. Louis Club, and filed suit before Federal Judge George A. Carpenter seeking to restrain Landis from transferring the player.

George W. Miller, an attorney, representing Commissioner Landis, assured Judge Carpenter the transfer order would be held in abeyance until court renders its decision. The case was continued indefinitely.

Today's suit is the first outbreak protesting Commissioner Landis' authority since he became the Czar of baseball following the Black Sox scandal of 1920.

The major league club owners, in their agreement with Landis, pledged themselves not to take their affairs into court. The minor leagues also are said to have made the same sort of an agreement.

Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, also is reputed to have 50 per cent interest in the control of the Milwaukee club, which brought the suit. Ball was a warm supporter of Ban Johnson, who was ousted as president of the American League, following his warfare with Landis.

Officials Are Surprised.

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, was surprised at the court action.

"I did not know anything about it," he said, "until the suit was filed."

FAIRMOUNT TRACK, June 24.—The feature race of today's program was the occasion of an upset when the outsider, Highway won at odds of $33.54 for $2 while the favorite, Seection was second and Baritone, the second choice, was third.

Highway has a way of going over at long odds. His only other victory here in nine starts brought a refund of 6 to 1.

A crowd estimated at over 9000 witnessed the program. The ladies' day free gate swelled the patronage to about twice its normal size.

Highway was in front from the rise of the barrier to the finish. At one time he had a lead of 10 lengths on Selection and it is a credit to the stamina and gameness of the favorite that he was beaten only a nose, making up great gobs of ground in the stretch. Joe Cavens rode the winner.

Itso Takes Opener.

After waiting a long time to find the proper spot, the Mullrick stable finally dropped Itso down in the first race and the gelding romped away with the event under restraint by M. E. Meyers.

Morning Beams was second and S. J. Gilfillan third, coming fast.

Ruth Long, one of the favorites, had some early speed, but was outrun after a half mile.

The winner paid $9.44 for $2.

B. Rice's Bilson, on his seventh journey to the post, graduated from the ranks of non-winners by leading every step of the way in the second race. My Ideal, always prominent, finished second and Thistle Patti third.

Bilson sprinted away from the others at the rise of the barrier and appeared at all times far the best. His time for the five furlongs was 1:01 2-5, which is better than this class has been doing. The refund was $4.34 for $2.

Marette Wins Third.

The odds-on favorite Nelson, cracked under the pressure of 116 pounds and was beaten by Marette and Tahoka in a great stretch drive that climaxed the third race.

Marette, one of three horses brought here a few days ago by Ed McQuan from New York, had speed enough to get within a length of Nelson at the half-mile ground, then drew up even with him on the turn and when the weight took its toll in the stretch, Nelson slowed up as Marette came on. Melvin Knight thus scored his first winning of the meeting. Tahoka finished second. The winner paid $14 for $2.

Fleeting Fire, getting all the best of the break at the barrier, shot out to a two-length lead and then withstood the challenge of Germaine Chauvelot in the stretch to win the fourth race. Ragabald was third and Sir Raoul fourth.

By W. J. McGoogan.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

ST. LOUIS COUNTRY CLUB, June 24.—All three favorites for the title in the St. Louis Women's District Golf Association tournament came through their first round matches here today as was expected, winning with comparative ease.

Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., St. Louis Country Club, tournament medalist, won from Mrs. C. C. Crossman, Algonquin, 8 and 7; Miss Virginia Pep, Midland Valley, defeated Mrs. J. T. Clabaugh, Normandie, 7 and 6, while Mrs. I. S. Hynes, Normandie, defending champion, downed Mrs. Festus J. Wade Jr., St. Louis Country Club, 4 and 2.

Mrs. Wallace Again Plays Well.

Mrs. Wallace, who shot 82 yesterday, played well again today, scoring 39 on the first nine, while Miss Pep had 42 for the nine and Mrs. Hynes 43.

Mrs. R. J. Kohn, Midland Valley, won from Mrs. Edward Hotchkiss, St. Louis Country Club, 4 and 2, while Miss Elizabeth Douglass, St. Louis Country Club, eliminated Mrs. E. Anson More, Normandie, 3 and 2.

In the second round tomorrow, Mrs. Hynes will meet Miss Pep in the upper bracket, while Mrs. Wallace will oppose Miss Douglas. The winners of those matches may reasonably be expected to meet for the championship.

Mrs. Wallace Medalist.

Mrs. Wallace in winning the medal honor turned in a fine 82 yesterday in the qualifying round. She was out in 39, despite a disastrous eight on the ninth hole and came back in 43 although she had a nine on the thirteenth. Mrs. Wallace started her match with three straight pars, went two over on the fourth then scored a brilliant eagle three on the par five fifth hole, reaching the green, 491

Farrell Sent to Cubs on Waivers

Eddie Farrell, infielder, was sold to the Chicago Cubs by the Cardinals at the waiver price, it was announced this afternoon by Secretary Clarence Lloyd of the Cardinal organization.

Farrell, who holds a degree in dentistry, came to the St. Louis club from the Giants with Outfielder George Fisher in the deal that sent Walter Roettger, St. Louis boy, to McGraw's team. When Farrell first joined the Giants he starred at bat, but his fielding was faulty and he was sent to the Boston Braves, with whom he served under Rogers Hornsby. He later was bought back by McGraw.

With the Cardinals, Farrell was able to break into thelineup only infrequently, even though the regular infield was riddled at various times by injuries.

RECORD CLAIMED WHEN ATHLETE TOSSES 56-LB. WEIGHT, 28 FT., 5 IN.

BELFAST, Ireland, June 24.—Dr. Patrick D. O'Callaghan, the Olympic hammer-throwing champion, in competition Sunday at Temple-More, Tipperary, threw the 56-pound weight, without follow, 28 feet, 5 inches. This is claimed as a world's record, beating Mangan's 27 feet 5½ inches, made at Dublin in 1900.

No world's record for tossing the 56-pound weight "without follow" is listed in Spalding's Athletic Guide. The world's record for distance with this missile is 40 feet 6⅝ inches, made in 1911 by Matt McGrath, now Deputy Inspector McGrath of the New York Police Department.

and dramatic finish. It happened in the fifth round.

The ring, pitched on the diamond in the Phillies' Park, was surrounded by 38,000 persons, valued in a money way at about $190,000. At that time not one person in the park would have given up his seat for double or triple the money he had paid for it. For, out there under the white glare of the flood lights two of the most extraordinary physical specimens the ring has ever known were matching strength, punch and gameness.

For four rounds the Alabaster giant, Carnera, 262 pounds of bone and overlaid muscle, stripped of every ounce of fat, had used his gigantic strength against the ebony colossus Godfrey, almost, if not quite as impressive a figure as Carnera.

For four rounds these two had flung themselves against one another in head-long attack; the black with skill and cunning, the white using sheer force most of the time. And it was still anybody's fight.

Carnera Appears Stronger.

If anything Carnera's superb condition and strength were in the ascendancy. Godfrey had mauled and roughed him, knocked his head from side to side, and slammed lefts and rights into his midsection until onlookers believed he would surely have to succumb, but instead of weakening, Carnera had thrived on it.

The first two rounds were Godfrey's; the third was anybody's and the fourth was Carnera's. The big black, with 25 pounds more weight and 10 more years than were good for him, was beginning to feel the strain.

Then, wheeling into the fifth, Godfrey came out, a trifle wilted, it seemed to ringsiders, although he had the fight on points at the time. As if determined to put everything he had into one punch and end matters, Godfrey broke free from a clinch and then rushed at Carnera drawing back his left hand. He let it fly for the body and it uppercut Carnera at least 10 inches below the waist line—exactly the blow with which Jack Sharkey fouled Schmeling. Max was at ringside and saw the blow, by the way.

There was no mistaking the foul this time. Everybody saw it. The referee first of all. Carnera dropped to the floor groaning and rolling from side to side in agony.

A doctor climbed into the ring and began to paw Carnera. He pulled out a little pencil-like flash light and peeling back Carnera's closed eyelid, examined the pupil of his eye. Then he hopped to his feet and waved Carnera's seconds into the ring. Bill Duffy, Leon See, Marceline Eudeline and others rushed to lift the fallen giant and carry him to his corner, where the examination continued.

But Referee Tommy Reilly had seen enough. He did not rush from judge to judge, or to the Commissioners, as did the referee in the Sharkey-Schmeling battle recently. He called the announcer and spoke briefly to him. The decision was promulgated: "Carnera wins on a foul."

All this time big Godfrey sat in his corner with his head between his hands. He was hot, tired and worried, he thought he had the fight "sewed up" just as Sharkey thought he had Schmeling beaten, but he guessed wrong and so he held his head in his hands, probably wondering if he were going to get any pay at all for his weeks of hard training and his rough, tough fight.

Primo, Hit Low Several Times, Only Smiled and Waved Godfrey to Come On

After treatment in his corner, Carnera was able to stand up and walk out of the ring escorted by policemen, to the accompaniment of cheers. Godfrey slipped out of the ring without excitement or much booing. Apparently the crowd accepted the incident as it appeared—that Godfrey had fouled Carnera accidentally. It may be mentioned, in passing, that Godfrey had hit Carnera low two or three times during the bout and Carnera had only smiled and touched the enemy's glove, and waved him on to renew the battle.

But this morning the fans of Philadelphia, after thinking it over, are inclined to believe that Godfrey once more pulled something. They view the affair as "another of those things," as Godfrey's reputation is none to savory.

As a matter of fact, there probably was nothing wrong about the foul except that the Negro was over-eager. He had begun to tire and probably didn't have control of his punches as well as before the fifth round.

Carnera is the boy who really suffers by the incident. In the first place he was seriously hurt by the blow. One of the policemen who escorted Carnera to his dressing room told me that he collapsed before reaching it and had to be carried in. Dr. Vaughan, the commission's physician, indicated he had been badly fouled.

That isn't all. The foul deprived Carnera of a chance to complete the fight and win legitimately. That meant the right to challenge Schmeling.

At the time of the foul Carnera was getting better every minute. He was beginning to handle Godfrey as if he were a toy. The head and body-shaking punishment that Godfrey dealt him in the first rounds he shed without noticing it. Carnera was assuming the upper hand and his splendid condition made it seem a reasonable probability that he would have come through a winner within the time limit.

It was really the very best fight this writer has seen Carnera make, in four. It showed Carnera to be an improved battler in every way and it proved that he could take solid blows to any part of his head or body without flinching. But along came the foul and put him in the Max Schmeling class—a winner, without honor.

Sensible persons at the ringside disregarded the result and took the battle for what it seemed to indicate about Primo.

"I had no idea he was that good," one critic told the Post-Dispatch representative. "Why, the big fellow really knows how to fight. He is not a highly polished boxer yet, but he has all the earmarks of becoming a great battler. When he learns how to punch a little better, what a man he will be to face. I predict trouble for the little boys who have been monopolizing the heavyweight pie in the past."

Carnera agreeably surprised the experts by holding the redoubtable Godfrey safe at his own game of mauling. He also demonstrated that he can take punishment with any of them. And how a smaller fellow can hope to beat him is hard to visualize after last night's bout.

The result, although rather negative, still keeps Carnera in the forefront of the heavyweight fight world and it will be interesting to note how his challenges of the higher ups will be received.

Reports of an attempt to rematch him with Godfrey could not be confirmed, but it is possible the two will meet again. If they do, you can put your family plate on the big Italian; he's coming fast.

Low Blow Plainly Seen From Ringside Seats.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Edward J. Neil, who covered the Carnera-Godfrey fight last night for the Associated Press, gave the following description of the foul:

"The fifth had scarcely started before Godfrey, now slowed to a walk, stepped across the ring with a left hook that everyone within 20 feet of the ring knew was going to land low. It thundered home for all to see, and Primo capsized like a blimp struck amidships by lightning. As the pain grew worse he rolled and struggled and finally collapsed utterly on his back. There was several minutes' delay while the referee called a physician, but no count was started over the fallen gladiator."

The Associated Press also quoted Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion. Tunney, sitting back of the press seats, was loath to express an opinion, but he did say: "I didn't see the blow that was judged low. I do believe, though, that Carnera is a good ring prospect."

Notes From Ringside

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24. — There were no knockdowns during the fight. The only visible signs of punishment were borne by Godfrey, who started bleeding at the mouth early in the fight and finished with a cut lip.

Godfrey's fight indicates that he is carrying too many pounds and too many years to go 10 rounds with Carnera.

Although Godfrey struck all the low blows, Carnera exhibited some very foul fighting methods. He persisted in grabbing Godfrey's head with one glove and socking it with the other during the entire fight, without being warned by the referee.

Carnera used his left hand to very good advantage at times jabbing Godfrey off balance to take full advantage of his reach.

Godfrey divided his time between two tactics—hanging on and leaning in against Carnera to put all his weight on him; and starting fighting flurries of lefts to the body and rights to the head.

Primo Just Too Big.

Carnera took everything Godfrey had in the first round and really suffered some terrible blows to the head and to the pit of the stomach. Apparently he is just too big, and strong and game to be hurt. Godfrey couldn't phase him. He smiled through the storm and his eyes at all times were clear and eager.

New York poured out its sports in great numbers. Even Texas Guinan was a ringsider. Texas came out too early and the sunlight was a bit too strong for her complexion.

Graham McNamee was at the ringside, seated not far from Max Schmeling, who recently issued an edict that if he (Maxie) fights Sharkey again, McNamee must not be allowed to broadcast it. Max thinks Graham slipped him the razzberry that last time.

Says He'll "Win Sure."

Maxie is going back to "Homboorch" in 10 days, he said. He will return in September in time to fight Sharkey. "Win sure," Applesauce Joe Jacobs says of the next title fight. "Max had him going in the fourth last time."

Going where, is the point.

"Big Dogs" is George Godfrey's way of referring to Carnera, who wears No. 18 shoes. "Mighty good foundashun," he added whimsically, "but they's too heavy to pick up and put down fast when you want to gallop."

Because the Pennsylvania commission insisted on literal interpretation of the regulation requiring the gloves to weigh not more than six ounces, Carnera's huge hand was encased in almost a skin-tight glove. The size of his hand admitted of only a very modest amount of padding. For his bouts in St. Louis Carnera's gloves weighed 12 ounces.

All the frills and airs of a championship match except the $25 ringside seat prices lent glamour to the occasion. Champion Schmeling and Gene Tunney were among those present, as were a few of New York's 400 millionaires from Madison Square Garden. The entire Pennsylvania State commission was there and even One-Eyed Connolly crashed the gate—with a ringside seat ticket. A national chain with Ted Husing mixing them up over the mike broadcasted the show.

Because this was the heaviest fight in history, the commission took no chances on Big Dogs breaking through the platform. It was reinforced with steel beams for the occasion. The combined weight of the men was 512 pounds. The nearest approach to this was when Jess Willard fought Jack Johnson at Havana, in 1915. Willard weighed 248 for that fight and Johnson 227. Johnson was hog fat.

Carnera Proved He Can Take Real Punch, Says Champion Schmeling

By Max Schmeling,

Heavyweight Champion of the World.

(As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Ach! That is bad for the game. What is the matter that you cannot see a good fight between heavyweights any more without it ending in a foul before it is half over? That was a good fight between Carnera and Godfrey. You know is is exciting to see two such big men fighting in the ring.

The three last big heavyweight fights have ended in fouls.

How is it that American fighters, who are so good, have not learned how to keep up the punches? I think it was an even fight until the foul. The first two rounds were Godfrey's and two went to Carnera. And Carnera was coming fast. I hope it is not to be the rule that when a fighter begins to tire, and his man does not go down from heavy punches, that he then will foul his opponent.

I think to myself there was something familiar to that fight as I watched it. First Godfrey is very strong and hits Carnera hard punches, many right hands and hard ones in the body. Carnera does not go down. He accepts the punishment, laughs at his enemy and grows strong. He has Godfrey bleeding from the lip. He begins to look good, and then the foul. It goes a half round longer than my fight with Sharkey. Otherwise the fight is the same. The punch is the same, I see that. The left hook, good and low.

Carnera Looks Good to Him.

Carnera is improved. He looks good to me. For that tremendous weight he moves around the ring fast. He is not easy to catch. Right now he does not look ready for the championship. In a year, he may be better.

But with those big ones you never can tell. They have the heavy punch. They knock out some one who is good and then they are on top. I think I like a fight with him. It makes a good match. I am small, but I have speed, too, and there is lots of man to hit. He has a big body, big chin, big head. That kind is good to fight. Of course, if they do not drop when you hit them that is something else again. No one can say that Carnera does not take a good punch. The colored man smashed him some good rights to the head and one in the first round made Carnera's knees bend. But he does not go down. Ach! That is the thing. When one does not go down, I think some of the American fighters get discouraged or excited.

Up to the bad ending the fight was even. But I think we were just about to see something. And that is what I wanted to study—what Carnera can do after the fifth round. Because that is when I begin to do something, too. I was disappointed and the public was cheated again.

The Fight By Rounds

ROUND ONE.

They stepped out of their corners slowly, Godfrey landing a blow to the body, then two more as they clinched. Carnera staggered Godfrey and took a hard right. In a clinch, Carnera landed two lefts to the head. Godfrey retaliated to the chin and Carnera sent rights and lefts to the head. In a clinch, Carnera roughed Godfrey but took a body mauling. Carnera landed a hard right to Godfrey's head as Godfrey clinched. Carnera scored three lefts and mauled Godfrey in a clinch. He took a hard left from Godfrey in close quarters.

Godfrey forced the fighting, landing two overhand rights to Carnera's jaw, followed by two more to the jaw, shaking up Carnera. As the round closed Godfrey again shook up Carnera with a hard right.

ROUND TWO.

Carnera trotted out. Godfrey rushed him into a corner and pounded him savagly with both hands. Godfrey forced it, pounding Carnera's body with both hands. Carnera crowded his foe for more. Carnera landed a hard left to the jaw but took lefts and rights to the head. Carnera landed a hard left to the head as they clinched.

ROUND THREE.

Godfrey rushed into a clinch. Carnera landed a light left. Carnera found difficulty in handling Godfrey's weight. He landed a right and left as they broke.

Godfrey landed a right to the head. Godfrey appeared to have hit Carnera low but Carnera smiled and landed two hard rights in succession, but Godfrey landed in retaliation. Godfrey was bleeding as Carnera landed to the face.

Godfrey landed a swinging left to Carnera's body. Carnera landed a left on Godfrey's jaw and the Negro clinched. Godfrey tried to pound Carnera's body and landed a left to the chin. Carnera retaliated with the same punch. Godfrey again landed on Carnera's body and once again as the bell rang.

ROUND FOUR.

Carnera trotted out and landed two lefts to the face. Godfrey rushed in, landing two lefts as they clinched. Godfrey again landed a left but Carnera mauled Godfrey in the clinches.

Godfrey shook Carnera with a left to the head. Carnera was fighting back but not landing effectively. He missed a right. They clinched and Carnera was unable to reach Godfrey.

Godfrey landed another blow to the stomach, then a left to the body. Godfrey landed overhead lefts to the head. He stayed on top of Carnera. Carnera landed two lefts and took a right to the head. Godfrey shook Carnera with a left hook. Carnera responded with a left to the head as the bell rang.

ROUND FIVE.

Carnera still seemed to be in fine condition, Godfrey a bit tired. They walked into a clinch. Carnera mauled Godfrey in close quarters. Carnera backed away and Godfrey followed him. Godfrey held Carnera's arms whenever possible. Carnera landed a left to the head but took a body mauling in return.

Godfrey hit Carnera a left hand blow to the groin, plainly foul, and Carnera fell to the floor in agony. He rolled from side to side on the canvas while he was examined by Dr. Vaughan and afterwards carried to his chair, where his seconds worked over him for some time.

The referee, Tommy Reilly, disqualified Godfrey on a foul. It was announced that the decision would go officially to Carnera.

Eddie Mack Stops Abrams.

COLUMBIA AND NAVY RATE AS HOPES OF EAST

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 24.—Despite the fortunes and misfortunes of a strenuous training campaign, the Navy and Columbia on the one hand and Washington and California on the other stood out today as the principal hopes of the East and the West in the classic intercollegiate rowing regatta Thursday.

Probably never before has the deep-seated rivalry between the Eastern and Western rowing colleges and especially between the coaching methods of the University of Washington graduates and the Glendons of the Navy and Columbia, been more apparent.

Nine times since the World War the crack crews of the country have fought it out on the broad reaches of the Hudson and on every occasion the winning varsity was a product of one or the other of these famous systems.

East in Lead.

The score now stands at 5 to 4 in favor of the Easterners as a result of three victories for the Navy coached by the Glendons, Old Dick and Young Rich, and two for Columbia, exclusively under the capable care of the younger Glendon. The West has scored with Washington three times and California once, the victories of both being traceable to the style of rowing and coaching that has its origin at Seattle as Ky Ebright, mentor of the Golden Bears, is a former Washington coxswain.

In their battle to even matters and regain the championship now held by Columbia the Western invaders have the moral support of Ed Leader, perhaps the outstanding coaching product of Washington. The silent, pugnacious-appearing leader has come down from Yale where his Elis wound up an unbeaten season last week to watch the final development of the Huskies, coached by Al Ulbrickson, and Wisconsin, tutored by Mike Murphy, both of whom once rowed in his crews.

Up at Krum Elbow where the Columbians' quarters are located there seems to be a feeling that if the New Yorkers can't stop the Westerners this year the Middies coached by "Old Man" Glendon can.

Enough water has flowed under the two great bridges that now span the Hudson, and enough practice strokes have been rowed, to make it possible to size up the various crews, thumbnail style, as follows:

How They Look.

Washington—Biggest crew on the river and the only unbeaten varsity; the same crew that was runner-up to Columbia last year with two exceptions and rated by Coach Ulbrickson as considerably faster. The newcomers are giants, both sophomores, one 6 feet 3 inches and 190 pounds; the other 6 feet 6 inches and 195.

Navy—Eight stalwart six-footers looking like so many peas in a pod, a crew that has come on fast since H. E. Shelton of Paducah, Ky., a burly 190-pounder, was placed at the stroke oar after the Middies' solitary defeat at the hands of Columbia in the season's opening race.

Columbia—Four of last year's champions and four former junior varsity men; rated not quite up to Rich Glendon's crews of 1927 and 1929 but formidable with big Bill Blessein at stroke.

California—Beaten by a bare fifth of a second by Washington and half a length by the Navy; Bristling with power but not quite as smooth as some; contains several of the Poughkeepsie and Olympic champions of 1928.

Cornell—Looked great until Commodore Hod Shoemaker, a highly-strung rowing mechanism, became ill and had to abdicate the stroke seat in favor of a youth who never stroked a varsity race; still a dangerous dark horse.

Syracuse — Six of last year's champion freshman crew bolstered by a pair of husky seniors placed strategically in the waist of the boat by the veteran Jim Teneyck; a spunky eight that believes it has the stuff to win.

Massachusetts Tech—The sensation of the training season here; has impressed rival oarsmen by its long spacing and clean bladework, but the big question is "can it go the full varsity route of four miles and stand the gaff?"

Wisconsin—Still a bit ragged and short on work but well coached by Mike Murphy, leaders' former assistant at Yale; rows much like Yale, backs somewhat stiff.

Pennsylvania—Ready to spring a surprise like that of last year when they came in third; a veteran crew which may hit its stride and make trouble for more highly favored eights.

Aces and Kings.

I SEE the well-known firm of "We,"
New numbers four instead of three,
And seems to grow apace.
The firm on Sunday afternoon,
The twenty-second day of June,
Took on another Ace.

In other words, a son and "air"
Descended on the happy pair,
And brought a load of cheer.
At 7-12 he tipped the beam,
And has already made the team,
Though in his freshman year.

And for the Lindberghs, Charles

To make the welkin ring.
While "Dad" may be our fore-

From now on will be King!

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 24.—Benny Bass of Philadelphia, world's junior lightweight champion, won an unpopular decision over Joey Goodman, Cleveland, in a 10-round bout here last night. Bass' title was not at stake.

The fight was close throughout, with both boxers showing respect for each other's punches. The decision was roundly booed.

Bass weighed 129, and Goodman 137.

IRONSIDES' THREE VICTORIES IN THREE DAYS NO SURPRISE TO OWNER

CHARLEY IRWIN FIRM BELIEVER IN SYSTEM OF STARTING OFTEN

By Dent McSkimming.

The remarkable winning streak of Ironsides, the son of Man O'War which has taken three victories in three racing days, has brought forth plenty of comment from race patrons but it has not greatly surprised Charley Irwin, who owns the horse.

"He's a great horse," said Irwin, as though offended to think that anyone should be surprised at the triple victory. "He's a great horse or I never would have bought him. I paid better than 10 'grand' for him just a few days ago and I expected to win some races with him."

"A few days ago," was actually on May 24 when Irwin paid to Robert L. Gerry something better than $10,000 for the privilege of owning Ironsides.

"I came all the way in from my ranch, out in Wyoming to buy the horse. Say, he has run two miles in 3:36 on two different occasions and over two different race tracks and I think he's the only horse that ever did that. He's by Man O'War out of a mare that's by Celt and you can't beat that sort of breeding."

Frequent Starts.

Irwin was asked to explain the theory which prompts him to start his horses so frequently. At this meeting he had the filly entered on three successive days and he did the same with Ironsides.

"Yes, and I've done it with a lot of others," chuckled Charley. "Why this horse Kit Carson that ran today I started five days in a row out at Tijuana and he won on the fifth day and paid a pretty fair refund, $10 I believe."

"Tell him about that horse Harry O," piped a voice from the edge of Irwin's box. "Yes," added Charley. "There's a horse that won 11 straight races for me, not on successive days, though. And then he missed one, and came back to win seven in a row. I guess that's a world's record, ain't it?

"But, about letting 'em run. Why, sure, I start 'em often. When the horse is in his best shape it doesn't hurt him to run often. It's when they're not in shape that harm comes to them. I run 'em until they show me that they've had enough and then I rest 'em up. Ironsides didn't look as though he had staled off any, did he?"

Irwin is one of the truly picturesque figures of the racing game. He is a huge fellow weighing 385 pounds and he wears his clothes with an eye to comfort rather than style. He usually has a straw hat of broad proportions on the back of his head and there is something about him that suggests the wide open spaces of Wyoming where he has his home in the center of a big ranch. He was a rodeo rider as a young man and those who know him from the old days say that he was one of the greatest in the business, a record holder and medal winner. He is acknowledged a keen judge of horse flesh and riders.

The "boys" put over another Clyde C. race at Fairmount yesterday, but this time they used two other horses. Instead of Clyde C. winning, with Miss Black second, it was Druggist, the winner and High Grace second. In both cases, the goods news was telegraphed, mailed and otherwise broadcast over the country the morning of the race and in both cases it worked like a charm.

There was nothing in the past performance record of Druggist to indicate that he was anything but a 10 to 1 shot, but the wires were hot with money for him. He really ran as though much the best. The mystifying thing about his record of the three races indicates a shocking form reversal. It is strange, too, that a long shot conveniently slipped into second place, making the "place" refund on the winner almost as big as the "win" money.

Charley Irwin, the victim of a claiming war last week, when he lost three horses in one day, retaliated yesterday by taking Mortana from Jim Wilson in the second race. V. H. Perry lost Nichelson, the winner of the same race when Cook and Allen claimed him for $2250. Nicheison ran as though ready to collect a couple of purses.

Punkie, finishing fourth in the sixth race, gave signs of reaching his best form, but J. H. Davis will not reap the benefits therefrom for he lost the horse through a claim. The Blue Star Stable, of which A. J. Pershall is the head, took Punkie for $1000.

A BLADE so good that men even take the trouble to write us

"SMOOTHEST shave I ever had" . . . "the blade is simply a marvel" . . . "a perfect shave" . . . "finest blade that was ever made"—and so they go, every letter enthusiastically praising this new and undreamed-of shaving comfort.

And why? Here are a few reasons—a blade that lasts longer, shaves smoother, dries without wiping, and eliminates forever that old bugbear, "razor pull."

The finest blade ever made!

ADIO CAMPAIGN TO POPULARIZE TARIFF PLANNED

dministration Proposes to Broadcast Propaganda in Order to Break Opposition.

OOVER'S STATEMENT ORERUNNER OF MOVE

ear That Congress Members Who Voted for Bill Face Defeat This Fall Prompts Action.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Much iscussion has been provoked in he capital by disclosure of the dministration's plan to popularize he Hawley-Smoot tariff act hrough a series of statements, peeches and radio talks to the ountry. Its defenders describe he plan as a "campaign of eduation" and its critics call it a campaign of propaganda."

The campaign, whatever its roper designation, was launched y President Hoover a week ago unday, when he issued a statement praising the measure, and xplaining why he intended to ign it. On Friday he was folowed by Secretary of the Treasry Mellon with a statement simlar in tenor.

Saturday night Assistant Secreary of Commerce Julius Klein ulogized the act in a radio speech elivered over a nation-wide hookp, and on Sunday morning the ewspapers had a statement from ecretary of Commerce Lamont, ntended to refute the criticism hat the bill will react unfavorbly on our foreign trade.

Other Statements Expected.

It is expected that these statenents will be followed by others of similar nature, from officials f sufficient prominence to insure he desired publicity. The pubicity bureau of the Republican ational Committee, now conductd by an experienced newspaper nan, is expected to furnish them o small Republican papers hroughout the country, including hose not equipped with telegraphic ews service.

The prompt enlistment of Melon, Lamont and Klein in the cambaign was intended to reassure the usiness men of the country that he effects of the tariff on business ill not be unfavorable. Various olls have shown business sentinent to be strongly opposed to the neasure.

When this phase of the "educaional campaign" has been carried ut to the satisfaction of the adninistration, it is expected that another will be initiated, designed to onvince the consuming public that he act will not add appreciably to he cost of living. The speakers and tatement-makers for that phase have not beeen announced, and it s quite likely that they have not et been selected.

Hard to Find Speakers.

Because of the widely advertised prediction that the act will add 1,000,000,000 a year to the cost of iving, and because of the voting trength of the consumers, espeial care probably will be devoted o this phase of the "educational" plan. Since nearly all the recognized economists of the country have recorded their condemnation of the measure, the task of finding uthorities who will defend it on hat ground may present some difficulty.

The criticism that the measure s seriously impairing relations of he United States with other counries can be met more easily, since there are many experienced speakers and statement-makers in the State Department who always are available for such duty. Secretary of State Stimson naturally is expected to lead off.

The "campaign of education" evidently was conceived with an eye on the November elections. The administration realized that the ariff is unpopular, and that many members of Congress who voted for it are threatened with defeat. By utilizing the radio, the Publicity Bureau of the Republican National Committee, and the space which newspapers devote to the utterances of high officials, it is hoped to reduce substantially the number of political defeats resulting from the tariff vote.

RADIO CAMPAIGN TO POPULARIZE TARIFF PLANNED

Administration Proposes to Broadcast Propaganda in Order to Break Opposition.

HOOVER'S STATEMENT FORERUNNER OF MOVE

Fear That Congress Members Who Voted for Bill Face Defeat This Fall Prompts Action.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Much discussion has been provoked in the capital by disclosure of the administration's plan to popularize the Hawley-Smoot tariff act through a series of statements, speeches and radio talks to the country. Its defenders describe the plan as a "campaign of education" and its critics call it a "campaign of propaganda."

The campaign, whatever its proper designation, was launched by President Hoover a week ago Sunday, when he issued a statement praising the measure, and explaining why he intended to sign it. On Friday he was followed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon with a statement similar in tenor.

Saturday night Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein eulogized the act in a radio speech delivered over a nation-wide hookup, and on Sunday morning the newspapers had a statement from Secretary of Commerce Lamont, intended to refute the criticism that the bill will react unfavorably on our foreign trade.

Other Statements Expected.

It is expected that these statements will be followed by others of a similar nature, from officials of sufficient prominence to insure the desired publicity. The publicity bureau of the Republican National Committee, now conducted by an experienced newspaper man, is expected to furnish them to small Republican papers throughout the country, including those not equipped with telegraphic news service.

The prompt enlistment of Mellon, Lamont and Klein in the campaign was intended to reassure the business men of the country that the effects of the tariff on business will not be unfavorable. Various polls have shown business sentiment to be strongly opposed to the measure.

When this phase of the "educational campaign" has been carried out to the satisfaction of the administration, it is expected that another will be initiated, designed to convince the consuming public that the act will not add appreciably to the cost of living. The speakers and statement-makers for that phase have not been announced, and it is quite likely that they have not yet been selected.

Hard to Find Speakers.

Because of the widely advertised prediction that the act will add $1,000,000,000 a year to the cost of living, and because of the voting strength of the consumers, especial care probably will be devoted to this phase of the "educational" plan. Since nearly all the recognized economists of the country have recorded their condemnation of the measure, the task of finding authorities who will defend it on that ground may present some difficulty.

The criticism that the measure is seriously impairing relations of the United States with other countries can be met more easily, since there are many experienced speakers and statement-makers in the State Department who always are available for such duty. Anti-Saloon League: Born of God

THE Anti-Saloon League was founded upon the theory that the Savior and his twelve apostles had made a "mess" of salvaging the human race. Under the teachings of Christ and the preaching of old-time religion too many goats were going astray. The preacher who relied upon his Bible was an old fogy. Salvation by education, moral teaching and suasion was a failure.

What was needed was a law and a jail. Dr. Russell organized his apostolic staff to put over the law. Christ, with 12 apostles, had wasted centuries trying to reform, redeem and Christianize the human race. Dr. Russell, with his legion of apostles, would accomplish the whole thing by an act of Congress. Those who did not elect to go to heaven by his route would go to jail under his law. It was to be a new order of things.

Let us drop into one of Apostle Russell's meetings and hear, from his own lips, the magic story—a story without a parallel in human or Biblical history.

The scene is the grand ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel in Washington. The apostles had come from every quarter of Dr. Russell's kingdom. There were the 19 comprising the Executive Committee of the Anti-Saloon League. There were the 52 representing the State and Territorial leagues. There were the 156 representing the Board of Directors of the National League. There were the money changers who had been brought to the feast for shearing.

Get the Money!

There were no fishermen either of fish or men among Dr. Russell's apostolic group. Mathew and Luke and James and Peter would have been out of place in such society. The apostles of Dr. Russell lived in luxury at this fashionable hotel, instead of in huts by the sea. These men were gathered there to raise money, to perpetuate the doctrine whereby men are to be made righteous by act of Congress.

Imagine what an ass Paul would have made of himself, if in reincarnation he had appeared before this company and repeated that outgrown bromide from his epistle to the Galatians:

"For if righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain."

Or, suppose that the gentle Spirit, whose moral and religious teachings had endured for 19 centuries, had appeared on the scene and performed the miracle of turning water into wine for the merriment of the festival, as He did at the wedding feast of Cana. With Apostle Russell on one side of Him and Apostle Kresge on the other, He would have been led to the jail, and the next morning He would have been tried in court, with the Anti-Saloon League demanding that the last ounce of the penalty be laid upon His back.

The scene in the gilded ballroom, where the money-raising dinner is to be held, is impressive. The speaker's table is decorated with flags. The tables are laid with silver and fine linen. All the big rich who can be persuaded to attend are there. The magic word painter, James A. White, from Ohio, is introduced.

"No money is tainted if the Anti-Saloon League can get hold of it," he exclaims in his opening sentence. He proceeds with great eloquence and oratorical power. Before he has spoken five minutes you are almost convinced that Congress is in special session repealing the prohibition law, and resubmitting the eighteenth amendment to conventions of the people, with implied instructions to destroy it there. The vicious wets have entered into a foul conspiracy to unhorse prohibition. They are spending millions. The prohibition fight must be won over again. Are the forces of righteousness represented in this divine gathering going to keep their money in their fists and let the apostles lose this Christian fight? No siree! A thousand times no.

Making Congress "Surrender."

After this preliminary, Dr. Russell, founder of the divine Anti-Saloon League, is introduced to take charge of the meeting. His loving task is to introduce the permanent chairman, the financial angel of the league, Sebastian S Kresge. But before introducing the chairman, Dr. Russell cannot repress the desire to tell the gathering how he and Mr. Kresge themselves, without any considerable aid from the other apostles, put the eighteenth amendment into the Constitution of the United States.

I shall not repeat Dr. Russell's self-administered eulogy. I shall condense his facts into a few sentences. When the eighteenth amendment was pending in Congress, Dr. Russell and Mr. Kresge sent 35 different, high-powered letters of solicitation to each of 135,000 business men and manufacturers in the United States for money and support. The letters were effective. Thirteen thousand—less than 10 per cent to be accurate—responded.

A few days before the vote was to be taken the two apostles met in Kresge's office in Detroit. Out of the 13,000 they selected 2400 to whom they sent telegrams urging them to flood Congress with telegrams demanding the submission of the amendment.

"We blocked the telegraph wires in Washington for three days," Dr. Russell says, very modestly. "Then Congress surrendered. The first to bear the white flag was Senator Warren Harding of Ohio. He sought me out and told me he was opposed personally to the amendment. But since there was such unanimity of sentiment among the business men and manufacturers he would submerge his own opinion, and vote for submission provided a rider was attached that it must be ratified in six years. We got it changed to seven."

That was Dr. Russell's story of how the job was done. Two men, under divine guidance, directed the mass telegraphic lobby of 2400 others and frightened Congress into laying the foundation for an amendment to the Constitution that was to control the personal lives and habits of 120,000,000 people of the living age, and the countless unborn millions who will come after them.

You will search the history of evangelism in vain for any parallel act of salvation.

But I have not finished the story of the meeting of Dr. Russell's apostles.

Half a Million From One Man.

Mr. Kresge is introduced in a wild burst of applause. He is extremely modest. He hopes that all will use the American and not the Polish pronunciation of his name. He wishes that somebody engaged in something more dignified than the "five and ten" chain store business might have been selected as chairman. He introduces another speaker, who announces that we are going to get right down to business now.

"Pass out the cards, pass out the cards, pass out the cards," he shouts. "Get your pencils. Sign the checks. Prohibition is in peril. Give till it hurts. Don't leave the room with a dollar in your pockets. Sign the subscription cards for all that you can give for the next five years."

The band booms out, "Onward Christian Soldiers, Marching As to War, With the Cross of Jesus Going on Before." Everywhere apostles arise and sing while the diners sign.

Now the tune is the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." As it changes to "Who Is on the Lord's Side?" Dr. Russell arises and waves for silence. He holds a card in his hand.

"I wish to announce," he says, "that Mr. Kresge has signed the pledge for half a million dollars."

That was as far as he got. Pandemonium broke loose. Around the room "Kresge gives half a million," echoed and re-echoed.

Belligerent Tom Blanton, then a Texas Congressman, was overcome with joy. He raced into the corridors of the hotel shouting "Kresge gives a million." He ran smack into the arms of that unregenerate wet, the late Representative James Gallivan of Boston, repeating his joyous refrain.

Prohibition had been saved! The apostles could rest their weary bones on the plush seats of Pullman cars as they returned home. The fight for prohibition would keep up as long as Kresge's and supplemental funds kept coming in.

Great Day for Drys.

It was a great day. The divine institution had insured safety for at least another year for its barbaric, tyrannical law. Next day, hundreds of more prisoners were put "upon the rails." Their ride was not so comfortable. They were shackled to officers of the law. Their destination was a six by four iron cell, crowded to the point of suffocation by human flesh. They were to be put away for a long time. They were to wear prison stripes and eat prison fare. The rich food and the luxurious surroundings of the Mayflower Hotel were to be no part of their lot in the future. Their companions were to be criminals in fact or criminals by fiat of law.

Under the tyranny of the law, manufactured by an organization that fraudulently and blasphemously masquerades as a divine institution, acting and operating under divine guidance, these men are stigmatized as felons—convicted by due process of law to be given a foretaste of the punishment which the reformer and the bigot intend they shall suffer after death.

By the same law, George Washington, for making his small beer at Mount Vernon; Thomas Jefferson for encouraging the use of wine as a substitute for whisky, and Patrick Henry for advocating beer as a temperance drink, would all have been dropped into Anti-Saloon League oubliettes, to rot and be forgotten instead of being free men, founders of a republic for the perpetuation of human liberty.

Tomorrow Former Senator Reed will tell of the Anti-Saloon League's method for "Prying Open the Churches."

WORLD CONFERENCE PROPOSED TO SOLVE EMPLOYMENT ISSUE

Director of International Labor Office Warns Europe Against Competition From Outside.

(Copyright, 1930, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co's (the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

GENEVA, June 24.—The possibility of a world-wide conference to discuss measures for solution of the international unemployment problem was mentioned here yesterday by Albert Thomas, director of the International Labor Office.

He warned Europe against impending industrial competition both from the East and the West. He declared the present world crisis is complicated by extraordinary economic conditions inherent in production itself. It is imperative, he went on, for Europe to find out whether it is becoming a sufferer from industrial developments in the United States and Russia. He pointed out that the Soviet has recovered 56 per cent of Russia's pre-war exports and 67 per cent imports and will soon confront Europe with dangerous competition.

Thomas forecast that the United States, with its wonderful resources and wonderful ingenuity, would succeed in rehabilitating itself more quickly than Europe.

The league's statistical year book, just published here, shows that at the end of 1928 28 per cent of German trade unionists were unemployed. In Canada unemployment is 11 per cent, in Denmark 22 per cent, in Norway 19 per cent, in Great Britain 11 per cent, in Australia 13 per cent and in Sweden 17 per cent.

BRITAIN SUSPENDS CODE OF MALTA IN FIGHT WITH POPE

M'DONALD STATES STAND TO COMMONS

No Alternative, He Says of State and Church Controversy on Little Island in Mediterranean.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 24.—The British Government has decided to suspend the Maltese Constitution temporarily in view of a tense political situation in the island arising from a prolonged dispute with the Vatican.

Premier MacDonald announced the Government's decision in the House of Commons. He said:

"In view of the situation in Malta the Government has decided with considerable reluctance that it has no alternative but to sanction temporary suspension of the Constitution."

MacDonald said full legislative and executive authority would remain in the hands of the Governor. The existing Ministry, he added, will remain in office and will be available in a consultative capacity if the Governor wishes to make use of their services.

The necessary legislation to give effect to the suspension will be submitted to the King in council as an emergency measure forthwith.

MacDonald explained that the urgency of the situation in Malta was brouht out fully in the recent Blue Book, giving full information "regarding the intervention of the Vatican in the temporal affairs of the island. The position created by this intervention has, in the opinion of the Governor, made it undesirable for the time being to hold the general election now due."

The political situation in Malta has been precarious for a year and a half due to a conflict between church and state. When church authorities ordered the transfer to Italy of a Maltese Monk who was a British subject, Lord Strickland, the Prime Minister, ruled that foreigners could not remove a British subject from British territory against his will.

Lord Strickland himself is a Catholic, but he implied that Maltese churchmen were interfering in temporal affairs. The churchmen answered by forbidding their congregations to vote for Strickland's party in the next election. The feeling became intense May 23, when an English-born nationalist attempted to assassinate the Premier. A demonstration took place outside the Catholic Cathedral in Malta June 8 when word was spread in the streets that the Catholic Archbishop had upheld the church's right to interfere in matters of state. Cries of "down with Italy" were heard.

In the latest stage of the contest the British Government and the Holy See have issued statements of their positions. The British publishing a blue book which alleged Vatican interference in Malta and the Holy See answering with a white book which held that the church had a constitutional right to participate in the Maltese Government.

3,500,000 ATHEISTS IN RUSSIA, HEAD OF THEIR SOCIETY SAYS

He calls on the Communist Congress opening tomorrow to give anti-religious workers throughout the country definite instructions for continuation of their campaign.

While pointing out that the Society of Militant Atheists now numbers 3,500,000 members against only 87,000 three years ago, Yaroslavsky admits religion still is a mighty force in Russia and must be attacked from every quarter.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 24.—An all-India Federation, which would travel a long road toward eventual self-government under the British crown, was recommended to the British and Indian peoples today by the Parliamentary Commission, headed by Sir John Simon, as the most effective solution of Indian Empire problems.

The recommendation is contained in the second half of the Commission's report, covering nearly three years of investigation and labor, and containing deductions derived from the first half of the report published a fortnight ago. It is commented that the commissioners—six in number, beside Sir John had already reached an unanimous decision on the recommendations when the present disorders began three months ago.

"While we are prepared to recommend a considerable advance toward self-government, and while we believe that a sense of responsibility can only be taught by making men responsible for the effects of their own actions, we desire to secure that experience is not bought too dearly," the report says.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Irving Fisher and Dwight Morrow.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I VENTURE to supplement your recent editorial concerning Prof. Irving Fisher and his arraignment of Dwight Morrow's publicly avowed attitude toward the eighteenth amendment.

It is an axiom of modern psychology that belief is seldom determined by rational motives and that hate, like any other strong passion, brings with it a train of attendant beliefs. And it is an axiom of logic that a debater will have resort to personalities for one or more of these reasons: 1. He says things in the heat of argument that he afterward regrets. 2. The employment of epithets that bite and sting gives him a species of sadistic pleasure. 3. He knows no other method of discussing the question. 4. He is constrained to turn from the broad highway of logical presentation of claims into bypaths of personal abuse because of the fundamental weakness of the position he essays to defend. I absolve Dr. Fisher from guilty knowledge and practice of the first three. I take it that the last named was the compelling influence in his case.

In the field of political economy I have heard Prof. Fisher speak lucidly, in graceful phrase, with thorough grasp of his subject, with happy choice of illustration. Nevertheless we discover the same man, one from whom we have every right to expect the qualities of detachment, urbanity and tolerance of an opponent's point of view, challenging Mr. Morrow's motives and general intelligence.

And with what result? Will Dr. Fisher's flippant ridicule discredit Mr. Morrow or do him any sort of harm? No, not in the slightest. With the thinking public it will merely have the effect of vitiating any future pronouncement Dr. Fisher may utter on any subject within or without the economic domain in which he is a distinguished and acknowledged authority; it will cause many to reflect what price education, research, scholarship and the possession of advanced degrees if they cannot render the scholarly investigator immune to the hates, the prejudices and the intolerance which frequently sway the mind of the mob.

P. S.

We Are Charged With Being Dry.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU evidently play favorites in printing letters. Your column in a recent issue was filled with letters on "Blocking Municipal Progress," "Corruption in Madison County," etc. When a person writes his views on prohibition, as the writer did nearly a month ago, you file his letter in the waste basket. Get next to yourself. Print letters about the real live topic of the day—prohibition, why we have it and why a lot of hypocritical Senators, who were formerly dry, are now joining the wets. You know the majority of people are sick and tired of prohibition. Do you intend to let a fearless newspaper like the Brooklyn Eagle start the ball a-rolling? I believe you are a prohibitionist.

WORLD TRAVELER.

"The New Freedom."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SEE an analogy in the grave doubt expressed by Mr. Neihardt in his recent article, "The New Freedom," and the passage of this present tariff monstrosity. Privilege has been the insidious power behind the throne in these last 10 years; but its boldness in such instances as this and the complacence of our people—the ease with which they are hoodwinked when they exercise their power at the polls, brings the realization that their new freedom is a petty freedom—that the "gasoline buggy" and the radio are diverting attention from matters of grave importance. They are like children—easily filched of their substance in exchange for a bauble; and there is a hint, in the present business depression, of how easily the bauble can be taken away. Can it be that the public will again be deluded in the fall elections—by a few months of synthetic prosperity?

My heart is in the fight your paper has been making against this trend of our public affairs and at times it is disheartening to see how little effect the truth can have on minds muddled with contradictions; but for those who know the truth—and love it, there is no alternative.

CHARLES J. SCHUSTER.

How to Save Money for the Public.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your recent raking over of Mr. Hoover, you asserted that he signed the tariff bill to pay his political debts. In a clipping of about the same date from the Louisville Courier-Journal, it was stated in effect that the tariff bill was created to pay off the election expenses of the last national campaign.

The public, of course, is not unused to such treatment by honorable legislators. There is no hope, however, it seems, that anything will be done to correct such evils. Election expenses should quite rightly be paid by the public. It is evident though that it would be a great saving to the public if the Government would pay all legitimate election expenses directly and eliminate the excessive tariff which will cost the public an enormous sum over and above such expenses. You figure it out.

B. SAGE.

JUSTICE BUTLER CALLS A HALT.

In his speech at the dedication of the new courthouse, Justice Butler put up a stop sign in the path of the zealous reformers who would break down the safeguards thrown around persons accused of crime in order to speed up criminal trials. He believes the guarantees of the rights of citizens imbedded in our laws, particularly in the Bill of Rights, should be kept inviolate, and he does not think it necessary to the processes of justice to destroy or impair them. Discussing the administration of justice, he said:

> It is sometimes said that the safeguards established for the protection of persons accused of crime are not necessary for their protection, impose upon the prosecution intolerable burdens and make it easy for the guilty to escape conviction. Complaint is made against the force given to the presumption of innocence, the rule requiring proof beyond a reasonable doubt, the right of silence, the protection from unreasonable searches and compulsory self-incrimination, and against other safeguards of liberty that have long been imbedded in our law. Judges are without power to modify them. Few who have had substantial experience in the trial of criminal cases would impair any of them. If adequate forces for detection of crime and apprehension of criminals faithfully support competent prosecuting attorneys in trials before intelligent and unbiased juries rightly guided by the presiding Judge, miscarriages of justice will be few. Our bills of rights do not stand in the way of justice. They give assurance that the blessings of liberty are to continue.

These safeguards are the fruit of long and bitter experience of justice-loving peoples under despotic rulers who were hostile or indifferent to the rights and interests of the common people. They were won by hard struggles against intrenched power. It was this historical background of arbitrary procedure, injustice and oppression which induced the founders of the Republic to embody them in our Constitution and laws for the protection of citizens against governmental power exercised by executives, legislatures and courts. They are bars erected against arbitrary procedure by any branch of government.

All the ills resulting from congested courts and inefficient prosecution of criminals cannot compare with the evils and oppressions that would flow from the destruction of the constitutional safeguards against oppression and injustice. When, therefore, overzealous reformers cry for the abolition or impairment of the right of trial by jury, for the torture chamber to force confession and for railroading the trials of accused persons, regardless of rights, as a means of combating crime or law breaking of any kind, they are blindly seeking to cure one evil with a greater which would undermine the foundations of justice and liberty.

It is reassuring in the clamor of voices urging the breaking down of constitutional safeguards for the purpose of clearing court dockets under emergency conditions, to hear a voice from the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, the guardian of the Constitution, calling a halt to reckless legislation. It indicates that the highest court in the land will stand firmly for constitutional rights.

IDAHO AND MR. BORAH.

Idaho cannot know very much of that super-dry, Mr. Borah. It cannot know that as one of the three horsemen of prohibition in the Northwest, the leader of the Borah-Walsh-Norris triumvirate, he is the arch-supporter in the Senate of the eighteenth amendment.

Otherwise, how could the municipal officials of Mullan and Wallace, Idaho, believe that they could finance their respective communities by taking fees from the saloons? Forty-six of these innocents have been convicted of conspiracy in the Federal courts, though not one of them has been shown to have personally profited by the collections. It developed in the trial that every cent collected at Mullan went into the municipal treasury, and in the case of Wallace the money went to paving streets, building bridges and maintaining public schools. In other words, prohibition is a joke in Idaho, and the naive city fathers of Mullan and Wallace decided to cash in on it.

In our opinion Mr. Borah is taking prohibition much more seriously than Idaho is able to take it.

STATE RIGHTS AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Wagner bill which offers to relieve the unemployment situation by creating a system of free public employment exchanges has been attacked by Senator Bingham of Connecticut on the ground that it would cause a bureaucratic centralization of authority.

The bill would establish in the Department of Labor an employment service with a director appointed by the President. This bureau would be supported by an annual appropriation of $4,000,000. Of this amount $3,000,000 would go to support state employment offices in those states which met the minimum standards set up by the Federal Government and made appropriations equal to the amount of the Federal subsidy. This is a scheme, says Mr. Bingham, to make the states surrender their powers to the Federal Government. Federal supervision will make for uniformity and standardization and kill local self-government.

The plan proposed here, however, is exactly the same one which the Government has been using for years in granting subventions to the states for highway construction, the support of the National Guard, vocational education and vocational rehabilitation, forest fire prevention, flood control, agricultural extension work and the support of agricultural colleges and experiment stations. The Federal Government now pays the states more than $150,000,000 every year for the support of these various projects. State officials take the responsibility, formulate the plans, direct the work and spend both the state and Federal money. The Federal Government has legitimate interest in roads, in military troops, in forests. It inspects the work which is being done in order to maintain minimum standards.

The Federal subsidy system has the unqualified indorsement of the National Municipal League's Committee on Federal Aid to the States, which recently studied its operation. It has awakened state interest and stimulated the expenditure of state funds for the purposes toward which it is directed. It has raised the standard of work done in many states without holding any state down to an unreasonable standardization. It has kept itself free from political corruption, and has, in turn, rescued the work of many states from partisan politics.

Mr. Bingham has not cried out against the extension of Federal aid in these other fields. It is as much needed in the attack on the problem of unemployment. The states are now spending less than $1,000,000 a year on free employment offices. The Wagner bill would increase that expenditure to nearly $7,000,000. State offices in themselves are inadequate. The labor market overlaps state boundaries. Federal co-ordination is needed for proper clearance.

The principle of states' rights gives cold comfort to the man who is out of a job. If Mr. Bingham had ever worked for the establishment of public employment offices in Connecticut, we might be able to take his great concern for this principle more seriously.

THE VETERANS BILL.

Brushing aside Mr. Hoover's opposition to the World War veterans bill, the Senate yesterday approved the legislation by a vote of 66 to 6. A modified bill, designed by Senator Reed to meet the President's objections, was shouted down without a record vote. As in the case of the Spanish War veterans bill, passed recently over Mr. Hoover's veto by overwhelming majorities in both houses, Congress seems determined that nothing shall stand in the way of the political dividends accruing from this type of legislation.

We believe Mr. Hoover's opposition to both bills is thoroughly justified. In the present instance, he was supported by Secretary Mellon, who warned that passage of the bill meant an increase in taxes, and by Gen Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, who says it goes far beyond immediate necessities and creates grave inequalities, injustices and discriminations among veterans. It is estimated the bill will increase Government expenditures by $102,000,000 the first year, ultimately rising to the addition of a sum of $225,000,000 per annum. We are spending at present $511,000,000 per year for the relief of World War veterans.

No issue of mere fairness to veterans is involved. Ample provision for disabilities arising from war service has already been made. What this bill does is to presume that ailments contracted up to Jan. 1, 1930, are of service origin. The present date of presumptive service disability is Jan. 1, 1925. Thus many men whose disabilities are in no way connected with war service will be permitted to live off the taxpayers to the tune of $100 a month. Moreover, veterans with nonservice connected disabilities may enter veterans' hospitals, be paid spending money and a generous allowance provided for their families. Since the hospitals have a limited capacity, this may operate to bar from hospitals men entitled to beds for legitimate war-time injuries or disabilities.

The effect of such legislation is to cheapen patriotic service by creating an army of unworthy pensioners. Little distinction is made between a man who was injured under fire in France and one who, by reason of his own carelessness or bad habits, contracted a disease a decade after his war service. The bill opens the way, moreover, for further raids upon the Treasury and breaks down the whole fabric of our veterans relief system.

The President's position is courageous and sensible, while Congress is revealing that form of political cowardice characteristic of election years.

ONCE MORE THE DEMON RHEM.

A lot of St. Louis folks the last few days have been sighing for that Arctic zone of Northern Michigan. They have been plunging into Wisconsin's frapped lakes. Canada has been beckoning to them with cool delights. California has been smiling seductively. Colorado's mountains and New England's spas have been chanting a siren song. It is not the humidity that conjures those beguiling retreats; it's the heat. Even the Chamber of Commerce will acknowledge that it has been rather warm here. But just see what that broiling Sunday afternoon served to a sweltering populace. What's a hundred in the shade if it accomplishes the resurrection of Flint Rhem? That is what it did. Old Flint, whom we had practically forgotten, who, we supposed, had drifted out into the twilight of the provinces, reappeared in the box and pitched the kind of game that won him renown in the thrilling battles of 1926 and gave St. Louis ecstasy, delirium, madness and glory. So shovel in the fuel, ye cosmic stokers! Pour on the oil from full-time spigots! Turn loose all the caloric in bin and barrel! An inferno is just what we want if that is what is needed to revive the invincible form of our Demon Rhem.

THE JOURNAL-POST'S CONVERSION.

In a front-page editorial, reprinted elsewhere on this page, the Kansas City Journal-Post announces its desertion of the prohibition cause. Consistently dry ever since the eighteenth amendment became effective, the Journal-Post has become convinced that prohibition is impossible of enforcement, that it has bred wholesale bribery and corruption, that it has contributed to juvenile delinquency, that it has resulted in the increase of crime and in the debauchery of formerly honest men, and that it fosters contempt toward all law. The newspaper cries out for relief "from the sinister and intolerable conditions now prevalent in the United States."

The peculiar importance of the Journal-Post's conversion is that Kansas City, although in Missouri, is the metropolis of Kansas, admittedly the dryest State in the Union. In the Literary Digest poll only five states were carried by the drys. Oklahoma, Arkansas, North Carolina and Tennessee rendered slender majorities for the dry cause, Kansas leading with a majority of 11,262. Thus the great stronghold of prohibition finds the cause repudiated by a newspaper in a city to which she has given her citizenship, her wealth and, so she thought, her liquor phobia. Could anything be more disturbing to the shade of Carry Nation?

The Journal-Post's action is symptomatic of the swelling tide against prohibition. It has its counterpart in the recent conversion to the antiprohibition cause of the Indianapolis News, most influential newspaper in its State, and a national magazine, the Outlook and Independent, whose founder, the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, was an outstanding dry. The Journal-Post's action is the logical sequence to the astonishing results of the Literary Digest poll, and the smashing victory scored by Dwight Morrow in New Jersey.

The Kansas City Star remains as one of the few newspapers of any importance in the country to support the dying and discredited cause of prohibition.

Of course, the Lindbergh baby will be taken out in an aerial perambulator.

AND FROM NOW ON.

—From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Kansas City Journal-Post Goes Wet

Newspaper at threshold of dry Kansas, which has clung to prohibition for 10 years, finds itself unable to stick it any longer; lists long bill of particulars for its action, concluding that prohibition has not been and cannot be enforced; qualifies its stand only by opposition to return of open saloon.

From the Kansas City Journal-Post.

THE Journal-Post herewith announces a policy favoring relief from the sinister and intolerable conditions now prevalent in the United States by a change in the so-called prohibition laws.

The phenomenon known as prohibition has focused unfavorably the attention of the world on this country, and has become not a moral issue, as was first held by its protagonists, but a vital social and economic issue.

This newspaper is, and always has been, squarely for the strict enforcement of existing laws. But in the 10 years that have rolled by under prohibition it has been shown that these laws cannot be, and certainly have not been, effectively enforced. As a matter of fact, they are violated more frequently and more easily as time goes on.

A graphic story of this sad trend of conditions is told by Government statistics compiled by the bureau charged under the law with enforcement of the Volstead act. They show that enforcement has been a dismal failure, not through lack of sincerity on the part of the Government, but because of the monumental task it has proved itself to be.

In a recent pamphlet, prepared under the direction of the Prohibition Commissioner, it is shown that in 1929 more than 203,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits, including alcohol, were manufactured legally in the United States.

This is more than double the quantity made in 1919 before the laws went into effect, which was in January, 1920. Yet the 1929 official figures do not include the output of hundreds of thousands of illicit stills such as flourish in every community.

The commissioner shows that the cost of enforcement has grown from $2,000,000 in 1920 to nearly $14,000,000 in 1929, an increase of approximately 600 per cent, without apparent decrease in the supply or interference with the selling of outlaw liquor.

But this is only the first cost of prohibition enforcement. To it must be added the cost of prosecutions—averaging 66,000 cases a year for the last six years; and also the financial drain imposed by housing and feeding the thousands who have been convicted and sentenced.

In 1928, 16,000 men and women were sent to prison for prohibition violations. This brought no cessation, however, in bootlegging, for last year the number of new cell prisoners was 19,000.

This great increase of incarcerated criminals, and they are made such under this treatment, has forced overcrowding of jails and penitentiaries, with the natural result of breaking down discipline, and finally rioting, jail breaks and death.

But the social and financial cost of attempts at enforcement does not stop there. Widespread crookedness, starting with the bootlegger, has crept insidiously upward until it has reached into legitimate business itself.

Hundreds of formerly honest men in the industrial world have fallen for the easy money and the quick, big profits made possible by turning their plants into storage depots through which whisky and alcohol gangsters have drawn industrial alcohol for diversion to the outlaw liquor trade.

Passed in the fervor of a creditable idealism, the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act have failed to convince a majority of the people of this country of their effectiveness, and have become unpopular.

Since no law is ever more effective than the willingness of the people to obey it, it also seems that a mistake was made in adopting prohibition at a time when as yet insufficient educational work had been done. However, there is no subject so much discussed today as this one; and the reason it is so vital lies in the growing disregard for the laws themselves.

This has built up a reckless attitude tending toward contempt for all laws, and has fostered the growth of the most objectionable criminal classes we have today, the gun toting, shooting gangster and the racketeer.

At the same time juvenile delinquency has increased alarmingly. Minors who before prohibition would not have known the taste of liquor until grown, if at all, now see their parents drink frequently in the home, formerly the sanctuary of all that was right and good.

Is it any wonder then that young persons regard it smart to drink? They are only imitating their elders, who in turn seem to have forgotten the significance, not merely of taking a drink, but of the fact that in so doing they are encouraging violation of the law. For there are very few cases now of legal possession, under strict interpretation of the Volstead act.

A vicious circle has been created, and having sown the wind, we are reaping the whirlwind. Prohibition threw us into reverse. Drinking, often to excess, not only on the part of men, but also women, especially in our large cities, has to a degree come to be regarded as the hallmark of class. Liquor is served and often drunk freely in homes where it was never seen or thought of before prohibition made it "fashionable."

In the minds of increasing thousands there is great resentment against the absolute restrictions of these laws, passed in an idealistic effort to help the weak, but resulting instead in the elevation of the bootlegger and gangster to an enviable economic position—a sad commentary on the social conditions of this great country.

The Journal-Post is absolutely opposed to the return of the open saloon, or anything approaching it. This stand is announced, therefore, not in the interest of groups or individuals crying for their "fundamental constitutional rights," but because these laws have failed in their high purpose and are not the way out of the dilemma.

Methods of readjustment and relief, whether by modification or repeal, must perforce be left to the state and national legislators acting under the mandate of the people, of, for and by whom it was intended this Government should be conducted.

Missouri's Insurance War

From the St. Joseph News Press.

THE high-handed methods of the stock fire and storm insurance companies in dealing with the State and with their policy holders in Missouri, extended over a period of more than 17 years, may ultimately drive the State itself into the insurance field. This suggestion comes from a representative of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, after the insurance companies had repudiated the compromise proposal made by their accredited agent. The companies are still fighting for the rate increase of 16 2-3 per cent.

There is something fundamentally wrong with the insurance business as now conducted in Missouri. The expenses of the business are excessive, the cost to insurance buyers too high. Government insurance may lean in the direction of state socialism, but it is the inevitable result in any field when private capital gets on a high horse. For an example, one need only turn back to the first year of the World War, when the United States Government embarked in the business of insuring ocean vessels and cargoes.

Soon after the war began, it became evident that maritime insurance under conditions then existing was too uncertain and too expensive, and Congress authorized the creation of a Bureau of War Risk Insurance. In the first 14 months this bureau wrote policies aggregating $39,245,052, for which the premiums paid were $2,127,978, and the total expenses of the bureau were $20,482, or less than 1 per cent of the premiums.

No private or corporate insurance operated on an expense ratio can compare with this.

"Why, $200,000, of course, teacher."

"You are wrong, Willie. If the growers make an additional $200,000, it will cost the consumers an extra $12,000,000."

"But, teacher, that means that the people pay $60 for every dollar the grower gets."

"Yes, Willie, that's right."

"But, please teacher, that doesn't sound right."

"None of your back talk, Willie. That's what it says in the Grundy tariff bill—it's got to be right . . . next pupil!"

"Mary, if the sugar tariff makes $59,000,000 more for the sugar farmers, how much more will it cost the consumers?"

"The same amount, teacher—$59,000,000."

"You are stupid this morning, Mary. For the farmers to make $59,000,000 more, the consumers must pay $354,000,000."

"May I ask a question, teacher?"

"What is it?"

"Why should the people have to pay $6 for every dollar the sugar tariff brings the farmer, please?"

"Children, we are wasting time. The class is dismissed until you learn your Grundy arithmetic."

Willie and Mary are bright children, and after a little reflection they finally got it through their heads that the American people import about 60 times as much olive oil as they produce, and about six times as much sugar.

The Mob Spirit

ING MOB. By Frank K. Notch. (Harcourt Brace & Co., N. Y., $2.50.)

THE mob is a social phenomenon known in all ages and countries, man being by nature gregarious; and as far back as history reaches there has been a sufficient practical understanding of the phenomenon by the shrewder individuals to result in an unfailing supply of demagogues throughout the human story. But, for reasons concerned with mechanical invention, competitive machine industry, highly organized publicity operating in the interest of mass production and mass marketing by modern methods of communication, there never has been a time when mob psychology was so nearly universal and socially omnipotent as now.

It is an easy matter to confuse this state of affairs with the idea of democracy, and this is commonly done by our demagogues; but it is, in truth, the exact opposite, and it is precisely the true democrat, with his sustaining belief in the finer potentialities of the human spirit, who most deplores the already tremendous and constantly increasing power of mob psychology in the control of human affairs, for he knows this flattering trick whereby liberty is lost. Anyone who may attack the mob idea through scorn for his fellowman has missed the vital point of the matter and might better be lost in the mob himself.

There have been various studies of what is often called our "mobocracy" within the past few years, and there will be more and more of them as the phenomenon develops. "King Mob" is one of the most illuminating of these. The title is a misnomer as the book itself demonstrates beyond question; for it is not the mob that is "king." The mob is merely the tificially produced means whereby invisible minorities, steadily growing smaller and more powerful, achieve their ends.

"A mob," says the author, by way of definition, "is made up of a group of persons unable to think straight because they are affected by the consciousness of their own numbers. The group may be small, contained in a meeting hall or a public square; it may be large, extending throughout a city or an entire country. It may even be international; but before it can be a mob it must be touched with the thrilling awareness of its numbers, and unable to examine the intrinsic value of an idea because its simultaneous presence in so many minds gives it another kind of value. The subject matter may be almost anything; an insult to the flag; a catchword like 'or what have you'; bobbed hair; a fashion in clothes, pronunciation or philosophy; a baseball player, an actor, a book, a shade of color, a political or religious leader; Negro sculpture, Chinese drawing, etc. The subject matter will determine the personnel and social level of the mob, recruiting it from barracks, the factory, the middle-class home or the drawing room. But it will not change the basic character of the mob."

The author proceeds to show the necessarily primitive character of the mob, the panic nature of its ruling convictions, its intolerance and its cruelty to those individuals who resist it. "The fashion mob (in dress, books, culture, science, etc.) uses derision that makes the outsider wince. The patriotic mob uses rage, which makes the outsider tremble. A mob taken up with the idea of universal love will treat its opponent with a special type of hatred born of its moral self-consciousness." Individuals are induced into the mob through "the terror of being outside."

Several chapters are devoted to characteristic manifestations of the mob spirit in the life of our day, showing, for instance, how large numbers of people have been "panicked" into buying and reading a given book by clever publicity playing upon the lunatic notion, characteristic of mobs, that what everybody's doing must be the thing to do and that one should be ashamed not to do it. "Two million people can't be wrong!"

What distinguishes "King Mob" from other books on the same subject is the author's convincing discussion of characteristic mob values and individual values, the exclusively quantitative nature of the former, the qualitative nature of the latter and the inevitable anticultural influence of mob domination. This most important phase of the matter has not been so clearly treated in any of the other studies of the subject that have come to this reviewer.

There is evidence throughout the book, increasing as the discussion proceeds, to show that the author is eagerly aware of numerous vital implications of his subject that limited space forbids him to consider, and that he has a firm grasp upon the whole system of related ideas involved, reaching out into apparently unrelated fields.

"King Mob" is a vital book, but its chances for wide appeal can scarcely be good, since it attacks the very means by which alone it could be widely circulated.

"Frank K. Notch" is a pseudonym.

The comedy element is in the clever hands of Jack Sheehan, who does almost everything as Alexander, the amorous groom. He is assisted by Rita Marks and Doris Patston. Hal Forde contributes an outstanding bit of acting as the King's detective.

The story of "The New Mcon" is constructed about the exploits of Chevalier Misson, who kills a cousin of Ling Louis XVI in a Paris fight and flees to Louisiana, where he becomes a bondsman, owned by a wealthy shipper, M. Beaunoir. He falls in love with Beaunoir's beautiful daughter, Marianne, who is being courted by all the swains in the colony. The King sends Vicomte Ribaud to the new land to seek Misson and the latter is arrested when he invades a fancy dress ball and kisses Marianne. He is placed on one of Beaunoir's ships to be taken back to France. Marianne contrives to go along and is plotting to free the prisoner when Phillippe and a band of his followers attack and capture the craft.

Misson and Phillippe found a colony on the Isle of Pines. Misson forces Marianne to live on the island and she turns against him In the meantime Ribaud conspires to hand the colonists over to the King. He arranges for two French ships to sail intc the harbor and Ribaud believes that he has won the game. Then he finds that King Louis has been overthrown and that France is now a republic. The piece comes to an end with Marianne in Misson's arms.

The musical hits of the show familiar to all by now, are "The Girl on the Prow." "Softly, as in a Morning Sunshine," "Stout-Hearted Men" and "Lover Come Back to Me."

ANNOUNCEMENT was made today of the approaching marriage of Miss Loraine Grover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton Grover of the Greystone apartments, and John D. Franciscus, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Franciscus, 10 Lenox place. The ceremony has been advanced from autumn, as originally planned, to July 16, and will take place at Our Lady of Lourdes Church at 5:30 p. m., the Rev. Francis J. O'Connor officiating.

Miss Ellen Bates is to be maid of honor and Mrs. John Burton Kennard Jr. matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Janet Gardner, Miss Roccena Baldwin, Miss Cynthia Polk, Mrs. Alan Thompson Smith, Mrs. Fielding Childress and Mrs. Allen Grover, New York, sister-in-law of the bride.

James M. Franciscus Jr. will be his brother's best man, and the groomsmen will include Shapleigh Boyd, John Hayward, Lee Johnson, Fielding Childress, George S. Tiffany Jr., Clinton Levering Whittemore Jr., Thomas Wright Pettus, William Weld and Allen Grover, New York.

Following the ceremony the wedding party and members of both families will be entertained at the Bogy Club. Mr. Franciscus and his bride will make their home in South Court after a wedding trip.

One of the most elaborate of the June weddings was that of Miss Sarah Jane May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton May of Brentmoor and Millard Waldheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Waldheim, 5925 Lindell boulevard, which took place last evening at 7 o'clock at Temple Israel with Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman officiating.

The bridal party passed down the aisle marked with tall lighted tapers to an altar banked with palms and ferns and great clusters of blue and pink hydrangea. The services were read in the presence of several hundred guests, among them 125 from out of town. A reception followed at the Westwood Country Club. The club was transformed into an English garden for the occasion, with a garden wall built around the rooms and blossoming plants and trailing vines adding a realistic touch.

Mrs. Edwin Platt was matron of honor and Miss Lenore Goldman and Miss Erna Rice were maids of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marie Werner, Miss Marjorie Lesser, Miss Frances Levis, Miss Betsy Stix, Miss Nancy Barkhouse, Miss Ruth Glaser and Miss Jean Stern of Cleveland, O. Benjamin Loeb was best man for Mr. Waldheim and the groomsmen were Edwin Platt, Morton D. May, brother of the bride; Jack Goldman, Richard Weil, Gordon Church, Harry Aloe, Harry Franc, Edward Liepold, Alfred Farber of Cleveland, O.; Dan Levy of Fort Worth, Tex.; Charles Levy Jr., Oliver Henry and Jay Rice.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of real lace and white tulle. The bodice was composed of a bolero of the lace and the full skirt of tulle swept into a long train. Her veil of rosepoint lace, an heirloom in her family, fell from a cap of the lace. She wore lace mitts and carried white orchids and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. The matron of honor was gowned in orchid chiffon and the maids of honor in flesh tinted chiffon. Their gowns were made with close fitting bodices with capes and long full skirts. The capes and skirts were edged in ruching of the chiffon. The bridesmaids wore frocks of blue chiffon, the tight bodices designed with scarfs of the chiffon tied about the shoulders and the skirts full and instep length. The bride's attendants all carried bouquets of pink roses and pink and blue larkspur.

Day by Day at Sea

By O. O. McIntyre

ON THE ATLANTIC.

ALONG with the notables, this ship has a sprinkling of the notorius. Twice while swaying through companion ways I have suddenly looked up in the bulging eyes of Harry K. Thaw, who, with his omnipresent bodyguard, seems to be all over the paquebot.

He darts here and there like the quick rush of a fullback, stops quickly and indulges in his turkey gobbler talk. There are many who do not care to be on the same ocean with the Pittsburg eccentric, let alone the same liner. However, he seems so far well mannered and quite inoffensive.

Among passengers, too, is the internationally celebrated and orchidaceous lady whom I vowed not to mention in these columns for some time to come. If she marries the captain in the middle of the ocean it will make a sucker of me again. But, as some comic has said that is life!

Edna Ferber is aboard, and at lunch today I sent a note to her table reading: "Dear Miss Hurst: I am one of your admirers, having read your 'Lummox' twice." She smiled and waved and I may become the life of the ocean party yet, what with my joking and carrying on that way. I'm a case at sea.

Incidentally, I counted seven copies of Miss Ferber's "Cimarron" among book reading voyagers today. Charlie Murray, the movie comedian, is making his first trip abroad with his wife, daughter and son-in-law. At the age when most performers are through, he is at the top of the heap and going strong.

Adele Astaire, dancer, is a deck-tripper, as are Henry and Ann Sell, Mortimer Schiff, Ray Goetz and quite a large asortment of Mr. and Mrs. Goldbergs. There are also three gentlemen in an alcoholic haze who amuse me vastly. They march prison fashion to the bar every 15 minutes singing the Maine Stein song.

Passengers have settled down to ship routine. We all fall naturally into leisurely dressing, petit dejeuner and joining those siestaed in reclining chairs or walking the vibrating deck. They asked me among others to auction the pool today, but I passed the buck to Charlie Murray, who is still in hiding.

I AM waiting to get back to my laughing room at home to explode over the fellow clod-hopper who snapped his fingers at a mincing figure in Chinese costume and demanded a match. She happens to be the wife of a Chinese diplomat and he thought she was just another of the boat's uniformed servants.

THERE is to me always something vague, alluring and mysterious in watching the sea shimmer in the moonlight from a promenade deck. Here and there the restless waves are fluted with a spray of phosphorescent green. Overhead puffs of white cloud float lazily between stars. Far away is the nebulous outline of a tramp, bound for God knows where. One looks out at the vast expanse and somehow feels at grips with the unknowable — a cliched observation, but it is that feeling that is the true miracle of the sea.

THE lady-whose-name-I-hope-not-to-mention drifted imperiously into the bar at cocktail time this evening. She was in pastel blue that matched the delicate cornflower blue of her eyes. Her only jewel was a diamond the size of a postage stamp on a finger of the right hand. She sipped at a green mint which somehow strikingly blended with the ensemble. Her gaze had the studied indifference of the actress who knows she is being admired. She is a gorgeously beautiful creature in her upholstered, slinking way, and if she keeps on dazzling us I might mention her initials yet.

MY objection to these fast-stepping boats on the Atlantic run is they wear you out with entertainment. It is a gallop from gangplank to gangplank. The expert voyager does not even engage deck chair space. He wants only a promenade and his cabin.

A GENTLEMAN—his name will also be spiked here—is listed in the passenger list as Soandso "with personal physician, valet and masseur." On my next trip I'm going as "O. O. McIntyre, with flying trapezist and deaf dog with fleas."

A LITTLE 6-year-old friend took me to the Grand Guignol to see the Punch and Judy show this afternoon. He nodded through the performance while I got my neck out of kilter craning to peek behind the scenes.

HENRY JEWETT OF BOSTON REPERTORY THEATER DIES

Australian Actor, 68, Played Mansfield, Fanny Davenport and Viola Allen.

By the Associated Press.

WEST NEWTON, Mass., June 24.—Henry Jewett, actor, died at his home "The Branches" today. He was 68 years old.

Born in Australia, he spent his early life in that country and New Zealand. His first appearance in the United States was in San Francisco in 1892 and the following season he became leading man for Julia Marlowe. During the season of 1894-95, he was with Richard Mansfield, playing in repertoire with him until 1897 and joining the company which was headed by Fanny Davenport the following year. In succeeding years he played under the management of George Tyler and Charles Frohman, acting with Miss Ada Rehan and Miss Viola Allen.

A three months Shakspearean season in this city by the Henry Jewett Players of Boston, which he organized, marked his entrance to Boston theatrical circles and in a short time he opened the Copley Theater. He managed the theater for eight years, producing 164 classic plays and comedies. With the founding of the Repertory Theater, he merged his own interests with the new organization into those of the Jewett Repertory Theater Fund, Inc. He became director, taking roles in plays himself and in 1927 the event of 400 weeks of repertory under his direction was celebrated. He is survived by his widow, Frances H. Jewett.

23,720 WORLD-FAMOUS BEAUTY EXPERTS ADVISE PALMOLIVE!

"These cosmetic oils in soap are best for your skin . . . use Palmolive" prominent ST. LOUIS beauty experts

"YOUR skin is subjected to difficult conditions today," these well-known beauty experts will assure you. "The modern woman uses make-up, of course. She indulges in all sorts of outdoor sports. She works in offices. She dines, she dances. She uses her beauty hard. She must guard her lovely complexion twice as well as ever before. For this purpose there is nothing so effective as a soap made of the vegetable oils of palm and olives."

World's best known experts

Joining the outstanding experts in this city there are thousands (actually 23,720 renowned beauty specialists!) who find Palmolive Soap best to safeguard beauty. Their reasons are those of professional experts who have tried many methods of skin cleansing and found this superior to all others.

The skin, you see, is constructed of millions of tiny pores. These pores must breathe. Every morning and every night the collected impurities—the dirt, dust, oil, powder and rouge—must be removed thoroughly. And the penetrating lather of Palmolive Soap gets way down into the pores where other cleansing agents cannot reach.

This famous treatment

Here is the basic foundation cleansing urged by the great European and American leaders in beauty culture:

With both hands make a rich lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work this tenderly into the skin, till you can actually feel it releasing the hidden accumulations.

Then rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. Allow the rinse water to cool to icy temperature in the morning. This acts as a refreshing astringent.

Now—you are ready for creams, powder, make-up!

Consult your expert

Today, the beauty specialist has achieved professional standing. She knows what is best for you individually. She has studied and practiced the art of cosmetics. Take her your beauty problems. And listen to her advice: Use Palmolive for bath as well as face. The results will more than delight you.

Sperber's Hair Shop, of 302 Arcade Building, is a smart salon frequented by women important in the community.

It is such experts who advise the daily use of Palmolive Soap, experts who have had years of training and experience. Their word is beauty law in your community.

"Your skin needs expert care to withstand the abuses of modern life. Repeated experiments have convinced us that vegetable oils in soap are best for your skin. That is why we say: Use Palmolive."

SIMON COMMISSION URGES FEDERATION OF INDIAN STATES

breakdown, then an alternative authority must co-operate unhampered."

The report will be the basis of conversations at the round table conference on India matters, to be held in London in October, at which the future of India will be discussed. The Nationalist Indian elements have already given notice of their intention to boycott the conference.

Observers commented that the general recommendation falls short of demands of the Indian Nationalist group, of which the Mahatma Gandhi, has been leader; these Nationalists, or Swarajists as they call themselves, have pronounced for complete and imemdiate independence. While some have believed they would accept immediate Dominion status a sa compromise, it was not expected that the eventual Dominion status, to which they might aspire under the Simon recommendations would be satisfactory to them.

Unanimity of the commissioners—who represent the three major British parties—in the report was interpreted as signifying a general acceptance of its provisions at home. Little disagreement in Gerat Britain was forecast, except from that small group who have advocated granting Indian Nationalist demands practically in their entirety and rapid removal of the British Governmental agencies from India.

The Commissioners recognize the Nationalist movements as apparently "the one force in Indian society today that may perhaps contain within itself the power to overcome the deep and dangerous clevages that threaten its peace," whatever "may be its shortcomings, and however distasteful some of its manifestations." The report looks forward to the time when the powerful minorities will accept a sense of justice in the majorities and collaborate with them in the Government.

States of the Indian Princes.

Foremost in the Commissioners' scheme for a Federated India is the plan to join both the states of the Indian princes—always with their consent—and the provinces of British India in the union scheme. Each would be autonomous according to capacity for self-government. Their relations with each other in the central goverment would be always only on certain previously specified "matters of common concern." Both princely states and provinces would increase in autonomy gradually as their capacity for self-government increased.

The report states that the Commissioners aim "at giving the maximum of provincial autonomy consistent with the common interest of India as a whole. This means the abolition of diarrchy for it was the essence of this system that while certain departments were transferred to the control of ministers ,the reserved side of the administration was still carried on under the superintendence, direction and control of the central government.

"* * * It is our intention that in the future each province should be as far as possible, mistress in her own house. Thus independent life will be given to the provinces which will form the nucleus of the new Federal structure."

The recommendations provide for an increase in the number of those entitled to vote, by about three times the present 2½ per cent; increased representation in the ministerial bodies is recommended; and most important of all the Commissioners would sound the death knell of diarrchy, that system under which native and British participations in the Government is sharply defined, native collaboration strictly limited, and bars raised to advancement.

A strong central government, under a Viceroy or Governor-General, but with its powers strictly circumscribed, is sought by the Commissioners. They are not quite sure what its eventual form will be, but Indians immediately would obtain a greater share in the central government than they have had heretofore.

Central Government's Powers.

The central Government's powers are listed as follows:

1. Safeguarding of administration of central subjects.
2. Matters which may, in the opinion of the Governor-General, essentially affect the interests of any other part of India.
3. Supply of information on any subject.
4. Raising of loans.
5. Employment of all-India services in the provinces.
6. Safeguarding of imperial interests.
7. Questions arising between India and other parts of the empire.
8. Implementing international obligations.

Safeguarding of the northwest frontier is recognized as an imperial problem rather than an Indian problem solely, and therefore the London Government expects to retain control of the army in India; British and Indian troops will be available to quell disturbances within the provinces, but in such cases the provinces must bear their expense, and a decreasing use of them in this wise is envisaged.

"India and Britain are so related that Indian defense cannot now, or in any future which is within sight, be regarded as a matter of purely Indian concern. The control and direction of such an army must rest in the hands of the Imperial Government. Nor does it necessarily follow from this that further progress toward the realization of responsible Government in British India is barred until the work of defense can be adequately discharged without the help of British officers and British troops?

"As things are there is a block on the line of constitutional advance. * * * The question is whether there is any other mode of treatment open which would provide adequately for the needs of Indian defense, and at the same time offer an earlier prospect for some further constitutional advance in the Central Government.

"It seems to us that the only possible method would be to recognize that the protection of the frontiers of India, at any rate for a long time to come, should not be regarded as a function of an Indian Government in relation with an Indian Legislature, but as a matter of supreme concern to the whole empire which can only be effectively organized and controlled by an imperial agency.'

Burma's union with India is termed a "political accident," and their separation advocated, with both Governments under the India Home Office, but with their relationships regulated in London rather than in Delhi. A special form of Government is sought for the imperilled northwest frontier province in which there will be much less autonomy since "the inherent right of a man to smoke a cigarette must necessarily be curtailed if he lives in a powder magazine."

A revision of financial and budgetary arrangements is urged to provide for greater localization of taxation and expenditure, an increase in income tax returns through lessening of exemptions and increases in national excises the like are suggested to augment revenues. Betterment of educational methods to increase literacy is stressed.

It is the attitude of the Commissioners that the depressed classes should develop a political consciousness, to be gained by electing their own members to the provincial legislatures; in time it is commented they might become a political element of considerable value to one or another bloc and their own physical status might be raised accordingly.

Women in Assembly.

The report advocates that a small proportion of seats be assigned to representative women, pointing out that while there is no constitutional bar to election of women to the legislatures they have never beeen elected. In the first half of the report, published two weeks ago, considerable attention was paid to the lot of women, and the necessity of their advancement both in literacy and political consciousness was stressed.

The Commissioners believe that members of the Federal legislative Assembly should be elected by the provincial legislatures, and not by the people themselves. It is pointed out that in a legislative assembly of 460 members, each member would have a constituency of 500,000 people—and 460 members are far too many, it is said.

Near the end the report comments: "Federations come about only when the units to be federated are ready for the process, and we are far from supposing that the federation of India can be artificially hastened, or that, when it comes, it will spring into being at a bound. The practical question is whether at the present stage there are many definite but modest steps which might be taken by way of tentative advance."

Not Based on Recent Events.

In conclusion the report says:

In writing this report we have made no allusion to the events of the last few months in India. In fact, the whole of our principal recommendations were arrived at and unanimously agreed upon before these events occurred. We have not altered a line of our report on that account, for it is necessary to look beyond particular incidents and to take a longer view.

" . . . No one of either race ought to be so foolish as to deny the greatness of the contribution which Britain has made to Indian progress. It is not racial prejudice, nor imperialistic ambition, nor commercial interest which makes us say so plainly.

"It is a tremendous achievement to have brought to the Indian sub-continent and to have applied in practice the conceptions of impartial justice, of the rule of law, of respect for equal rights without reference to class or creed, and of a disinterested and incorruptible civil service. These are essential elements in any state which is advancing toward well-ordered self-government.

"In his heart even the bitterest critic of British administration in India knows that India has owed these things mainly to Britain. But, when all this is said, it still leaves out of account the condition essential to the peaceful advance of India, and Indian statesmanship has now a great part to play.

Basis of Success.

Success can only be achieved by sustained good will and co-operation, both between the great religious communities of India which have so constantly been in conflict and between India and Britain. For the future of India depends upon the collaboration of East and West, and each has much to learn from the other.

"We have grown to understand something of the ideals which are inspiring the Indian national movement, and no man who has taken part in working the representative instiutions of Britain can fail to sympathize with the desire of others to secure for their own land a similar development. But a constitution is something more than generalization; it has to present a constructive scheme. We submit our report in the hope that it may furnish materials and suggest a plan by means of which Indian constitutional reconstruction may be peacefully and surely promoted."

Besides Sir John Simon the Commission contained Viscount Burnham, Lord Strathcona, E. C. G. Cadogan, Vernon Hartshorn, Col. Lane Fox and Maj. C. R. Atlee. They were appointed under the Government of India act of 1919, which provided that 10 years after the act became effective there should be a report on conditions in India.

Airplanes Join in Search Over Mount San Jacinto; Little Hope of Rescue.

By the Associated Press.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., June 24.—Although hope of finding him alive virtually has been abandoned, search continued today on the snowy, rugged slopes of Mount San Jacinto for Harold Johnson, 12-year-old Boy Scout, lost since Friday.

Veteran Mountaineers, forest rangers, army aviators, citizens and fellow Scouts from whom he was separated while hiking to San Jacinto's peak have participated in a futile effore to rescue the lad. R. J. Johnson, Corona, (Cal.) Postmaster and his wife, parents of Harold, are awaiting the outcome of the search at Idyllwild, the point from which the missing boy's troop hiked to the mountain's crest Friday.

A party of 75 made its way along the sheer eastern slope of the mountain today carrying provisions on a pack train of 20 mules. Flyers from Marsh Field Army Training School planned to go over San Jacinto's summit again today and continue aerial search by means of field glasses.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN FRESINA'S TRIAL ON DRY AGENT'S CHARGES

Prohibition Men Assert Gang Leader Threatened to Kill them During Raid.

Taking of testimony in the case of Carmelo Fresina, alias Charles Freese, Italian gang leader, charged on four counts growing out of his resistance to a prohibition raid, was completed before noon in Federal Judge Faris' court today. Arguments were scheduled to start after the recess.

Prohibition agents testified yesterday and today Fresina fired a number of shots at them with a shotgun when, on Aug. 3 last, they raided a house at 2716 Semple avenue, next door to Fresina's home at 2718 Semple. Fresina threatened to kill Agents Carol Byrd and Thomas L. Harris, they testified, firing twice at Harris as he stood on the front porch and four times at Byrd on the sun porch. Each fired a shot in return, they said.

Fresina testified he thought the agents were enemies trying to take his life or intruders intent on taking materials in the basement of the house which he intended using for repair work. He said the agents failed to identify themselves and fired at him first.

Had Been Sought for Conspiracy to Sell Stolen Bonds — Opened Fire on Tulsa Detectives.

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., June 24.—Trapped by police who were waiting to arrest him on charges of conspiring to dispose of bonds alleged to have been stolen in Oklahoma bank robberies, J. Rea Owen, 36 years old, was shot and killed yesterday by Detective R. B. Jones.

The shooting occurred in a hotel room. Jones was taken into technical custody by county officers, but was released on his own recognizance.

Following the shooting, Earl Franks, Chief of Detectives, disclosed that $36,000 worth of stolen bonds, including securities taken in the recent robbery of the First National Bank of Tonkawa, had been seized. He declined to say where the bonds were found.

Franks said Owen had been under surveillance in connection with a stolen bond conspiracy and that he received word that Owen would be in the hotel room yesterday afternoon. Jones and A. M. Smith, another city detective, were detailed to go to the room and wait for Owen.

Upon entering the room and being surprised by the detectives, Owen drew a pistol from his coat and fired, Jones said. The officer said he drew his pistol about the same time and fired. Four bullet wounds were found in Owen's body. Owen's shot was wild.

Sam Turner, Superintendent of the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation, and A. B. Cooper, a detective for the American Bankers' Association, took charge of the bonds recovered by police. Chief Franks said none of the bonds was found in Owen's possession.

Owen leaves a widow and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Owen of Tulsa. For several years he was president of the Southern Adjustment Co. here.

In 1924 Owen played a part in breaking up a bond conspiracy case. He was given credit for the trapping and arrest of Billy Mann, Sapulpa; Con Sullivan, Fort Smith, Ark.; Walter Chitwood, a Tulsa lawyer, and Ed King, Shidler. King died after his arrest, but Mann, Sullivan and Chitwood served jail terms at Muskogee. The four men were accused in the disposal of $3,000,000 worth of gold bonds of the Argentine Republic which had been stolen. Owen aided police in setting a trap by which the men were captured.

Owen figured in the recent B. O. Shepherd murder case, assisting in obtaining evidence used in defense of Shepherd, a real estate man, who was accused of killing Robert Hatcher, Webb City, Mo., youth. Shepherd was convicted and sentenced to 35 years' imprisonment.

BIDS FOR DES PERES VIADUCT TO BE RECEIVED JULY 29

Steel and Concrete Span to Cost $109,000 Urged by Ozark Trail Advocates.

Bids for construction of a steel and concrete viaduct across the River des Peres, near Lansdowne, will be received by the Board of Public Service July 29, it was decided at a meeting of the board today.

Construction of the viaduct at an estimated cost of $109,000, has been urged by advocates of the Ozark Trail, as it would complete a connection between the trail and Chippewa street, offering a more direct route to the Ozarks to residents of South St. Louis.

The board took under advisement the arguments of property owners advocating elimination of the jog in Spring avenue at Olive street. Paul Laidley, who said he represented a group of Washington avenue property owners, said it would be cheaper to cut off the northeast corner of Spring and Olive. Frank Gerhart strongly advocated cutting off the southwest corner. Gerhart owns the northeast corner.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS REACH CRATER OF LASSEN VOLCANO

They Go Through Snow 20 Feet Deep; Feel Several Earthquakes.

RED BLUFF, Cal.—Snow 20 feet deep was battled by Charles Mayberry, Ray Brainard and Forest Ranous, the first mountain climbers to reach the summit of Lassen Peak this year, they have reported.

They made the trip from 8400 foot level to the crater rim at the 10,460 feet in three hours and a half.

They said steam was escaping from many vents in the crater and that they felt several slight earthquakes during their stay of half an hour at the summit.

'SMOKE HALTS CITY GROWTH'

E. J. Russell So Declares in Radio Address.

The position of St. Louis as seventh city of the United States is, in a large measure, due to the fact that it has not eliminated the smoke evil, E. J. Russell, chairman of the City Plan Commission, said last night in an address over radio station KWK, in connection with the summer campaign of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League.

"The effect of smoke is far-reaching," Russell said. "It creates an unfavorable impression on visitors, it deters numbers of them from becoming residents, it drives many to homes in the county. When St. Louis rids itself of smoke, we will find many returning from the county to the city to live because of the conveniences the city offers."

LISTED BOND MARKET PRICES ARE IRREGULAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Irregular prices prevailed in the listed bond market today. United States Governments were firm, reflecting the easier money rates established with reductions in both call and time money rates. A slight advance in both Treasury and Liberty issues was general, and in contrast with the reactionary trend shown the past few days.

Railroad bonds moved both ways. Apparently some best grade bonds in the group were affected by the reactionary trend of railroad securities in the stock market, which declined sharply. Rock Island 4½s, New York Central 3½s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s lost about one-half point, and Erie 5s sagged more than one point to a new 1930 low. Other prime issues such as New York Central 5s, Southern Railways 4s, Pennsylvania gold 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, were steady to firm. Chicago & Alton 4½s moved up nearly a point.

Utility issues were steady, as were the best grade industrials. Continuing the downward trend, Manati Sugar 7½s lost 4 points to establish a new low. Yesterday a 10-point break occurred, as the whole list of sugar issues sagged. Foreign issues were irregular.

MAXIMUM INTEREST RATES ON DEPOSITS ARE REDUCED

NEW YORK, June 24.—Reflecting current credit conditions and the recent reduction of 2½ per cent in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, the New York Clearing House today reduced the maximum interest rates payable on deposits by member banks.

The rate on deposits payable within 30 days and on credit balances payable on demand to banks, trust companies and private bankers, excluding mutual savings banks, was reduced from 2 to 1½ per cent. This rate also applies to deposits of non-banking institutions. The rates on time deposits and deposits of mutual savings banks were cut 1 per cent each, making the new rates 2 per cent.

In the opinion of many bankers action of the clearing house was overdue and became imperative. They pointed out that since the old rates went into effect March 26 last, there have been two reductions in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, carrying that rate down from 3½ per cent to 2½ per cent, the lowest rate in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's 16 years of existence.

Banks which are members of the St. Louis Clearing House are said to plan no immediate change in rates on balances and time deposits. Prevailing rates are 2 per cent on balances, and 3 and 3½ per cent on time deposits.

U. S. TREASURY SURPLUS MOUNTS TO $223,020,522

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Treasury's surplus for the 1930 fiscal year reached $223,020,522 last Saturday. As disclosed today, the Government income then aggregated $4,106,318,144 while its total expendiutres since July 1, were $3,883,297,622. The receipts were $142,000,000 more than collected in the same period last year, but the surplus was $14,000,000 less.

While the surplus exceeded $223,000,000 last Saturday, it may not be so great on June 30 as expenditures in the last week may reduce it. A year ago on the same day the surplus was $237,000,000, while at the end of the year the surplus was $186,000,000.

Expenditures for the present year have exceeded expenditures for the same period of the 1929 fiscal year by $157,000,000. Income tax receipts for the present month have amounted to $497,000,000, bringing the total for the year to $2,381,607,020, an increase of $85,000,000 as compared to the same period of the previous year.

Custom receipts, which have shown a spurt within the last 10 days, now total for the year $575,639,211, a decrease of $13,000,000 as compared with last year.

COTTON CLOSES LOWER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Yesterday's declines were followed by rather nervous and irregular fluctuations in the cotton market here today, but July was generally lower under further pre-notice day liquidation while new crop positions met increased offerings on moderate bulges owing to weakness in grain.

July sold off about 19 points, declining to 13.21c while new crop positions after showing net losses of some 5 to 10 points, recovered part of their losses with the general market ruling about 3 to 12 points net lower around 2 o'clock.

Futures closed barely steady, 9 to 27 points lower; July 13.13-16c; October 12.99-13.00c; December 13.13c; January 13.18-20c. New contracts October 12.70-71c; December 12.85-87c; January 12.88c; March 13.09-10c; May 13.22-23c. Spot quiet; middling 13.25c.

Cotton opened easy at 4 points higher to 3 lower and early in the day was only moderately active with a downward tendency.

Buyers were inclined to hesitate, despite steadier Liverpool cables than expected and there was July liquidation in progress for over tomorrow's first notice day.

Irregularity in the early movement of stock values and a decline in wheat as well as reports of lower bar silver in London all seemed to have a rather depressing influence on the market and there was little in the early news to encourage aggressive buying. The July position sold down to 13.27c, a loss of 13 points from the previous close, and new October declined to 12.77c, a loss of 8 points.

High temperatures were reported over much of the Central and Eastern belts, but some good showers occurred in portions of Oklahoma and Arkansas. Liverpool cabled that the steadier tone there early was due to trade calling and covering, with scale-down buying which absorbed continental and Bombay selling.

The market was quiet later in the morning, and after showing net losses of about 5 to 10 points on the active new crop positions, ruled a shade steadier on covering. There was some further July liquidation, which seemed to find comparatively little demand and the price worked off to 13.26c, or 14 points net lower.

The market at midday was fairly steady, with the new crop positions ruling about net unchanged to 4 points lower, while July was still at the lowest levels of the morning.

HEAT DROPS 4 CENTS ON CHICAGO MARKET

y the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Fully 4 cents a shel drop in wheat prices today accomnied news that the 1930 harvest has read northward into Nebraska and that nditions pointed to a big marketing moveent there soon. All deliveries of wheat re established new low records on the esh downward swing of values which ent about 19 cents a bushel below prices the finish of June 9. The outstanding ature was unusual lack of buying supprt for the market rather than any agressive selling.

Rye, too, established new minimum recds for the year and corn and oats were ly a fraction above their lowest levels. It was the fourth successive day that heat had fallen to a new low point, eaking every record for 16 years.

Wheat closed unsteady at the day's botm level, 3⅝@4c a bushel below yesrday's finish. Corn closed 1@1⅛c off, ts ⅛@½c down, and provisions unanged to a rise of 12c.

Influenced by relative scant response hich the Liverpool market paid to yesrday's advance here, Chicago wheat values nderwent setbacks early.

Cheap offerings of United States wheat broad were reported in Liverpool disatch, and there was also advice of further mely rains benefitting crops in Canada. tarting fraction to a cent off, Chicago heat afterward underwent additional delines. Corn, oats and provisions were lso easier, with corn opening unchanged o 1 cent down, and subsequently showing etbacks all around.

Evidence of persistent dearth of export emand tender during much of the time to epress wheat values today. One reason iven for trans-Atlantic importers backing way was that European requirements have een lessened because of harvest operations aving started in Europe's early producing ountries. It was further stated that alhough fair amounts of North American heat would continue to be needed for ixing purposes, offerings from this side ere acting as a weight on prices, and hat actual arrivals of foreign wheat at he principal European continental ports n the last week have been 1,000,000 bushels more than for the week previous.

Downturns that exceeded 2c a bushel as ompared with yesterday's finish, brought bout little or no indication of rallying ower at some stages today in the wheat arket here. There was report that Canaian miller had reduced the price of bran o the lowest point ever known. There as also comment of uninterrupted favorble conditions for harvesting of domestic winter wheat and for growth progress throughout the spring crop belt.

Favorable Weather Conditions, Slack Export Demand and Lower Cable Among Factors Mentioned.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 24.—Wheat futures ranged down over 3 cents today after opening fractionally lower. Prices are reported as lowest since August, 1914. Final prices showed July wheat 2⅝c off, September 3⅜, May corn ⅝c lower and September corn 2¼c. The main bearish influence was said to be reported northward spread of the 1930 wheat harvest into Nebraska.

The downward movement was ascribed to lack of response to an upturn yesterday by Liverpool which closed ⅛ to ⅝d lower today; to report of stock export business, to timely rain in Canada, to offerings abroad to favorable weather. Corn sold off fractionally Winnipeg wheat sold off nearly 2c early.

July wheat opened at 89⅝, soft wheat 93, July corn 76c, September corn 75⅛ and December corn 69¾.

Local wheat receipts, which were 57,400 bushels compared with 79,800 a week ago and 91,000 a year ago, included 29 cars local and 12 through. WHEAT DROPS 4 CENTS ON CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Fully 4 cents a bushel drop in wheat prices today accompanied news that the 1930 harvest has spread northward into Nebraska and that conditions pointed to a big marketing movement there soon. All deliveries of wheat were established new low records on the fresh downward swing of values which went about 19 cents a bushel below prices at the finish of June 9. The outstanding feature was unusual lack of buying support for the market rather than any aggressive selling.

Rye, too, established new minimum records for the year and corn and oats were only a fraction above their lowest levels.

It was the fourth successive day that wheat had fallen to a new low point, breaking every record for 16 years.

Wheat closed unsteady at the day's bottom level, 3⅜@4c a bushel below yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1@1⅝c off, oats ⅛@½c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Influenced by relative scant response which the Liverpool market paid to yesterday's advance here, Chicago wheat values underwent setbacks early.

Cheap offerings of United States wheat abroad were reported in Liverpool dispatch, and there was also advice of further timely rains benefitting crops in Canada. Starting fraction to a cent off, Chicago wheat afterward underwent additional declines. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, with corn opening unchanged to 1 cent down, and subsequently showing setbacks all around.

Evidence of persistent dearth of export demand tender during much of the time to depress wheat values today. One reason given for trans-Atlantic importers backing away was that European requirements have been lessened because of harvest operations having started in Europe's early producing countries. It was further stated that although fair amounts of North American wheat would continue to be needed for mixing purposes, offerings from this side were acting as a weight on prices, and that actual arrivals of foreign wheat at the principal European continental ports in the last week have been 1,000,000 bushels more than for the week previous.

Downturns that exceeded 2c a bushel as compared with yesterday's finish, brought about little or no indication of rallying power at some stages today in the wheat market here. There was report that Canadian miller had reduced the price of bran to the lowest point ever known. There was also comment of uninterrupted favorable conditions for harvesting of domestic winter wheat and for growth progress throughout the spring crop belt.

LATE CURB SELLING ERASES EARLY GAINS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Heavy selling in the last half hour of an otherwise dull market erased what little improvement had been made by curb stocks in the irregular early trading. A succession of small advances and declines gave way to a resumption of selling in the late dealings and although net losses were generally moderate, a number of leading stocks were under pressure.

Electric Bond & Share, which had been as high as 78, broke to 72 for a decline on the day of more than five points. United Light & Power, after holding firm around yesterday's close, lost two points, and American Superpower converted a point gain into a loss of similar extent. American Gas & Electric, bid up to 114 on short covering in the forenoon and early afternoon, turned a five-point advance into a nominal decline.

Oils were again heavy. Cosden declined nearly three points and both Cities Service and Missouri-Kansas Pipe yielded nearly one. Humble lost a rise of nearly two points.

American Aluminum rallied 15 points in the early dealings, but surrendered its rise. American Cyanamid and some of the other active industrials canceled small increases. Technicolor went into new low on a three-point break. Goldman-Sachs Trading sagged almost two points as renewed short selling appeared. Trans-America lost one.

In general, however, the day's price movements were in a comparatively narrow range.

WORK FAR FROM DONE, BYRD SAYS ON RADIO

Explorer Describes Difficulties Faced by His Expedition in the Antarctic.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who returned last week from his expedition in the Antarctic, described the difficulties of the venture in a radio address last night over the Columbia chain, broadcast locally by station KMOX. Byrd was introduced by Major James J. Walker of New York after having been referred to jocularly as "the hero of this hour, Richard E. Lindbergh," by John B. Kennedy, maagzine editor, who was master of ceremonies.

"The work of solving the mysteries of the Antarctic is far from done," said Byrd. "We have carried on the work of Amundsen, Shackleton and Scott, but there is room for pure physical research for years to come.

"The region may produce unsuspected power and resources and some day some of my young listeners may be flying over the South Pole with a useful purpose. We must remember America did not develop much worth to the world until more than 100 years after its discovery.

"Like Another World."

"The Antarctic is an immense ice cap with a question mark over it and the last frontier of the uninhabited world. It is so unlike any other continent as to seem like another world, all rock and ice, and you can't tell where the rock stops and the ice begins.

"It is quite different from the Arctic region. The North Pole is in the center of a frozen ocean. It abounds in animal life and Eskimos live there. The Antarctic is a dead area of 4,500,000 square mile, roughly as large as the United States and Mexico. It supports no life whatever most of the time, has no running brooks, trees, cities or people.

"Between it and New Zealand lies an ice pack which for 10 months of the year is impenetrable. Not all the navies of the world could get through it. One is absolutely cut off from civilization. In summer the pack breaks up paths wide enough for stout ships to get through. The City of New York, which came to fetch us home, needed its 12-foot thick bow timbers to withstand the beating of the ice. It acquired so much ice from waves breaking across it and freezing, it had almost lost its buoyancy when it got to us. The men had to break 200 tons of ice from it with axes."

The Ross Ice Barrier.

Byrd described the Ross ice barrier as a towering wall of ice and snow, 400 miles deep, with 50 to 200 feet exposed. Chunks of it break off to form the Antarctic icebergs. Several broke with loud detonations as the expedition arrived, Byrd said, one striking the ship and knocking two men overboard.

Little America was in a depression near Amundsen's old base, Byrd said, 850 miles from the pole and far enough back from the edge of the barrier to prevent camp from snapping off and becoming an iceberg. Temperature went as low as 72 degrees below zero and all winter the camp, except for the radio towers, was buried in the snow. Here preparations were made for the flight over the pole and thus was "monotony, the curse of the Antarctic," overcome.

Byrd devoted a part of his speech to his dog, Igloo. The animal began his association with the explorer on his North Pole expedition. Although able to stand considerable cold, Igloo could not endure 32 degree below zero in Little America. Consequently the explorer made an "Eskimo suit for Igloo, with boots, which enabled him to venture out when the thermometer was 60 below." Byrd told an amusing incident regarding Igloo's first meeting with the penguins, who "were almost human in their droll dignity." Igloo, he said, attacked the birds, but could not "lick them."

Besides Byrd, Capt. Harold I. June, airplane pilot; Christ Braathen, ski expert, and Paul Siple, Boy Scout member of the expedition, spoke.

What Happened to a Girl Who Posed as a Rich Man's Wife

—By—
KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XXXIX.

THE color had drained from Mary Kate's face, and she looked young, too, with her pale cheeks and dilated dark blue eyes, and her soft tumble of hair, as she sat on her mother's lap, one slender arm still lying about her mother's neck.

"Oh, thank you, Chris," she said, very faintly. "But—but—" She stopped short. "But thank you very much!"

And she looked at her mother in perplexity, like a child who is about to cry.

"Since I came here tonight," Chris said, "I've come to realize what—what your family means to you, and what you mean to them—

"I don't believe I have much to offer you. Money, of course—"

"Money," Mrs. O'Hara pronounced superbly, ending it, "buys very little."

And suddenly they were all in a gale of laughter. Martin laughed, Cass laughed, and Mary Kate laughed almost hysterically. Even Chris laughed, caught by the contagion of their mirth.

"Ma, you are priceless!" said Mary Kate.

The atmosphere cleared. She and Cass and Chris were all on their feet. Mary Kate looked at herself in a little mirror by the sink, and made a few quick adjustments of collar and hair, and Cass held Chris' coat for him. Martin, his wounded arm strapped over his breast, watched them from his chair, and Mrs. O'Hara, fallen into deep thought with the amazing easiness of her mystical race, continued to occupy the shabby old piece of furniture known for many years as "Ma's rocker," her eyes narrowed thoughtfully, her full, disciplined, patient mouth slightly pursed.

Chris, overcoated, hat and big creamy gloves in hand, went over to Mart.

"Good-by, and good luck!" he said. "I hope—I hope you'll decide for Germany."

"Thank you," Mart said, gruffly, but in a friendly manner, too. "I'm sorry if I—blew up," Mart continued, awkwardly. "We have no father, you know, Molly and I, and maybe—maybe I forgot that she's perfectly able to run her own affairs."

"Oh, that's all right!" Christ said. He turned to Tom.

"I know Throckmorton," he said.

"What!" Tom shouted.

"If you really want to go in for aviation," Chris continued, "I'd be glad to give you a letter"——

"Let me know, will you?"

"Oh, Ma!" Tom said, almost crying.

Chris shook hands with Cass.

"I don't have to tell you that I congratulate you," he said. "You have my best wishes. You're"—— He paused. "You're very fortunate," he said simply.

"Thanks," Cass responded.

"Good-by, Mrs. O'Hara." Chris was bending over her; he had her hand. "I—I certainly admire your family," he said, with a brief laugh. They all laughed. "I think they're all—stars. They have the—the vitality of—of——

"Anyway, they're all stars."

"You've seen us at our worst tonight," Mrs. O'Hara assured him. "Maybe you'd come out and have dinner with us some night, and we'd treat you a little better?"

"I'm sailing on Sunday."

"Well, good-by and God bless you then," Mary Kate's mother said, with a sudden penetrating glance that saw through all the layers of veneer to the lonely, little-boy heart of the child inside him. Her changed, lowered tone spoke only to that.

"Thank you," Chris said, stirred, clearing his throat. He blinked his eyes as he smiled at her, and bent his head suddenly over the fine work-worn, capable hand.

Then it was Mary Kate's turn. She stood by the door, and Chris took both her hands, and looked down at her, as he said, unexpectedly, incoherently:

"And you won't marry me?"

The girl looked very tall and very pale, and was oddly unsmiling as she answered, conventionally.

"No. But thank you for asking."

"Thank you." His face reddened and his voice thickened, and for a moment their hands held them united, and their bewildered eyes were fixed upon each other.

And it was as if both were asking the same uestion.

"What are we saying? What does all this mean! Is this good-by?"

Suddenly Chris, laying aside hat and gloves with a quick gesture, gathered both her hands, against his heart, and bent over her, so that his browned, almost stern face was close to her own.

"There's one thing I left out, Mary," he said. "They may as well hear this, too.

"It's this," he went on, in a dead silence. "I didn't count on this. But I love you very much. Did I say that?"

The ground began to sway gently beneath Mary Kate's feet. Waves—waves lifted her from the floor, and the drumming and rushing of waters was in her ears.

"No," she whispered. "You did not say that!"

She turned to face the others in the kitchen; her shoulder almost touching Chris as she leaned back against him, his hand, that had been holding hers, still gripping her fingers, and his arm half about her. And it was as if, standing there, she measured two worlds—the one against the other.

On one side was only this protecting arm and this gripping hand. She knew little more of him.

And on the other were all the associations that she knew, were all her happy, adored, protected years. The kitchen, with its worn linoleum and familiar frying-pans and chairs and oilcloth-covered table. Mart, handsome and resolute and fiercely protecting; Tom, who was developing so rapidly now, who had come, just of late, so much more close to his older sister, who had seemed, just of late, to need her. Cass, clever and successful and devoted, planning a happy normal life with her—a forty-dollar flat, curtains, dishes, a white wedding in the new Dominican Church in a few weeks' time, years of love and labor shared, children, some day a country home.

And last, and first, and all the time, Mother. Mother, with whom she hurried, sleepy and chilly, to early church, and with whom she walked home, at peace, for hot coffee and special Sunday rolls. Mother, who had taught her, talked to her, scolded her, praised her all her life long, even while she fumbled in her flat purse for movie money for "Mart and Mary Kate," or patiently thumped the heavy iron that meant exquisitely fresh frills and blouses for the beloved eldest daughter.

To choose Chris meant no more kitchen, no more Cass, no more Tom—and in the dear home sense, at least, no more eager, ambitious, headstrong Marty.

It meant that she chose exile, alienation, distance. It meant no more Mother.

WHAT THE BABY NEEDS

By Emilie Hoffman

HANDLE the baby only when absolutely necessary!

Observe regularity in every detail connected with your baby!

These are two rules every mother should learn and conscientiously follow:

Infants should be kept quiet at all times but this is particularly essential to their welfare in warm weather. Many mothers fail to consider the fact that a baby's brain grows more during the first year than throughout the remainder of life—the development of the brain is more rapid than any other part of the body during infancy, hence the baby's life should be one of peace, quiet and absolute comfort.

It is for this reason that children require a vast amount of undisturbed sleep. A baby should be awakened only to take nourishment, and this is one of the details that demand regularity. Feed by the clock and never allow the infant to sleep past the regular feeding time. Picking up a baby just because you feel like fondling him or handling him at all hours to satisfy admiring visitors is positive cruelty to children.

There is nothing wrong with your baby if he sleeps all the time during the first few weeks.

He needs at least 20 hours of sleep in the first month and he must have not less than 16 hours up to his first birthday. Twelve of these should be at night. After six months, in some cases earlier, a child can be put to bed at 6 p. m. and not be disturbed until 6 a. m. Six o'clock is a good bedtime for infants and there must be one or two daytime naps up to the fourth year and longer, if possible. Regular hours for sleep should be strictly adhered to. The daytime naps should be taken out-of-doors for fresh air acts like a tonic to the baby's system.

When one considers the many disturbances an infant is subjected to by his family it is not surprising that so many of them are restless and feverish and suffer from indigestion. Every time you toss or bounce a baby you are putting a strain on its nervous system. So during these warm months observe the two rules given above. Keep your baby cool, clean, absolutely quiet and let him sleep to his heart's content, then you will be giving him the chance to develop and every infant needs that chance, especially during the summer.

Princess Maria, youngest daughter of the King and Queen of Italy.

The Empress PLANS a ROMANCE

By
Princess Catherine Radziwill

Why All Europe Takes Interest in the Proposed Match Between Young Otto, Austrian, Pretender, and Pretty Princess Maria of Italy.

THE rather sensational news of a possible marriage between the Archduke Otto, claimant to the throne of Hungary, if not to the crown of Austria, and the youngest daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, the Princess Maria, may seem improbable to the casual observer. To the initiated the only surprise is the fact of its leaking out. So far the project has been known only to a very few people of the sort who are not much given to talking publicly.

The importance of this royal engagement can be realized only when one understands the very complicated family affairs of Archduke Otto's mother, the unfortunate Zita, former Empress of Austria-Hungary, who has been pursued by bad luck from the very hour of her marriage.

A daughter of the late Duke Robert of Parma, and very proud of her Bourbon blood, which she considered far superior to that of the Hapsburgs, Zita was not wise enough to hide the preference from her husband's Austrian relatives or from the Viennese aristocracy. She did not make friends easily, and those she made all belonged to the Hungarian nobility. It was known that she had been most unhappy when the World War broke out, and this was attributed to her French sympathies. The matter was brought to the notice of the old Emperor Francis Joseph, who spoke to her in bitters terms and compelled her, while her husband was away at the front, to live in the imperial palace, Schonbrunn, under his immediate surveillance. All her letters were opened and she was forbidden to open her mouth in reference to the war. Even her visits to her mother, the widowed Duchess of Parma, were curtailed. Altogether, poor Zita had a hard time of it, until the aged Emperor died, when suddenly she became the ranking first lady of the land.

This was her hour of triumph. But she did not use her opportunity diplomatically. In fact, she contrived to earn for herself even more enemies. In Vienna they began to call her openly "the Italian," just as in years gone by the French had called Marie Antoinette "the Austrian." But the young Empress did not mind that. She loved her husband, knew herself to be beloved by him, and sincerely wished prosperity for the empire over which he now reigned. She saw the war was ruining it, therefore she set herself to put an end to this war.

Archduke Otto, son of ex-Empress Zita, and Austro-Hungarian Pretender.

UNDER his young wife's influence the new sovereign tried through his brother-in-law, Prince Sixtus of Parma, to open peace negotiations with the Allies. He did not succeed in his endeavors. Finally the dominion of the Hapsburgs, together with that of the Hohenzollerns, disappeared in the general cataclysm which changed the face of the world.

Zita with her family went into exile, at first in Switzerland, where a considerable number of her husband's partisans joined them. These visitors did ot understand the situation and did not represent to the deposed Emperor that his best policy would be to wait quietly for a change of public opinion, which was bound to take place in time. He had been a victim of circumstances, and if he had been allowed to remain King of Hungary it would have been to the advantage of the Allies. Unfortunately, Charles was not patient. He could not understand why he, who had done his best toward ending a war which was ruining the Allies as well as his own subjects, should be treated as the enemy he never had been.

As is known, the Emperor made two ineffectual attempts to return to Austria and to Hungary. Finally he was sent to Madeira, where he died after a few months, as much from a broken heart as from the pneumonia to which officially he was reported to have succumbed.

The Empress Zita found herself a widow with seven children and an eighth unborn. She was absolutely penniless, and would not even had sufficient means to bury her husband decently, if her cousin, the Queen Mother of Spain, herself an Austrian Archduchess, had not come to her aid. It was also the Dowager Queen who persuaded her son to offer a refuge to the heartbroken Zita, who accordingly was enabled to sail for Spain, where for a time the royal palace of the Prado, Madrid, was put at her disposal. There she took up her residence and gave birth to her fatherless baby. Later on she found friends who bought her a small villa near Santander on the coast, where she began the long and sad years of probation.

Zita has been accused of ambitions she never nursed. Probably if she could have her own way, she would like nothing better than to forget the past and bring up her children in that same forgetfulness. But her eldest boy, she could not forget even there in Spain, was the rightful King of Hungary, and she felt it her duty to rear him in the eventuality he might be called one day to enter the old Palace of Buda as its master. Zita made up her mind to train him as carefully as she could, and to bring along with his training her own rehabilitation as a woman entirely devoted to her duties—as a mother setting her children's welfare before everything else.

THIS was not so easy as might appear, because everybody seemed to distrust her. Zita, however, was no ordinary woman, and she was possessed of an iron will. She did not make one single mistake in all the anxious years which followed. She discouraged every idea of her partisans to bring about a restoration of the Hapsburgs in Hungary, declaring that until her son was of age this would only mean a continuation of the state of affairs already existing, even though under another name and under different leaders. Her conduct was so tactful that she was given more and more liberty of movement. When her younger brother, Prince Xavier of Bourbon Parma, was married to Mlle. de Bourbon-Busset, the Empress met with a hearty response from the French Government when she asked permission to attend the wedding. She was received in France with all the honors due her imperial rank. But, tactful as ever, she merely witnessed the marriage ceremony and immediately after returned to Spain.

All this bore fruit. The Empress won influential friends, the more so because her brothers also were highly esteemed everywhere, and had made brilliant marriages—one of them, Prince Felix of Bourbon Parma, being the consort of the Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxemburg. Her first cousin was Elizabeth, Queen of the Belgians, and it was said to have been the latter's idea to have Zita bring her sons to Belgium to complete their studies at the University of Louvain. The Queen helped the former Empress to establish a modest home in Brussels, and they became warm friends. Little by little Zita's position improved, even from the material point of view, as, thanks to influences brought to bear in the right quarters, a good deal of her husband's property. Now there is serious talk of Princess Maria of Savoy becoming a Queen of Hungary should Hungary ever call back as its monarch the son and heir of the unhappy Emperor Charles. Such an alliance would fit in with Italian politics, which is interested in keeping on good terms with the Hungarian Government, and in checking Jugo-Slav and Rumanian ambitions.

PRINCESS MARIA of Savoy has been called the prettiest of the daughters of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy. She is also clever and accomplished, speaking several languages fluently; and by a curious coincidence—if it be a coincidence—she has lately taken to studying Hungarian. Prince Otto also is an excellent linguist, as well as a decidedly handsome youth. They would make a charming pair.

There is no denying that many important personages in Europe are in sympathy with the idea of their marriage. Whether or not it will ever materialize is another matter; but it is significant that the story has been allowed to leak out in the press, which it never would have done if the parties interested had not wished to see what reaction such news would produce in Italy and in Hungary, as well as throughout Europe in general. Coming on the top of private informations which reached me some time ago concerning this same subject, I should not be at all surprised to hear the engagement officially announced.

Neutralize Skin Acids

And Look Years Younger Tonight!

The greatest foes to complexion beauty are acid skin excretions. Especially during warm weather, perspiration deposits acids on the skin that undermine even the loveliest complexion. In spite of ordinary washing and cleansing, pores become enlarged, while dust and grime adhering to moist skin often cause irritation, blemishes and unsightly blackheads.

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that cremed magnesia neutralizes acids on the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. The complexion glows with health and beauty, enlarged pores are reduced to the finest texture, and the tell-tale lines of age disappear overnight.

Cremed magnesia is as simple to use as washing your face. All you do is anoint your face, massage for a few minutes and rinse with water. No other washing is necessary. Should your face tingle at the first application, it is a sign that face acids are at work.

You can have the clear, lovely complexion of youth, if you will try cremed magnesia. You will be surprised at the added beauty of your skin because even a single trial will make any face look years younger in five minutes.

To get the genuine cremed magnesia, ask your druggist for Denton's Facial Magnesia. The large dollar bottle contains twice as much as the sixty cent size. Get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight.

An Amazing Invention

The Most Talked About Hygienic Aid for Women of the Day. Totally Different—Banishes All Chafing, All Discomfort from Women's Hygiene

Pure RAYON Cellulose Filled—Soft and Gentle as Fluffed Silk—Effective 3 Times Longer

THERE is now an utterly new and totally different hygiene for women.

Not merely another sanitary pad, but an invention of world-wide importance to women.

A sanitary napkin that is new in design. New in material. New and remarkable in the results that it gives.

Women by the thousands are discarding old-type pads and adopting it. For it does two things no other pad made now or ever made can claim.

Ends All Chafing—All Irritation!

Developed in the world-famed laboratories that cradled the Rayon industry, it is filled with pure Rayon cellulose. Thus it cannot chafe or irritate. Hence, no more discomfort, no more irritation from wearing a sanitary pad! Consider what this means!

Its softness is the gentle softness of Fluffed Silk. Its "feel", a contrast that once you experience, will keep you forever from the irritating old ways. Try it. What you find will amaze you.

Patented under U. S. Patents (U. S. Pat. No. 1702530) it is different from any other pad. No other pad accomplishes its results.

Wear in Safety—Hours Longer

Made under an exclusive process, it is 10 or more times more absorbent than any other sanitary pad now known or ever known to women.

Thus it can be worn in complete safety and protection hours longer than any other pad yet developed. Consider, too, what this means.

Specially treated, its deodorizing power is far greater than that of any other pad—and thus ends even slightest danger of offense. Discards, of course, easily as tissue.

LOVE didn't fail this woman.
She failed love.

It's perfectly plain, from her description of her first marriage, that she was too immature to make a success of anything. She looked grown up, and she felt grown up, but in mind and heart, she was still a child. She didn't know life and it's realities. Her mind was filled ith lovely, but utterly impractical theories about romance.
And when she came in contact with actual marriage, with its humdrum routine, and got smacked down to earth, she immediately concluded that her husband was a brute and love a delusion. The thing that made her first marriage a tragedy was not love, but her silly, unreal mental picture of love —and her own immature, ungoverned "youthful intensity."

You must bring to marriage the same good sense and discipline and dignity and tolerance and humor which you bring to any other human relationship. Unbalanced emotions and untrained characters will wreck marriage, as they would wreck any other job.

Cucumber Relish.

Pare, quarter and seed cucumbers until you have one quart of pulp. Put through grinder one cup white onions, the cucumber and two sweet red peppers. Then cook in the vinegar mixture for 10 minutes. Place in jars and seal while hot. A delightful relish.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

What Dust Does

"WHEN you turn your back the sun the sky looks partic larly blue," began the Litt Black Clock. "When you look the direction of the sun the looks whiter. There is so mu dust scattering itself around. the beautiful colors you see a helped so very, very, very mu by the dust.

"In fact, it's the friendly du that makes the sky what the s appears to be."

"Then we only think we see bl sky?" asked John.

"That's all," said the Little Bla Clock. "The friendly dust helps make the gorgeous colors."

"The blue waves of light," e plained the Little Black Clock, "a made by being interrupted by t dust."

"Some point in interruptin then," John exclaimed.

"Quite a lot. As the waves light are interrupted by bits dust or particles of gas in t air they become very colorful.

"Throughout your days the fi bits of dust are being caught the shorter or blue light waves a scattered to make lovely colors.

"You could make a whole tu blerful of blue sky in a laborator if you wished and had the chance

"I'd love to do that! Wouldn people think I was fine!"

"It has been done lots of times the Little Black Clock said, a John felt a bit disappointed.

"Will you tell us a little mo about it," the children urged.

"All right," agreed the Litt Black Clock. "Meet me at the en of the garden tomorrow eveni and I'll tell you more, and aft that I've a very funny trip I wa you to take."

Balancing the Load

WHEN you have carried tw grips, has it surprised yo that you could do this with n more fatigue than when carryin one? It is a fact you can carry suitcase and grip with greater eas than you can carry one alone. Th explanation is that the weight balanced. It is equally divided be tween the muscles on both sides o the body and there is no overstrai to just one set of muscles as is th case when you carry only one ba Try it on your vacation trip.

Hold It Up.

If you should smash your finger nail badly, hold the hand up fo at least an hour so that the bloo drains out of the finger. This wi prevent the blood from congealin at the smashed place and cause a ugly discoloration of the nail.

Is Romance Just a Foolish Dream That Never Really Materializes?

By SALLY MARTIN

IS romance just a foolish dream, that never really materializes? And does the search for romance mess up and waste a woman's life, and keep her from ever finding real happiness?

A "famous writer" who prefers to remain anonymous, uses up a lot of words in a recent magazine article, to say that it is and does. And Freda's terribly confused. For Freda's in love, and about to marry the only man. But suppose all this is true—??? "Dear Sally:

"Have you read that recent magazine article by a noted woman writer? And what do you think of the ideas this woman says she's found are the only ones that will work out? They sound funny to me, and I'm awfully worried.

"She says 'marry for convenience. Love is unimportant. Sentimental love is really a source of tragedy for American women. Women, because of their physical nature, are more nearly animals than men.' Do you think that's true, Sally?

"Then she goes on to say 'I married for love, and wasted the best years of my life trying to make my marriage a success. I married again, for convenience, and though I brought that marriage only tarnished illusions and the remains of my youthful intensity, I have been rewarded with all the joys of life. Children, and natural love and honor.'

Motherhood Is the Best Career, Says

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Who, at the Age of 69, Is Still Singing on the Stage and Over the Radio—Hopes She Will Be in the Spotlight Until She Dies.

Mme. Schumann-Heink who, at the age of 69, is singing in a New York vaudeville house and over the radio. She made her American debut just 30 years ago in "Ortud."

By MIRIAM TEICHNER.

NEW YORK, June 21.

SHE was 69 years old last week, and she is still breaking rules. She never learned not to break them.

The rule that she broke Friday, when, for the first time, in the Roxy Theater, she made her appearance in the four-a-day, was the rule about encores. There aren't supposed to be any. Ernestine Schumann-Heink was supposed to walk out on the Roxy stage, sing her song—she had chosen "Danny Boy," because, she says, she has made so many wounded soldiers happy with that song and so she especially loves it—and that was all. Instead of which, she finished with "Danny Boy," accepted, with that funny little boyish bob of her queenly head, the plaudits and bravos of her audience, and then, with the mischievous air of a naughty child, said: "I know it's against the rules, but I'm sure they won't mind."

After which Ernestine Schumann-Heink, world's greatest contralto, last of the Titans, mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, presented her rapturous audience with not one encore, but two; Arditi's "Bolero" and the well-loved Brahm's "Cradle Song."

During this week of her appearance at the Roxy Theater, Ernestine Schumann-Heink will sing no less than 30 times. But she loves it. It is meat and drink and breath of life to her. In spite of which, there's no use pretending that the great, gracious diva wasn't nervous about her first singing to a moving picture theater audience, because she was.

"Ach," she said, laying her big, capable hand on her capacious, rose georgette clad bosom, in her little dressing room, after the singing of that one planned-for song, and those two others which were simply the spontaneous ebullition of her love of singing and her generous love for those to whom she sings, "Ach, I did not sleep all night. And this morning I drank coffee like a crazy thing."

"Like a crazy thing," translated into terms of the number of cups, dwindled down to just one extra. But that was breaking another rule for the diva, because she keeps herself disciplined as to food and drink.

"Yes, I am nervous," she repeated. "I am always nervous until I get on the stage. And then it is gone—so!"

ONE wonders, when one sees her now, at her own laughing criticism of her appearance. "I am homely," she says. And apparently she believes it. She tells how, when she was first interviewed by the director of the Hof Opera in Vienna, he said: "With such a face and no personality she can never be a singer. She might better go home and run a sewing machine." And, again, when her father, doubtful of the temptations of the opera stage for the young thing with the incredible voice, said: "I don't know what will become of you, Tini." She answered him: "I'm safe. I'm so homely, you see."

Homely she may have been as a young girl. Homely as a great-grandmother, who still retains her vivacity and her love of life, she assuredly is not. Her thick white hair is knotted high on the well-shaped head. The eyes and the skin are clear and young. And when she clasps the hand of a visitor and in answer to a compliment as to her performance on the stage, says earnestly as though that praise, of all the praise in the world, meant most to her, "You were satisfied? Ach, that is good," she is beautiful.

"I am glad to sing here," she says. "I like to sing to as many people as possible. I am happy when I sing. I shall sing until I die."

Retiring? The word means nothing to her. She hasn't the remotest idea of retiring. She is strong and she is well, and she is only 69 years old. Weaklings can retire when they reach the traditional Biblical three-score-and-ten. But not Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

"Seventy? What is that?" she asks in scornful tones. "There are people who said that they believe I will retire when I am 70. But to me 70 is only a number. It is 10 more than 60 and 10 less than 80. I sang when I was 60 and I shall sing, God willing, when I am 80. I shall die singing."

She is religious, this woman of strength and of song. She says that there is not enough religion in the world today, and that that is one reason for unhappiness and dissatisfaction. "I am old," she says, "and it may be that my joints are a little stiff. If I feel my 69 years at all it is in the joints, not in the voice. But whether I am stiff or no I go down on my knees every night to thank God for what He has given me and to ask Him a blessing upon my loved ones and my friends."

Those loved ones have been increased by the number of one since she left California. When she arrived at her suite in the Buckingham Hotel here there was a wire awaiting her that announced the birth of her second great-grandchild, born to her granddaughter Ilse. "And it is a girl," she said in tones of deep delight. "That is the best of all. I told Ilse before I left California that if it were not a girl I would spank her."

ERNESTINE SCHUMANN-HEINK, born in Austria, of a Bohemian father and an Italian mother, Schumann-Heink, for 53 years an outstanding figure in the operatic life of two continents, is a woman who, despite her operatic career, is at heart deeply conservative. She believes that motherhood is the best career for a woman, save that woman be a genius of the first rank.

"Better a first rate wife and home maker and mother," she says, "than a second rate artist. There is nothing to me more pitiful than the thought of a mediocre artist giving up children and the possibilities of a home to inflict herself on the public. Sometimes it is possible, as it has been in my case, to have both a career and a home and children, but it would be impossible for a temperamental person."

She has no use for "those temperamental artists," as she calls them. "Why," she demands, "just because they have a cultivated gift, does that make them different from or better than the rest of the world? There is no excuse for such nonsense. Temperament—temperament is nothing but an excuse for bad manners."

In line with this conservatism is her attitude towards women in politics and women smoking She finishes off both questions in a neat, contralto-voiced epigram. "Women with the vote," she says, in magnificent disregard for facts, "are like a child who cries for a new top, and when she gets it doesn't want it." And as to cigarettes, "Bah! what can be more distressing to a father and mother than to see a girl spoiling her beautiful feminine qualities — and possibly a fine voice—by smoking those nasty little things? Cigarettes will never keep any home fires burning.

She herself has never smoked, does not drink, observes great moderation of food, although she loves to cook and, for that matter, to eat. "You should taste my apfel-strudel and my good, strong vegetable soup," says the world's greatest contralto. "Those are two things I'm as proud of as I am of my two great-grandchildren."

THERE are six of her children still living—two sons were lost during the World War, one on the German and one on the American side—and there are 11 grandchildren, to say nothing of those two greatly prized great-grandchildren. The first child to be born her on American soil—a son born exactly a month after she made her memorable debut as Ortrud in "Lohengrin" with the Metropolitan Opera Company she named George Washington Schumann-Heink.

Her son, Ferdinand, is co-author with John Reinhardt of "Mamba," the all-talking technicolor drama which is on the bill at the Roxy this week. Ferdinand will be here tomorrow to help celebrate his mother's all-but-one-year-of-three-score-and-ten birthday.

The hour was approaching for the second appearance on the stage that afternoon of the great contralto. Visitors were told that madame needed a bit of rest. But as she shook hands good-by she said: "You like my dress, yes?" It was a lovely dress of rose-colored chiffon. "You should see," she said. "I have two more even nicer." They are evening dresses, and one is white-and-gold and one is rose-and-white. "I am an old woman," she said, "and fat. But I love pretty dresses."

A carrot or two added to the dried lima beans you are cooking will add much to the flavor.

The Summer Woman Changes Her Spots

THE well-dressed woman puts one over on the leopard this summer for she changes her spots nearly every time she changes her costume.

With Paris midsummer styles showing even more spots than the spring collections did it is no longer a question whether women will wear spots but what variety of spots they will wear.

Everything from printed chiffons for evening to suiting materials for advance autumn reflects spot and dot vogue.

Too Soiled.

It is really a saving on linens and clothing not to let them get too soiled before laundering. The hard rubbing is what wears them out and it also wears out the laundress as well.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts for the New York Academy of Medicine. Edited by Dr. Iago Galdston.

Warts.

THE common variety of wart is infectious in character.

It is "catchy" in the sense that it may be contracted from another, and in that it spreads from part to part my transmission of the infecting agent.

The most common location of this type of wart is on the back of the fingers, around the knuckles and at the nail margins. Because the common wart tends to become contaminated with dirt, its color usually is either brown or black

In children, it is not uncommon to find associated with finger warts a flat type of wart that appears on the face. These, too, are contagious in character.

A painful type of wart sometimes is found on the sole of the foot. These warts, commonly located at the heel or ball of the big toe, often cause pain in walking.

While warts sometimes will disappear of their own accord, they more commonly need attention. Especially is this the case when they are numerous or bothersome.

Glacial acetic acid is the most commonly used caustic and usually is applied twice daily to the warty growth. The acid, however, is destructive to the tissue and must be used with great caution. The healthy tissue surrounding the wart should be protected by a coating of vaseline.

Face warts particularly must be handled with caution. Bearing in mind the dire consequences that might follow the unskilled treatment of a face wart, the task should not be trusted to any but those properly trained.

Warts in the aged and in the senile should be regarded with suspicion. Not infrequently they are the beginnings of cancerous growths.

They should be left alone and guarded against irritation until a diagnosis is made and proper treatment is begun.

A Real Black.

It has been found that stove blacking mixed with black ink, instead of the customary water, will keep even the worst red lids of the stove or range in splendid condition.

Ham Mousse.

Cold meats and variations of them grow increasingly popular as the days grow warmer. Whip one-half pint thick cream with a tiny pinch of salt to a stiff froth. Stir in one-half cup liquid aspic with one-half cup pounded ham. Whip until well blended, then pack into a mouse mold and set on ice until firm. The mold should first be coated over with the liquid aspic and then decorated with slices of hard-boiled egg. Unmold on a bed of crisp lettuce.

(Copyright, 1930.)

YESTERDAY MRS. ROSLYN PROMISED TO SELL HER OSSER STOCK TO FLINT BUT HOW CAN YOU SELL SOMETHING YOU HAVEN'T GOT?
YOUR BROKER?, AND YOUR OSSER STOCK? YOU GOT A BROKER AND OSSER STOCK LIKE I GOT POLO PONIES—WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WHEN HE CALLS FOR THE STOCK?
I WOULDN'T HAVE ANY TROUBLE GETTING 200 SHARES FROM RENROD AT THE MARKET AND MAKE A NICE PROFIT ON HIM.
OH, THAT'S WHAT YOU'RE GOING TO DO? AIN'T YOU HOOKED THIS POOR TRUSTING SOUL, FLINT, ENOUGH?
WHAT DO YOU MEAN HOOKED HIM?—HE WAS ONE OF THE BEST CONFIDENCE MEN THAT EVER PEDDLED CONFIDENCE—WHY, HE SOLD MORE STUFF THAT WASN'T THAN ANYONE ON EARTH AND I HOOKED HIM?
HE'S RICH NOW—THAT MAKES HIM LOOK RESPECTABLE BUT DON'T GET SENTIMENTAL—WHEN HE COMES BACK FOR MY STOCK, I WON'T BE HERE—I'LL GET OUT OF THIS MESS IF I HAVE TO CALL IN THE UNDERTAKER
LET'S GO! NOW YOU'RE SAVING WORDS! I'M SO SICK OF THIS PLACE THAT IF I EVER GET DOUGH ENOUGH, I'LL SPEND THE REST OF MY LIFE TRAVELING THE THROUGH TRAIN PAST THIS PLACE

Gooseberry Gelatin.

Mix together one cup sugar, four cups gooseberries and two quarts water. Cook slowly until fruit is well done. Dissolve two ounces gelatin in cold water. Strain the hot fruit over a cup of sugar and pour over the gelatin. Stir until dissolved and then pour into a mold to harden. Turn out on an attractive dish and garnish with sweetened whipped cream. You will have a deliciously flavored dessert.

Better at Home.

Don't take the children with you on a shopping trip if you can possibly avoid it. It is always hard to concentrate on your buying if you have restless children with you, and they will always tire first and curtail your shopping.

Hundreds of Thousands Of Wise Americans Demand Kruschen Salts

Keeps you well and fit all the time—skin clear and body in splendid condition.

Just think of it: these new, better and different salts were only introduced into America a few months ago—yet a host of intelligent Americans are healthier and happier because of their supreme goodness.

Kruschen Salts are the daily health dose of millions of people the world over.

One half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning gently but surely stimulates the liver and bowels to healthy elimination.

But the six salts in Kruschen do more than cause regular elimination—the man or woman who takes them regularly need have no fear of poisons polluting the system which is the cause of many annoying and depressing ills.

One bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) costs but 85c and one bottle will prove of vast benefit to people who have constipation, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, acidity and auto-intoxication.

Not only that but one bottle will bring about body activity—increase in energy, vigor and ambition, sparkling eyes and skin clear and body free from blemishes—millions know all this—you ought to know it.

Ham Mousse.

Cold meats and variations of them grow increasingly popular as the days grow warmer. Whip one-half pint thick cream with a tiny pinch of salt to a stiff froth. Stir in one-half cup liquid aspic with one-half cup pounded ham. Whip until well blended, then pack into a mouse mold and set on ice until firm. The mold should first be coated over with the liquid aspic and then decorated with slices of hard-boiled egg. Unmold on a bed of crisp lettuce.

YESTERDAY MRS. ROSLYN PROMISED TO SELL HER OSSER STOCK TO FLINT BUT HOW CAN YOU SELL SOMETHING YOU HAVEN'T GOT?
YOUR BROKER?—AND YOUR OSSER STOCK? YOU GOT A BROKER AND OSSER STOCK LIKE I GOT POLO PONIES—WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WHEN HE CALLS FOR THE STOCK?
I WOULDN'T HAVE ANY TROUBLE GETTING 200 SHARES FROM RENROD AT THE MARKET AND MAKE A NICE PROFIT ON HIM.
OH, THAT'S WHAT YOU'RE GOING TO DO? AIN'T YOU HOOKED THIS POOR TRUSTING SOUL, FLINT, ENOUGH?
WHAT DO YOU MEAN HOOKED HIM?—HE WAS ONE OF THE BEST CONFIDENCE MEN THAT EVER PEDDLED CONFIDENCE—WHY, HE SOLD MORE STUFF THAT WASN'T THAN ANYONE ON EARTH AND I HOOKED HIM?
HE'S RICH NOW—THAT MAKES HIM LOOK RESPECTABLE BUT DON'T GET SENTIMENTAL—WHEN HE COMES BACK FOR MY STOCK, I WON'T BE HERE—I'LL GET OUT OF THIS MESS IF I HAVE TO CALL IN THE UNDERTAKER
LET'S GO! NOW, YOU'RE SAVING WORDS! I'M SO SICK OF THIS PLACE THAT IF I EVER GET DOUGH ENOUGH, I'LL SPEND THE REST OF MY LIFE TRAVELING THE THROUGH TRAIN PAST THIS PLACE

Gooseberry Gelatin.

Mix together one cup sugar, four cups gooseberries and two quarts water. Cook slowly until fruit is well done. Dissolve two ounces gelatin in cold water. Strain the hot fruit over a cup of sugar and pour over the gelatin. Stir until dissolved and then pour into a mold to harden. Turn out on an attractive dish and garnish with sweetened whipped cream. You will have a deliciously flavored dessert.

Better at Home.

Don't take the children with you on a shopping trip if you can possibly avoid it. It is always hard to concentrate on your buying if you have restless children with you, and they will always tire first and curtail your shopping.

Mrs. L. L. Cole has departed for Europe and the case is in the hands of the prosecution.

TOCKS SHOW NCERTAIN PRICE TREND; RAILS WEAK

rriers Selected as Focal Point of Bearish Attacks —Nervous Short Cover-ing Causes Numerous Rallies in Industrials and Utilities.

RADE IS LITTLE MORE ACTIVE

merican Tobacco Closes 6 3-4 Points Higher and Such Issues as U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Ra-dio Gain 2 or More Before Close of Market.

the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 25.—Price vements were uncertain on the ck and leading commodity mar- s today, as bears cautiously dded about to discover what t of support might be forth- ming. The steady decline now nning into its fourth week without single interruption of more than e day is making an extraor- nary prase in Wall Street history. hile bears have encountered lit- aggressive opposition, the pro- cted nature of the decline has gun to make them nervous.

The rail shares were again se- cted as the focal point of bearish tacks, and these issues generally sed lower, now hovering around e levels of 1927. Nervous short vering however, caused numer- s rallies in the industrials and ilities, and many of these issues sed substantially higher. Trad- g was a little more active than rday, but with total sales of than 3,400,000 shares, was mparatively dull.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres of the eveland Trust Co., whose state- ent that the bull market was mmitting suicide during the ld upward movement of 1928, eated something of a sensation, s now expressed the opinion that e bear market's life is drawing a close. He stated that "an ab- t and consequential upward ovement stock and commodity ices should be well under way by bor day."

Tobacco Up 6 Points.

American Tobacco B surged up close 6¾ points higher, reflect- g rumors of an early splitup and tra dividend. Such issues as merican Can, Byers, Stone & Web- er, Public Service of N. J., and estinghouse Electric closed 3 or ore higher, while issues up 2 or ore included U. S. and Bethle- m Steels, and Radio.

A few of the rails rallied. Balti- ore & Ohio closing up about 2 ints, and New York Central and ew Haven a point or so. Atchi- n regained most of an early loss 5 points. These were exceptions the generally lower trend in is group, however. Among rails f 2 to 5 were Norfolk and West- n, Northern Pacific, Delaware & dson, Lehigh, Frisco, Reading, d Louisville & Nashville.

The weekly steel trade reviews ere somewhat more favorable an expected. Iron Age said, "an pending general business recov- y is sensed by leaders of the steel dustry who have passed through any cycles of trade expansion nd contraction." This publication timated ingot production at 64 r cent, only one per cent lower n last week, but indicated that rther curtailment may be expect- d during the next few weeks ow- g to vacation schedules on part users. Iron Age's composite rice for finished steel showed a eduction for the first time in five ears.

Credit remained extraordinarily bundant, with call money renew- g at 2 per cent for the first time nce March. There is even some ague talk of a 2 per cent redis- ount rate.

Wheat Has Rally.

Wheat rallied ½ to ¾ of a ent reflecting better export de- mand, and bullish crop reports. Corn, however, eased, closing ⅛ % of a cent lower. Cotton sold ff a little at times, but showed mparative steadiness.

Stock prices with other ta- bles and market news will be found on pages 12C, 13C, 14C and 15C.
